U.S., Hanoi gear up for secret talks in Paris

By FLORA LEWIS New York Times Service

PARIS - U.S. and Vietnamese diplomats met here Friday in the first formal talks since the fall of Saigon last year.

Although the goal of the new series of talks is said to be normalization of relations. Friday's contacts were considered preliminary, to test whether conditions are favorable for full-scale Washington-Hanoi negotiations on the aftermath of the war and postwar issues.

On the U.S. side, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger issued firm instructions that all comment on the meeting, beyond a bare announcement that it took place, must come from Washington.

Even the U.S. Embassy statement that "issues of interest to both countries were raised, with the missing in-action issue our primary concern," and referring further questions to the State Department, was drafted in Washington.

Reason for renewal of the intense ecrecy which surrounded the negotiations Kissinger held leading up to the 1973 Paris peace accords was not explained. The talks were deliberately held at the level of second-highest ranking embassy officials in Paris, it was understood, in order to make clear their tentative, probing status.

higher-level delegation of Vietnam's deputy foreign minister and former ambas-sador in Paris who visited here last week, it was learned. Nor, diplomatic sources said, did the Vietnamese use that visit to pass any messages to the Americans through the French, as they have done on other occasions.

Friday's session, which lasted two hours, was expected to consist only of an exchange of prepared statements by each side, although there was no confirmation even of this afterward.

However, the U.S. Embassy statement said, "We can confirm that today our deputy chief of mission met with the counselor of the embassy of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam."

That is the new name for the whole country adopted in Hanoi after the formal unification of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North) and the Republic of Vietnam (South) earlier this year. U.S. use of this official name for Vietnam as a whole implied recognition of the change and of Hanoi's right to speak for the nation.

The talks were held at the house in suburban Neuilly that had served as the embassy of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, Hanoi's Viet Cong negotiating partner during the four-year Paris conference with the U.S. and the now defunct Saigon government The house is now an annex of the Hanoi embassy here.

The initial positions of each side as they resumed formal contact were well known. The U.S. has maintained that it must have a full account of the fate of some 800 U.S. servicemen listed as missing in action before any other issues can be discussed.

The Vietnamese say they are willing to do their best to fulfill this obligation under the 1973 accords, but only on condition that the U.S. fulfills its pledge of postwar reconstruction aid at the same time.

Officers in Viet 'periled most' by GIs

Commanding officers in the Vietnam war apparently faced a far greater risk of being killed by their own men than by the enemy, according to a former Army psychiatrist.

There was an unprecedented upsurge in assaults on officers during the Vietnam conflict, greatly exceeding the rate in other wars, said Dr. Thomas C. Bond, former chief of the psychiatry division of the U.S. disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

During World War I, there were only about 370 cases of violence against superiors brought to court-martial. This low rate also prevailed in World War II and the Korean war.

BUT IN THE Vietnam war, there were almost 800 recorded incidents where officers were attacked with explosives alone, Bond reported in the current issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry, published by the American Psychiatric Association. These figures do not include assaults against superiors with weapons such as

The use of explosives became popularly known as "fragging" because of the frequent use of the fragmentation grenade, explained Bond, now at Harvard.

The phenomenon reached a peak in 1971, when officers were being attacked with explosives at the rate of nearly one assault for every 500 soldiers, he said. Bond's study of 28 soldiers convicted for explosive assaults against officers revealed that the wide availability of a variety of drugs appeared to be the key factor that made Victnam different from other wars.

ALL OF THE MEN in the study said they used a wide variety of drugs, and 87.5 per cent reported being acutely intoxicated on drugs or alcohol at the time of the attacks, he said.

'It seems clear that drugs were essential factors in the assaults; they alleviated whatever anxieties or inhibitions the men had about committing the assault," said Bond. Besides alcohol, drugs used included amphetamines, hallucinogens, barbiturates, and opiates.

The men who tried to blow up their superior officers, including first sergeants, were not war protestors or racial activists. Most had enlisted rather than being

One crew member was known dead and 14 had been rescued by the time the freighter Wisteria headed for Japan with some of the survivors, the Coast Guard said.

ANOTHER ship that had been the first to arrive on the scene after the Carnelian-1 sank in a storm Thursday was driven off earlier by the rough weather. A Japanese ship that reached the area Friday morning left in the afternoon without explanation, the Coast Guard said.

The Coast Guard cutter Mellon, en route from Alaska, was not expected to reach the shipwreck site — 1,400 miles northwest of Honolulu - until this afternoon.

Carter faces '78 budget hike already

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government spending in 1978 could total $450 billion, even without any new programs President-elect Jimmy Carter may propose, the Ford administration estimated Friday.

The amount is nearly 10 per cent above spending estimates for the current fiscal year of nearly $413 billion. It would result in a budget deficit of between $32 billion to $56 billion.

The outoing administration also projected that the nation's unemployment rate possibly won't drop below 7 per cent until late next year, nearly one year behind schedule.

THE projections could change a great deal after Carter takes office, since he has pledged to improve the employment outlook through job-creating pro-

The new budget and economic projections will serve as a guide for Ford in preparing the proposed fiscal 1978 budget he will send to Congress on Jan. 17, three days before Carter takes office. The fiscal year 1978 begins Oct. 1, 1977.

Budget Director James T. Lynn has said the figures should give important early guidance to Carter in planning changes in the 1977 and 1978 budgets.

THE NEW figures raised questions whether Ford could have delivered on his campaign pledge to achieve a balanced budget in 1979 had he been elected.

The lowest possible deficit the new figures show is 32 billion, if high and unemployment is low. Even in that improbable scenario under a Ford administration, a $32 billion deficit would be a considerable amount to eliminate in one year. Carter has pledged a balanced budget by 1981.

The new budget projections are required by the Congressional Budget Act and are based on the anticipated cost of continuing federal programs at 1977 levels.

The figures do not take into account policy changes and any new federal programs that are not already law.

The Office of Management and Budget cau-tioned that the estimates are neither recommended amounts nor estimates as to what the figures for 1978 will actually turn out to be."

The judge, who last September sentenced Miss Hearst to seven years in prison for bank robbery, did not indicate when he would rule on the new trial motion. The defense claimed the retrial was in order because the prosecution had suppressed some evidence beneficial to the defendant.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey said later that a security plan using federal marshals, or marshals and private guards, would be given to Orrick early next week, with a ruling

The attorney said the plan was needed because of numerous threats against Miss Hearst for her reported willingness to testify against former

If Miss Hearst, 22, were granted bail, she still would not go free immediately. She faces state ately. She faces state charges of robbery, kidnaping and assault related to a Los Angeles sporting goods store shooting incident.

Deadline set for bids on Irvine Co.—maybe

Prospective buyers of the Irvine Co. may have to meet a 5 p.m. Thursday deadline to submit any new bid for the vast ranch and development holding in Orange County, the controlling Irvine Foundation announced Friday.

The decision to fix a deadline for bids other than the three now under consideration was reached Friday in the chambers of Santa Ana Superior Court Judge James Judge.

Easement

- My house is adjacent to the Sunnyside Memorial Gardens cemetery, 4725 Cherry Ave. When I moved here 27 years ago, I was led to believe that I had a 10-foot easement along the back of my lot and that there was another 10-foot easement owned by the city on the cemetery's side. But Sunnyside is now building crypts about three feet from the back of my lot. When I asked the cemetery people about the easement, they said they were told they could use the easement because the city didn't need it. Sumnyside has taken down the fence that separates the cemetery from the nearby houses, and the word is that the fence won't be replaced. Can Action Line shed some light on this matter? H.T., Long Beach.

Sunnyside is building the crypts on its property, not the easement land, according to Cecil Bryan, general impager and president of the cemetery. He said the easement, which is controlled by the Southern California Edison Co., not the city, is 15 feet wide in some places and 20 in others. Sunnyside's fence was two to three feet inside the cemetery's property line, and for years most of the homeowners in your area have been using the easement as part of their backyards. Before construction of the crypts began, Sunnyside had the property surgeyed to determine the correct boundaries. The erypts are being built about three feet inside the cemetery's property line and some 20 feet from your actual property line. Bryan said the cemetery will replace the rence after the 500 crypts are completed.

The recent midair collision between two light air-craft over Venice saddened me and pointed up a problem which I, as a longtime flight instructor, feel strongly about. Both planes were flown by solo pilots, whose right-side vision simply is not adequate. I feel all pilots, in the left seat, should be required to carry abservers in the right seat in side-by-side seating arrangements. How can I impress this upon the Federal Aviation Administration? C.R.K., Lakewood.

Suggestions for regulation changes may be submitted to John McLucas, FAA Administrator, 800 Inde-pendence Ave. S.W., Washington, D.C. 20591. A local FAA official, however, said he had never heard this proposal made before, and an official of the National Transportation and Safety Bureau, which investigates aviation accidents, said he knows of no studies correlating midair crashes with solo pilots. The presence of right-side observeors did not prevent the Nov. 4 midair črash of two light planes over Terminal Island which took the lives of both occupants of one plane.

I am a single female student attending Long Beach City College, and I'm writing this to complain about an extremely unfair situation with which I and other students have to deal. At the beginning of each semester, every registered student is issued a parking permit for on-campus parking. Yet the number of parking spaces is so limited that there simply isn't room for all who would park. For example, on Wednesdays I have a 10 a.m. class, yet even arriving as early as 8:30 I am unable to find on-campus parking. Many students have spent combined hours circling the campus or waiting for someone to leave a parking space. The on-campus parking situation is compounded by the legal restrictions placed on adjacent street parking. The streets are posted with a maximum of one and two-hour parking, yet many class sessions are two and three hours in length. This results in ticketing of student cars when it has been impossible for the student to repark his car. It is grossly unfair for the city of Long Beach to take we grossiy untair for the city of Long Beach to take advantage of an impossible situation simply to collect revenues. Many of us students do not have incomes such that we can afford to pay these tickets, yet we are affered no alternative. Aren't city officials just enough to provide a remedy to this situation? Krishna girl's kin surrender

ARCADIA (AP) - Five members of Madonna Slavin Walford's family who allegedly abducted her to break her Hare Krishna faith surrendered to police Friday and were released on bond for misdemeanor charges of false imprisonment.

They were accused of abducting here at her parents' home in Arcadia on Oct. 23 and driving her to Northern California. where she escaped five days later.

Charged were her mother, Anna M. Slavin; two brothers, Terence, 29, of Pasadena, and Gerald, 27, of Aptos; her sister, Coleen Hughes, 23; and her brother-in-law, Charles H. Hughes, 28, both of Temple City.

Mrs. Slavin called for a grand jury investigation of the Hare Krishna cult as she left the Arcadia jail. "We'd like a grand jury investigation," she said, "not only for my daugh-ter, but for all young peo-

The district attorney's office filed charges against her family and two asserted deprogrammers on Wednesday.

No politics in assessor audit. says Bellino

Carmine Bellino, head of an outside audit team hired by the county, said Friday he plans to remain "politically independent" in his probe of assessment practices in the office of Assessor Philip Watson.

At an informal meeting with newsmen, Bellino said he has "no precon-ceived ideas" and stressed: "I'm just looking for facts. If it turns out Watson's office has been doing a good job, I'll not hesitate to say so."

Bellino said he has not yet spoken to Watson but plans to do so in the near future.

Because of time constraints — his final report is due March 1, 1977 — Bellino said he expected his inquiry to focus on commercial and industrial properties, particularly those referred to him by Supervisor Baxter Ward.

Asked for his opinion on the long-standing political conflict between Ward and Watson, Bellino replied, "Frankly, I'm trying to stay clear of any political situation. Politics has nothing to do with my probe, which is concentrated on assessment practices."

trial delayed

The trial of mass murder suspect Edward Charles Allaway, 37, was continued Friday in Santa Ana Superior Court until Jan. 31.

Allaway, former custodian at Fullerton State University, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to slaying seven persons July 12.

Orange County Public Defender Ronald Butler, appointed to defend Allaway, asked for more time Friday to prepare his defense.

Mass murder Review by state board ordered

School-integration plan drawn

CULVER CITY (AP)— The State Board of Education Friday accepted a report on implementing integration in California schools and asked the Department of Education to review it before making final recommendations in January.

The report from the Equal Educational Opportunities Commission (EEOC) proposed that each school district be required to survey the racial makeup of its schools and formulate a plan to cor-rect any imbalances. Each district would submit its report and corrective plan to the Department of Education for evaluation and approval.

Under the commission's plan, a segregated school would be defined as one. "in which the minority student enrollment is so disproportionate as realis-tically to isolate minority students from other students and thus deprive minority and majority students of an integrated educational experience."

A district found to have segregated schools could adopt its own standard of racial balance or utilize state guidelines in correcting the imbalances.

Board President Marion W. Drinker said there was disagreement among board members on how much leadership the state should provide on desegregating local schools. The board currently has no guidelines on integration in state schools.

In other action, the board rejected a request from a San Francisco consumer group that it order school districts not to participate in promotions of commercial products. It postponed discussion on adopting nonmandatory guidelines on such promotions, thus leaving the decision with the local school districts.

the measure's defeat at the palls Nov. 2 would no impact on the poard.

Prop. 14, sponsored by the UFW, would have written the hoard's access rule into law and made some pro-labor changes in the tarm labor law.

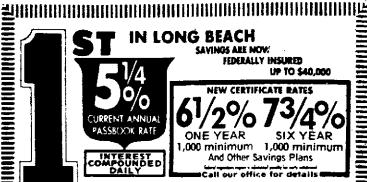

On the budget issue, board officials cited higher travel, wage and legal costs as some of the reasons for the increased budget, and Brown termed the $8,817,000 budget proposal a reasonable one.

Since the board was set in August 1975, its budget has been the target of critics, including growers and legislators from rural districts, who argue the board favors Chavez' UFW.

FOR several months this year, the board, which conducts secret ballot elections for farm workers to choose union representation, was shut down while the Legislature batfled over board funding.

The board now must submit its budget proposal to Gov. Brown's Finance Department. If the Finance Department accepts that amount it goes into the governor's proposed budget which he sends to the Legislature.

The Legislature then holds bearings on the budget, including the farm labor board appropriation - sure to be controversial because of growers' and rural legislators' criticism of the board's record.

U.S. 'is more vulnerable to nuclear attack'

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) -The United States has let itself become more vulner able to nuclear attack than the Soviet Union, according to a Library of Congress study published

Friday.
"U.S. strategy still counts on the retaliatory capabilities to create stability, disregarding city defenses for most practi-cal purposes," it said.

The Soviet Union, however, by no means subscribes to similar concepts," said the study, written by John M. Collins, senior specialist in national defense for the Library of Congress.

The study said that, in contrast to this country, vigorous efforts to proteck both population and production base are everywhere evident" in Russia.

"Its air defenses are the world's most comprehen-sive and sophisticated," the study said. "The Kremlin continues to pursue aggressive research and development programs that could culminate in an antiballisticmissile breakthrough wherewe least expect it.

It also said "Soviet stress on civil defense is very strong," while this country's civil defense was termed a charade. The study outlined various protective measures the United States could take instead of relying on its retaliatory arsenal to deter nuclear war.

It said "perfect de-fenses would not be needed," adding the effort would be directed toward shoring up deterrence "by restoring a better balance between U.S. and Soviet vulnerabilities, which are no longer mutual.'

"Even so, switching strategies would not be simple," the study said. "Any decisions to strengthen U.S. city defenses would depend on motivating the American public to support expensive programs that compete with domestic prior-

Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., who requested the study, said that finding correct answers to the questions it raised "is critical to the continued security of the nation.

Catalogs number in billions as mail orders boom

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press

Catalogs are jamming mailboxes and piling up on coffee tables as the holiday season approaches. But the mail-order business has become much more than a Christmas bonus for many compa-

Americans are expected to spend a record $60 billion this year on items purchased through the mail, either from catalogs or as a result of promotions for individual produrts. About 7 per cent of all retail sales are mail-order purchases. The Direct Mail Advertising Association said the three biggest catalog issuers - Sears Roebuck & Co., Montgomery Ward and J. C. Penney - have annual mail-order sales of $33 billion.

Ann Cole, speaking for the direct mailers group, said the boom is the result of several factors: the growing number of working women who have less time to shop; the rising cost of transportation and fuel for a trip to the store; a greater acceptance of the business in general: and a greater variety of items to choose from.

"Everybody's doing it." said Miss Cole, when asked about catalog selling. A few years ago, she said, the Fifth Avenue department stores sent out one catalog a year. Now, they may send out a dozen booklets over a 12-month period, some featuring special mail-order collec-

Miss Cole said 2.26 billion catalogs were pro-duced in 1975, up 70 million from the previous year. Sears alone sends out 300 million catalogs a year, she said.

The catalogs offer everything from steak to shoes, from designer dresses to dishwashers. Companies like Sears provide the staples; firms such as Neiman-Marcus of Dallas market the exotic.

George Worley of Montgomery Ward said the company does about $1 billion a year in catalog sales, compared to $3 billion in sales at retail outlets. He said the growth in the catalog division has almost kept pace with the increase in the retail area, where new stores have boosted business.

Montgomery Ward sends out six million copies of each catalog or book, as it is known in the industry. There are four major catalogs: the spring and fall issues of about 1,500 pages each and smaller Christmas and mid-summer sale books.

The company also sends out monthly sale catalogs to reflect rapidly changing prices, colors and styles in order to compete with retail outlets.

Rising costs for paper, printing, artwork and postage have caused prob-lems for some mail-order firms. Each of the 1,500-page Montgomery Ward catalogs, for example, costs $3 to produce, Worley said.

Some companies charge for their catalogs. The customer applies the purchase price of the catalog — usually between $1 and $3 — to the cost of the items selected.

Worley said Montgomery Ward considered charging for its catalogs, but rejected the idea. Instead, the company is making mailing lists more selective, using a computer to insure that the catalogs reach "those peo-ple who are most likely to buy from us.

The catalog began in 1971 as the Kenton Collection, featuring items available in stores controlled by the Kenton Corp.

Horchow took over com pletely in January 1974 and restructured the catalog so it was not linked to any retail outlet.

Horchow said 1976 sales are estimated at $16 million, up from $14 million last year and from only $2 million in 1971. "The catalog business is, in our decade, what the discount store was 10 years ago."

he said. Horchow sends out one catalog a month — except for December — and will mail 13 million catalogs this year. About one-third of the sales are the Sept. 15 to Dec. 15 Christmas

The items for sale range from a $5 device for a wine bottle to prevent drips drips while pouring, to a $10,000 set of antique fans from China. Another type of catalog product is food. Omaha Steaks International, a Nebraska firm — founded in 1917 as a supplier of meat to hotels, hospitals and other institutions began experimenting with mail-order food on a local basis in 1952. Today, it ships a complete line of meats and poultry, along with some gourmet items such as Beef Wellington, on a national and international basis. Products are packed in special containers with enough dry ice to keep them frozen for seven to 10 days.

Frederick Simon, executive vice president of the company, said the business has "grown very dramatically" in the past five years. We have products that people in some areas can't get in a retail store," he said. In addition, "there's an ease to buying by mail."

The company sends out about half a million catalogs a year in 18 mailings Simon declined to give sales figures for the pri-vately held company, but said Omaha Steaks would handle 180,000 shipments this year, compared to 50. 000 five years ago.

Vast impact of oil hike stressed

By GEORGE GEDDA

WASHINGTON (AP) -The specter of serious worldwide economic effects is seen as the best hope for persuading the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to forego an anticipated oilprice increase, State Department officials said

Friday.
The U.S. has been consulting closely with Japan and Western Europe to devise a strategy for avert-ing a price increase and also has made its views known to the oil produc-

But officials said U.S. leverage over the OPEC oil cartel may be diminishing. Since the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74, U.S. dependence upon Arab producers has increased by 85 per cent, according to official statistics. U.S. dependence on all foreign oil has gone from 36 to 42 per cent of total consumption since the embargo and an additional 4 per cent increase is anticipated next year.

Officials said other major importing countries, particularly Britain and Italy, are even more vulnerable than the U.S. to an oil-price increase because of their severe balance-of-payments probwould be most hard hit by a price hike are oil-poor developing countries.

The OPEC nations will meet in Qatar in mid-December to discuss prices, and unofficial forecasts indicate an increase of between 10 and 20 per cent may be imposed. On the basis of new economic, political and military ties with the Arab countries, the U.S. has been hoping to persuade them to hold the line on

But officials admit privately that the victory of Jimmy Carter in the presidential election ten days ago has probably reduced

U.S. leverage among Arab countries.

Carter is viewed with apprehension in the Arab world because of his strident campaign attacks on the Arab boycott of Israel and his call for an "eco-nomic declaration of war" in the event of another oil embargo. A State Department spokesman said Thursday that even a 5 per cent increase in the price of oil would add $6 billion to the global import bill. He said the fourfold increase in oil prices since 1973 more than compensates for the higher cost of goods imported by the oil producis regarded by the OPEC countries as the chief justification for a price increase.

The U.S. campaign for Arab restraint may intensify at next month's meeting of the Paris-based Conference on Interna-tional Economic Cooperation. At that meeting, economic relationships between rich and poor countries will be discussed, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is scheduled to attend.

The present schedule calls for a meeting to conclude on the eve of the OPEC conference in

ers. International inflation Another top Demo questions tax cut

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP)-Another top House Democrat Friday questioned whether a tax cut would be the best medicine for the nation's economy next

President-elect Jimmy Carter said last week he will consider a tax cut to get the economy moving if the current economic slowdown continues much

But Rep. Henry S. Reuss, chairman of the House Banking Committee, said he would prefer spending on jobs programs as the better solution to the slowdown, although he said "the two are not mutually exclusive.

Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said earlier in the week he thought a tax cut should be approached "with great caution" and Conn., has said much the same thing.

Reuss, a Wisconsin Democrat, said in a statement that "job-creating programs are preferable because, unlike a tax cut, the spending could not be diverted into savings. Moreover, the spending would flow directly into labor-intensive activities."

He also said he believes both Carter and Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board will follow "moderately Burns' cooperation.

see no reason to think that Dr. Burns will not cooperate with President-elect Carter's economic policies, which I anticipate will be reasonable, sensible and moderate.

Reuss, who had criticized Burns Thursday, issued his new statement after an hour-long meeting with the Fed chairman.

He said he is "confident that a moderately expansive fiscal policy in the ately expansive monetary policy.

But he said he still didn't like the new lowering of money growth targets by the Fed. While it leaves room for growth in the money supply, it neverthe-less "could be a misleading signal in view of the current economic slowdown."

Fed policies on money growth are important because they affect interest rates and the borrowing activity of consumers and business. A restricted money supply usually means higher interest rates, while money growth tends to push interest rates downward.

In court-ordered minority hiring

WASHINGTON (AP)-A federal judge in Cleveland has rejected a trucking company's novel attack on court-ordered hiring quotas designed to open up jobs for blacks and other minorities.

U.S. District Judge John Manos dismissed the company's motion to hold the federal government responsible for accident damages allegedly caused by a black driver who was hired to comply with the minority employment order.

Manos issued the ruling Oct. 20 in the case involving Shippers Dispatch Inc. driver Willie Hall, and the family of Lawrence Malone of Washington, D.C.

A copy of the judge's order became available at the Justice Department on Friday.

If the company's position had been upheld, the decision could have been applied to many other cases and the government could have been forced to pay millions of dollars in damages.

That would have had a significant impact on government efforts to enforce equal employment laws in the trucking industry and other private enterprises.

Justice Department officials have said they believe this was the first time a court had been asked to decide the question of government liability for damages allegedly growing out of minority employment programs.

Judge Manos ruled

however, that here was no legal basis for including the government as a defendant in the lawsuit. The case stems from a collision between Hall's truck and the Malone family's car on a Lorain County, Ohio, highway Sept. 3, 1975.

resident-elect faces first major test at own church

PLAINS, Ga. - In one of those classic ironies that so often arise in politics. Jimmy Carter will face one of his first major tests since he was elected president right here in his own home town - population 684.

It won't involve the Russians or the Chinese. It will involve the future of the tree-shaded, pictur-esque Plains Baptist Church, where Carter teaches Bible class just a few blocks from his home.

The issue, simply put, is race: Can a black join the traditionally all-white church?

It will come to a head Sunday at a meeting of the 415 members of the congregation. Carter has

The debate over the future of the church has stirred the town to its depths, splitting families, touching off public arguments and bringing bitterness and acrimony.

On one side, opposing admission of blacks, are those like Albert Williams, a stocky, gray-haired cot-ton and peanut farmer and a longtime rival of the Carters in the life of the town. Williams, a church deacon, says, "We've only got two things left — the church and our homes.

"They've taken away our school (with integration) and now they're trying to take away our church. Next it will be our homes, and I don't like it.

"I don't know much about communism, but I think the Communists must be behind this.

"I've talked to a lot of niggers here in Plains and they don't want it. They've got their own church, and they don't want to be in

But Williams, whose views predominated in Plains a dozen years ago, does not necessarily represent a majority any longer.

A young woman member of the church, who is equally involved in the controversy, says, "It's going to be very close. A lot has happened here. New people have come to town, younger people, better-educated people. The town has changed.

"Now we're faced with a challenge to our faith. and it's a question of and show that we accept other human beings as equal in the sight of God."

For a tiny, south Geor-gia town like Plains, where racial segregation has been a way of life, the struggle has been traumatic.

Jimmy Carter's Uncle Hugh, another deacon, who runs an antique store and souvenir shop on the main street, says, "Right now, it's a matter of trying to save our church."

Jimmy Carter's mother. known universally as Miss Lillian, is on the other side from where Uncle Hugh apparently stands. She has fought for desegregation along with her son and many other members of the Carter family and has been quoted as saying,

There are lots of cowards in that church... They're back to fighting the Civil

The current crisis for the church presents serious problems for Jimmy Carter.

First, there will be questions about his powers of leadership and persua-sion with old friends and acquaintances in his own hometown.

Carter's press secre-tary, Jody Powell, has said that the presidentelect hopes the church meeting "will produce a decision which will be amicable and will protect the right of all to worship, regardless of race."

But Carter may face an agonizing decision if the congregation should refuse to permit blacks to worship. He will have to decide, in that event, whether, as president-elect, he can stay in the church and work for racial change or

"This isn't my church, it's God's church." whether he must quit. The day before the elec-

But he is in a different tion, after the controversy position now as Chief Executive-elect of the naerupted, Carter said, "I don't intend to resign from

It could be a particu-larly difficult decision for him, in light of the fact that southern blacks, as much as any other group, provided his margin of victory.

Kissinger plans Mexican trip

While maintaining a low profile in his last weeks as secretary of state, Henry A. Kissinger plans a trip to Mexico to attend the installation of the new president, Jose Lopez Porillo, it was learned

The Dec. 1 visit may be tied by Kissinger to a vacation in Acapulco, where he has gone in the past. He would be serving as the Ford administration's representative at the installation ceremony.

Ever since Jimmy Carter's election, Kissinger has avoided the spotlight in order to smooth transition to the new adminis-

The trip to Mexico follows an agreement on allowing American prisoners to complete their sentences in the U.S. and underscores close relations between the two

A 72-hour visit by Kissinger to Mexico in June seems to have cleared the air of tensions, particularly in regard to the plight of American prisoners who had been claiming maltreatment in Mexican

Under a treaty now being prepared, the prisoners, and Mexican inmates in U.S. prisons, would have the right to complete their sentences in their home countries

While bilateral relations are good, Mexican President Luis Echeverria had staked out a position at the United Nations and in other international forums attacking policies of the industrialized West.

Some analysts view this as growing out of Echeverria's ambitions to be-come the U.N. secretary general, and there is some doubt whether his successor will be as strident.

Those two Hachiya persimmons were treated alike. Two cups of bone meal per inch of the tree trunk diameter was sprinkled around the soil out to the dripline area, then lightly scratched into the soil. An inch layer of manure was evenly spread over the soil, then watered well.

Late January the trees were fed a similar amount but of a balanced fertilizer containing 6 percent nitro-gen, 10 per cent phosphorus, 4 percent potash, plus trace minerals. Three months later only half the amount of fertilizer was applied again. The mature trees were periodically watered at a depth of four feet.

The same procedure was followed the next year. The trees ripened 40 percent of the fruit, which was much better than they had ever done in the past

National Garden Bureau, Inc., the educational service of the North American garden seed industry, has released a survey of garden flower and vegetable seed packet sales to home gardeners in the USA. The survey does not represent a precise popularity pool because vegetable and flower plants were not counted.

Only seed packets sold by mail and through displays were considered. If plant sales had been included, tomatoes would have outranked all other vegetables in popularity, and petunias would probably have been the most popular garden flower.

Is a church a lodge?

"Well, I've got a free evening," a man said. "I think I'll visit the Masonic Lodge, I've always wondered what those guys are

He found that it couldn't be done. A man at the door turned him away. If by some oversight be had got in, he would have been mystified by the ritual. We all know what that kind of lodge is. A lodge is a fraternal organization with defined goals and ideals expressed in secret ritual. Not everyone can join. Initiates are chosen by criteria of morals, manners, sex, race, creed or ethnic background. A lodge is exclusive and discriminatory.

Is a church a lodge? The answer is a kind of "Yes" and a stern "No." In another city some

tical Country Club."
This remark offended loyal members. "This is a Christian church Our doors are always open to all sorts and conditions of men.

And yet, looking around the pews on a Sunday morning it was easy to understand the origin of the insult. One saw several tycoons, a former governor, business and social leaders, ranking military officers, respected doctors and lawyers, honored professors and others in or aspiring to some kind of aristocracy. The educational and financial achievements of these people must have been in the community's highest percentile. The ministers, of course, knew how to preach to such people.

has always fought the lodge idea. "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel, Christ said. The Apostles fought exclusiveness, breaking down the barriers between Jews and Greeks, free men and slaves, wealth and poverty. The idea was "all one in Christ Jesus."

And yet, from the beginning, there was the lodge idea. The first Christians, the Book of Acts tells us, met in secrecy because they were being perse-cuted. They broke bread and drank wine and lived in Christian love. They even shared all their wealth with each other. Paul again and again urged Christians to dress, behave and think differently from their pagan neighbors.

The architecture and services of churches today reflect the lodge-like quality of the ancient Church. The heart and meaning of the building is the Altar and the surrounding Sanctuary. The congregation sits in the Nave, often incorrectly called the Sanctuary. At one time the Nave was the Court of the Gentiles, a place for non-Christians who were curichurches today have the architectural remnants of Altar screens.

In our pluralistic society churches as lodges are found on many levels. Few are country clubs. Some are more like labor unions in a pious mood. Many are defending the virtues of the American middleclass. Some are devoted to special visions, beautiful or insane or maybe both. A few are placid clubs for placid elderly people who have known each other for 50 years.

Écclesiastical lodges are historically inevitable. Perhaps they are also emotionally necessary. Perhaps all of us need some exclusive brotherhood and secret ritual.

But that is not what Christianity is about. The lodge is a social tool. If it becomes an end in itself, it betrays the Gospel. And that is suicide.

"Go ye into all the world —" A church that doesn't have a mission to all mankind is a failure. The ladies and gentlemen of the "Ecclesiastical Country Club" should re-turn to their little king-doms of wealth and intellect with a better sense of love and responsibility for their fellow men.

Pagan originally meant the exact opposite. A pagan was a country fellow, a hick, a yokel. Christianity, we tend to forget, began as a citified religion. It was founded in the great cities of Rome. It was from the beginning "sophisticated." Surely the adjective in its best sense applies to Paul.

Christianity progressed from being a persecuted sect to the status of being the religious, philosophical and secular power of the Roman Empire. Anybody who wanted to be some-body was a Christian. It was the religion of megal-

In the villages and farms there were many who had not got the Word. They continued to worship Jupiter, Juno, Venus and Mars. The Christians looked down on them, call-

The "beautiful people" of today seem to be far removed from the poor peasant folk of the Roman Empire. But are they really? One sees in the eyes and senses in the

Son's testimony

The preacher lived the Bible

By NEIL MORGAN
Sun Diego Tribune
EDITOR'S NOTE: This

tribute, written by a fellow newspaperman, calls attention to National Bible Week, Nov. 21-28.

When a single bolt of lightning killed the four daughters of the Sunday School superintendent in the small Carolina town where I was growing up, it was more than a tragedy. It was a challenge to my father, as the town preacher, to hold steady the faith of people who saw that deadly flash as a sign from heaven.

I had grown accustomed to hearing my father read the Bible aloud each morning in the Greek and Hebrew as well as English because he loved language almost as much as he loved the Bible itself, and he searched diligently for every nuance in God's Word.

So now he went to his knees for hours to pray his way out, and from his study through the night came his tormented voice, reading the Bible aloud for solace, for guidance, for faith. It was hard to fall back this time on God's will as an explanation for the terrors of fate. But when he rose to preach the funeral over the bodies of those four girls he read from the Bible of a tender God of mercy. Now he was serene, and the faith he had drawn the Bible brought hope to a town staggered by a bolt of lightning.

He abhorred those who preached of hellfire and damnation, and he wrote a book that interpreted God as the forgiving god of the New Testament and rejected the angry Jehovah of Old Testament lore.

In those years in the rural South it was not always wise to set aside any passage of the Bible as less than the final word. But my father lived actively to within a month of 101 years, and his Bible was always beside him as an ally and as the source of his strength.

What else sustained him for decades in these small towns? What gave him the drive, in the near oblivion of backwater Carolina, to hold fast? Here was a scholar who walked or rode his bicycle through the rain to visit the sick and dying, who struggled against poverty through-out his life and yet main-

How To Be Enthusiastic

Once every year I read fascinating book by Frank Bettger, who is said be one of the greatest insurance salesmen in the country. Bettger talks about the principles of selling, but one chapter in this book contains the best lesson in enthusiasm I have ever seen. This man didn't start out selling insurance. Instead, he was a baseball player and his first job as with a small town league team. He lost that job, not because he couldn't play ball well, but because the manager said he was too lazy and unenthusiastic to make good.

Bettger drifted around for a while and then got another chance in professional baseball with a team in New Haven. Before beginning that job he became friendly with one of the older players and confided in him that he hadn't been able to get ahead in baseball because he had a reputation for being lazy. "Well," the other man said, "no one knows you up there in New Haven. So practice the "as if" principle; act as if you were full of enthustasm. When you get out on that field the first day, act as though you were the alivest man in the world. Quit telling yourself you're slow and lazy. Act as though you were motivated with powerful enthusiasm.' Beftger ran out on the field that same afternoon, and he took his friend's good advice. Although it was a hundred degrees in the shade, he sped round those bases like greased lightning. He acted like a man possessed. He threw the ball so fast it burned the hands of his team mates. And, one time at bat, he got to first safely, went on to slide into second with such force that the baseman dropped the ball, managed to do the same at third, and so got a run on a single!

He was like a demon on

Naturally, Bettger sent these clippings back to the manager who had fired him for being lazy. Projected upward by continuing enthusiasm, two years later he was playing major league ball, second baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals. As he points out, "Nothing did it but the assumption of bound-less enthusiasm." Acting as if he was enthusiastic, he became in fact enthusi-

When the time came for him to leave baseball, he decided to go into life insurance. He knew that to succeed he had to be enthusiastic about a business which, up to then, had left him cold. So he practiced self-motivation and the "as if" principle. He told himself that selling life insurance was the greatest calling known to man and that people needed it as much as they did their daily bread. And enthusiastically he told his prospects that they couldn't af-ford to let another minute go by without buying a new life insurance policy. In no time at all, he was breaking sales records through enthusiasm.

Anti-Abortion

The proponents of "abortion on demand" make much of arguments involving the health of the mother, the tragedy of un-wanted children, the stigma of illegitimate birth, together with such easier to appreciate and comprehend reasons as result from rape, incest, and/or the clear expectation of birth deformities.

In getting to the heart of the controversy however, can we not ask ourselves - Under just what circumstances or conditions is abortion morally RIGHT or morally WRONG? If man simply does not believe in immortality, God and/or the hereafter, that man is merely a higher, more intelligent type of animal, or that death spells the absolute end of the human body and spirit for all - then, of course, there would seem to be no real argument! On such a basis, abortion would logically be no more wrong or immoral than "thinning out the herd", slaughter-new opportunities in it. You will move up and then up again. So, if you want enthusiasm and vitality, live as if you have them. And you do have them. You have tremendous values within yourself. The Bible tells us that "The kingdom of God is within you." Health, happiness, power, vitality, strength, and every other wonderful thing is built within you waiting to be used. If you aren't living as if you have them, you're not living up to yourself. You've got what it takes 8 remember that and act accordingly. Be should be permissable at any time the mother so demands, while others maintain that it should only be permissable during the first three months of pregnancy (1st Trimester), or during the first four months, or within whatever time-frame an individual or collective judgement may decide or rationalize. At this point, assuming that we consider the matter a moral question, would it not be fair to ask ourselves - At just what instant between conception and the birth process is the actual or official (if you will) "cut off" point before which it is morally RIGHT to execute an abortion and after which it is morally WRONG to abort? Is the cut-off point 2-months 29-days 23-hours and 59 minutes after conception; is it 3-months 29days 23-hours and 59-minutes; is it when labor begins; or is it when the baby's head is clear of the birth canal or whatever? In any event, just who has the absolute authority, the unquestioned authority moral and otherwise, to presume to state the exact instant that an abortion (i.e. death of the unborn) could shift from being

competent medical authority will deny that conception is virtually an instantaneous occurrence. From that instant, without interruption by abortion or miscarriage, the embryo/ fetus will progressively develop into the recognizable human form in a matter of a very few weeks the living process continuing on until terminated by death. From the above, and since the event of birth is not an instantaneous occurrence, it would seem logical to conclude that conception, the only clearly definable instant during the life cycle (other than death), IS the beginning of human life rather than the various arbitrary times and periods designated by the various advocates of abortion, none of whom can or human life begins! If the advocates of abortion and/or their subjects reject the argument that conception is the beginning of human life, but cannot themselves specify with recognized authority the exact instant that human life begins, it would seem reasonable to conclude that they could well be supporting and/or committing murder (however commendable their motives) under the moral and/or civil law. Even if one is not too concerned with the moral or religious

Gilmore, 35, who has said he would rather die than spend the rest of his life in prison, appealed to the governor Thursday night through a statement to let him die as originally sentenced.
Gilmore's statement said delay-

A spokesman for the governor said Rampton had made it clear that he plans no further action, meaning the Utah Board of Pardons will consider the case at its regular meeting which starts Wednesday. The governor delayed the execution so the board could review the case.

In another development, Clyde Patterson, president of the Utah State Bar, said after a meeting of its executive committee Friday afternoon that the group could not judge whether California attorney Dennis Boaz breached legal ethics.

BOAZ WAS hired by Gilmore after he fired his two court-appointed attorneys. One of the two, Craig Snyder, complained to the Bar adout Boaz, Patterson said.

The other attorney, Michael Esplin, said he had also asked that the matter be considered, after a request by Gilmore's brother, Michael Gilmore.

Committee member James Lee said there was no formal complaint against Boaz, who is not a member of the Utah State Bar. The Utah Supreme Court has admitted him to practice in Utah for this case only.

Lee, however, said questions have been raised over Bar rules of professional responsibility involving a conflict of interest between lawyer and client, but added that the committee had no evidence other than hearsay and news re-

Gilmore appeared angry and uncooperative Friday morning but had calmed down by midday, Lt.

George T. Latimer, chairman of the Board of Pardons, said the board will meet at the prison at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday "and we will make the decision that day, unless something I don't know about delays it.

HE SAID he expects Gilmore to be represented at the hearing and that other interested groups, such as the American Civil Liberties Union, likely will send spokesmen. The ACLU opposes the execution.

GOP job-holders facing ax look to Civil Service

By FRANK VAN RIPER Knight News Service

WASHINGTON - Wellpaid Republican political appointees, fearing the ax under the incoming Carter administration, are scrambling to have themselves reslotted as career civil servants—at roughly the same pay level and possibly at the expense of government workers without political pull.

Sources on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee said that most of the scrambling involved appointees in the federal pecking order, at the level of deputy assistant secretary. Such jobs generally pay approximately $35,000 annually.

THE SOURCES said that the committee has begun investigations of possibly improper reslotting attempts in several federal agencies including the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Agriculture Department, and Department of Labor. Also under scrutiny is a planned reorganization of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms in the Treasury Department.

The advantage of career appointment is simple. No such employe can be fired unless there are sufficient grounds, usually grave incompetence or insubordination. Even here, such a person has recourse to appeal procedures under

Civil Service regulations.

As described to a reporter, a political appointee, listed under "Schedule C" of the Civil Service regulations where there is no protection from arbitrary dismissal by a new president or cabinet members, puts himself up for a career position in his agency or department, assuming one is vacant.

He or she would then be placed in a pool of other workers seeking the same post. In theory, the job would be awarded under merit procedures, strictly spelled out in Civil Serv-

L.B. pupils show mixed results in state tests

Test-score averages of Long Beach area children in the second, third and sixth grades are lower than state averages, analysis of state education department statistics shows.

But the averages—gleaned from California Assessment Program tests given last spring-also show local youngsters improving over last year in all but second, third and 12th-grade reading.

That mixed bag of results is from tests given all 1.15 million second, third, sixth and 12th graders in California schools.

Second and third graders took reading tests only.

Sixth and 12th graders were tested in reading, writing, spelling

Test scores of individual students weren't released. State education officials say the tests are aimed at showing schools and school districts how they compare to each other and at pinpointing areas needing teaching emphasis.

The major change in score averages over the previous year in the Long Beach Unified School District was that sixth-grade averages fell slightly below state averages.

BUT LOCAL youngsters imroved over last year in sixth and 12th-grade writing, spelling and

Sixth-grade reading scores also improved but 12th-grade reading scores dropped.

According to Long Beach school officials, test averages in the lower grades have been declining in relation to state averages for several

Statisticians for the Long Beach schools said that a change in the "background factors" used in computing test scores also helped damage the sixth-grade averages. Sixth-grade reading scores averaged 1.4 per cent below state averages in terms of numbers of test questions answered correctly, the statistics showed.

Long Beach averages lagged .3 per cent in writing, .7 per cent in spelling and 1.7 per cent in math.

AVERAGES for Long Beach run contrary to state trends in that high school scores are higher than elementary school scores. That has been the case for several years, school officials said. In another test-score compari-son—in which Long Beach Unified is compared to other California school districts—the local averages in the lower grades took a nosedive while 12th-grade averages held up

Third-grade reading averages declined from the 40th to the 32nd percentile among state school dis-

But the same district-to-district comparison showed 12th grade reading scores climbing from the 55th to the 60th percentile.

Twelfth-grade math rose from the 66th to the 67th percentile, writ-ing dropped from the 79th to the 67th percentile and spelling de-clined from the 75th to the 72nd percentile.

David Gordon, assistant evaluation chief of the state education department, said officials of urban districts like Long Beach with large numbers of disadvantaged children feel the district-to-district comparison is unfair.

THAT'S because it pits them against the many smaller, weal-thier districts in the state, he said. He said districts like Long Beach like to point instead to their ranking in a "comparison score band" that shows how they stack up in relation to districts of the same socio-economic makeup.

Long Beach scores do look bet-ter when placed in that light.

The district's averages were deemed satisfactory in every instance by state education statisti-cians who analyzed the scores.

Dr. Vern Hinze, superintendent of Long Beach Unified, said local students "surpassed their counterparts in other comparable California school districts" on seven out of the 10 tests given.

When Long Beach scores are compared to estimates of national norms, local averages are at or above national averages, he added.

(Gordon said that national averages are derived from private testing companies and are often out of date. Comparisons to national estimates aren't as accurate as to state figures, he said.)

"High school test results, which typically have been below the na-tional level in California, accounted for the strongest showing for local students," Hinze said.

HE SAID that local high school . seniors achieved above average on nine out of 10 state and national;

Ex-officers cleared of 3 charges

Three charges against two of three policemen fired as the result of a violent bar-hopping spree last March 11 were dropped by the Long Beach Civil Service Commis-sion during proceedings Friday.

The charge of insubordination was dropped against both Michael Callahan and Robert Hamby, and the charge of lying to superior officers was dropped against Callaban.

PAUL STEED, the third officer appealing his dismissal, did not have either charge filed against him by the Police Department. The remaining charges against the three - charges the commission must find valid for their dismissals to be upheld - are: conduct unbecoming an officer, disgraceful conduct and bringing the department into disrepute. There is an additional charge against Hamby of lying.

The three testified in their own defense Friday and lawyers for both sides said they expect to com-plete their cases today. Then the commission is expected to take the case under submission for an indefinite period.

Ban leaves them numb

Tuna fishermen in fear for livelihood

By JOE SEGURA Staff Writer

A mood of frustration, like the strong scent from the moored tuna boats, hovers over the Long Beach-San Pedro harbors.

Many of the boats, undergoing repairs during this off-season—a period that will last until early January—are idle now.

But it isn't idleness tainty about the future that is causing the frustration.

A federal court has halted tuna fishing in an effort to save the porpoise, and many San Pedro fishermen, despite the fact that most do not use methods that harm the porpoise, believe a chain reaction from that decision may rock the tuna industry in this area, costing them their jobs.

(In Washington, D.C., Friday, Supreme Court Justice William H.

Rehnquist rejected an attempt by captains and crews of four tuna boats to temporarily set aside the industry ban.)

"There's great fear and uncertainty among the people who have worked here all their lives," says Bill McCarthy, a state-licensed deputy weighmaster.

"Lots of people around here." he adds, "have the feeling the environmentalists who want to save the dolphin—a fine thing to do-don't understand that people's lives are affected by the economic situa-

According to Terry Drummond, sales manager for the California Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. some tuna boats purchase special nets, costing between $160,000 and $180,000, to avoid hurting the porpoises used in catching tuna.

The American Fishing Association," Drummond says, "is the only one in the world trying to protect the porpoise. "The rules being applied to the American tuna boats," he adds,

"should apply to all the other nations.

Drummond believes that if the ban is permitted to stand, many boat owners will be "forced to go under foreign flags," becoming licensed in neighboring countries to catch tuna.

SOCIAL SERVICE—JUST A

By BRAD ALTMAN Staff Writer

Just a stone's throw from Long Beach's unemployment and welfare offices is the Catholic Social Service at 123 E. 14th St., and its director couldn't be happier with the location.

"This is where the poor people are," said the Rev. Thomas J. Ledwith, director of the Long Beach

Catholic Social Service office as well as 15 others in the Southland. 'That's why we're here.

The service survives on donations, including money from the United Way, which is hoping to raise $33 million in its 1976 fundraising campaign. If it is successful, some $7 million of that will go to Catholic charities nationwide.

"It sounds like a lot of money,"

said Father Ledwith in an interview Friday. "But we're accountable to the people. As director, I earn $13,000 a year, and most of it goes back to the church."

About 230 persons a month walk through the center's doors to seek treatment for emotional and mental problems.

ERNEST WEBECKE

By RALPH HINMAN Jr. Staff Writer

Delving into musty, dusty records in search of a family tree often is an avocation both timeconsuming and expensive — as many amateur genealogists ruefully will attest.

For researchers in this area, however, seemingly modest facili-ties installed only last spring in a Long Beach church may save inestimable time and money.

This is — to use the full, formal title — "The Long Beach California East Stake Branch Genealogical Library." As the name suggests, it is a function of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints — Mormons for short.

"Branch' is what we usually call this place," laughed retired Long Beach elementary school principal Ernest Webecke, associate librarian in charge. "We are one of about 220 comparable branches operated by the Latter-

continent and around the world."
"There are no fees," he said in answer to a question. "Anyone interested in genealogy, whether Mormon or not, may use our facilitics" with payment of a small service and postage charge.

WEBECKE and his wife, Muriel, a onetime Long Beach City College mathematics teacher who now is associate librarian and the self-described "silent partner," preside over what at first glance is an unimpressive room in the church at 1140 Ximono Ave. (Library access is via a patio facing Park Avenue in the rear.) A bank of microfilm readers faces from one wall a grouping of card catalog files at the other end. Separating them are genealogical reference books and a work table. One is impressed, however, when he becomes aware of what this branch provides.

For it is a key, a direct link for Long Beach area residents and their families to family records filling six caverns maintained by the Mormons some 22 miles from Salt Lake City. There, buried under 500 feet of Rocky Mountain granite at controlled-cool temperatures, are several million microfilm rolls on which are preserved the limbs. branches and roots of many an American family.

Humanity's basic documents across a thousand years survive there, filmed copies of such vital statistics as tax rolls, military musters, marriage licenses, certificates of birth and death - and much Data collected in North America and from British sources numerically predominate, Webecke Even so, Europe, Africa and the Orient are represented in a treasure trove the U.S. church began collecting on a formal. organized basis in 1897

Actual keys to all this are the filing cabinets in the Long Beach branch, filled as they are with a 140-roll microfilm "directory" to buried treasures.

New schedule for flu shots offered

Inoculations to protect against influenza will be offered again this weekend, Dr. Elton F. Blum, city health officer, announced.

Injections will be offered today and Sunday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. in five junior high schools in the city: Jefferson, 750 Euclid Ave.; Lindbergh, 1022 E. Market St.; Stanford, 5871 Los Arcos; Stephens. 1830 W. Columbia St.; and Washington, 1450 Cedar Ave.

Beginning with only a family surname or other basic clue, Webecke said, a researcher often can quickly locate needed documents certifying, for instance, that John A. Foundingfather claimed his 100 acres of Connecticut's green and pleasant land in 1665.

Or that John's great-grandson was pensioned following the Revolution, his grandson five times removed after the Civil War.

It's not always that bloody, however. Weddings and births — and deaths — are there, too.

Copies of the desired actual evidence may be obtained for study at the local branch, church members and non-members alike, for a two-week service fee of 50 cents, plus ten cents postage.

It beats, by any standard, the time, effort and money needed at home and abroad to tramp from library to archives to city hall in search of some vital, if elusive, scrap of paper.

In return, the four social workers and a supervisor provide therapy that is not aggressively religious, said Father Ledwith Several of the social workers are not Catholics.

'Our staff uses a nonjudgmental, supportive approach," he explained.

"PRIMARILY, we are set up for individual and family counseling and psychotherapy. The psychotherapy. counselors all have masters' degrees in social work."

The center also acts as a referral service: "We show people how to find the help they need when we do not offer that specific aid."

There's money available to give to families in emergencies. And social workers spend much of their time at schools, teaching and counseling students.

"We do not impose our values on anybody," said Father Ledwith, 31, who received a master's de-gree in social work at USC in June. "We don't shy from anything."

HOWEVER, women

"Very often," he continued, "the girl sees abortion as the only alternative. We try to clarify the alternatives."

In an emergency, "we'll see anyone," said Father Ledwith. "Of course we're here primarily to serve the Catholic community."

NEW YORK (AP) - A 22-year-old California man who became blind shortly after birth here settled a malpractice suit Friday in Manhattan Supreme Court for $400,000.

Christopher Hanson, born prematurely at St. Vincent's Hospital or Aug. 22, 1954, suffered what his attorney, Aaron Broder, characterized as "oxygen

Broder charged that Hanson was given oxygen beyond the limits set by the Board of Health. As a consequence, he said, the baby developed retroiental fibroplasia (oxygen blindness).

The settlement by the bospital came as trial was about to begin before Justice Edward J. Greenfield. Hanson, who lives in Modesto, is married to a woman who is partly blind. They have a 3-week-old daughter.

State transportation plan attacked by rural areas

FRESNO (AP)—An initial draft of California's transportation plan came under fire Friday from San Joaquin Valley officials who said it neglects rural areas and shifts re-sponsibility to local governments without a transfer of funding.

The hearing before about 100 people here was the third of six statewide on the proposal before the State Transportation Board.

The board opened the meeting by saying that the plan will incorporate revisions that grow out of criticism at the hearings.

Officials from Fresno Tulare Merced, San Luis Obispo and Mono counties all pointed out what they consider glaring deficiencies.

Several spokesmen said the plan is "poorly worded" or "vague." Others indicated they have not had enough time to review it properly and asked the board to delay adoption until they can submit more thorough critiques.

There is little evidence in the plan to indicate that the rural areas of California were considered in its preparation," said Robert Harrell, chairman of Tulare County's super-

He said by proposing that di-rect travel subsidies be paid to low-income families and the handicapped, the transportation plan is overstepping its boundaries and drafting a social welfare plan.

Fresno Mayor Ted Wills said the plan is rife with ambiguity, indicating his own city council had come up with as many as seven interpretations of a single policy statement.

He called "unconscionable" the state's plan to more or less withdraw its participation in the decision-making process while retaining needed funding.

Citing Fresno's uncompleted freeway system, Wills said: freeway system, Wills said: "For 20 years you promised to finish construction of our highways. Now you're telling us to build them ourselves, but you're hanging onto all

Problems beset Cal. unit for disabled

California's rehabilitation director, a polio victim once rejected by the department he now heads, is having trouble with his policy of focusing on the severely disabled.

Ed Roberts, named by Gov. Brown a year ago to head the Department of Rehabilitation, concedes that severely handicapped persons haven't been flocking to its doors in the numbers he was counting

The department's caseload is down 33 per cent, more than Roberts says he expected, and it's committed only 49 per cent of its budget so far, compared to a normal 60 per cent by

Roberts said he learned that one reason for the caseload drop was that the handicapped lose such benefits as federal aid to the disabled, Medi-Cal and homemaker chore service once they get a job.

And the more severely handicapped stand to lose their larger benefits and therefore are reluctant to apply, he said.

Deputy Director Richard Soderberg called this "a real disincentive in the system. You would have to earn a lot of money to overcome the loss of all benefits. Some you'd have to pay almost $20,000 a year, and those jobs aren't that easy to come by. Roberts admits there me because I'm an activist, but that's why I was appointed," says the 37year-old director. "For the first time, policy is being set by a disabled person."

One unidentified Northern California district administrator for the department, quoted in Friday's Sacramento Bee, saw the issue differently. "We're losing the respect of the disabled and that's our power base," the official said. "There is arbitrariness in our leadership, and a hell of a lot of money is being spentnot developing plans for the disabled, but in protecting our own jobs.

A. Alan Post, the Legislature's fiscal analyst, has criticized Roberts' budget proposals and says he has heard reports of disaster" in the field.

Roberts says morale and conditions are improving now at the department, which provides job training for about 100,000 disabled persons a year and has 2,500 employes and a budget of $88 million.

One reason for improvement may be that Roberts is modifying his policy of refusing rehabilitative service to the mildly disabled, who once made up most of the department's caseload.

Soderberg says mildly disabled persons with "se-vere vocational handicaps" will now be accepted for job training.

When he first took office, Roberts said that previous directors focused on easy cases to make their record look good and had rejected the so-called vegetables, whose job training was more expensive and difficult.

He said his policy would be to handle only the moderately to severely disabled.

At the same time, he eliminated three levels of middle management and 100 other positions, mainly counselors, while increasing his own office staff nearly 25 per cent. No one was laid off, but many employes wound up with lower-level jobs or quit. Roberts thinks now he was too abrupt.

Every statement I made at the beginning reflected the fact I was once rejected by this department as too severely disa-bled to help," he said. "I should have used less strong language."

Soderberg said some of the initial reorganization is being reversed. He said the ratio of supervisors to counselors, which Roberts raised from 5 to 1 to near 10 to I, will be reduced.

But a middle-manage-ment worker quoted by the Bee was skeptical about Roberts' changes.

"Whether or not he's sincere, we don't know," the employe said. "Programs have been severely hurt, and some employes are traumatized. I doubt if he can pull it off.'

'Rigging' of bids in timber probed is looking into the possibility of bid-rigging in the sale of timber in national forests in California, a spokes man said Friday.

The antitrust division is looking at it to see if there is reason to conduct a full investigation," spokesman Mark Sheehan, who declined to elaborate.

Meanwhile, a Forest Service spokesman said, "There have been some allegations. But we don't have any firm evidence of any collusion.

The Justice Department action comes as the Forest Service, under congressional mandate, is moving to tighten its safeguards against collusive THE SERVICE ISSUED new regulations this week requiring sealed bids in almost all situations where timber companies are seeking to harvest lumber in national forests. The regulations were required by a timber management law passed by Congress

Previously, many timber contracts were sold at oral auctions, including almost all contracts in California, the Forest Service spokesman said.

The new regulations are in addition to procedures adopted after a conviction last year in Oregon on bid-rigging charges.

"As a result of that and some other indications of unusual bidding patterns, we developed some procedures to make sure this sort of thing doesn't happen again," the spokesman said.

Possible bias seen in horse-racing charities

Gray Davis, Gov. Brown's executive secretary who was appointed by Brown to sit on the board on a temporary basis, moved to delay approval of disbursing much of the $2.5 million to $3 million involved.

Davis said the money is "in a very real sense pub-lic funds" since it affects the state's revenue from parimutual wagering and should be distributed to charities without geographic or ethnic discrimi-

"I GOT the impression the board never looked closely in this area," Davis said in an interview after the board ordered racing associations to provide more detail on charities they serve.

"I will propose at the next meeting that the racing associations develop a plan to disburse charitable funds over a 12-month period so we can determine if the proposed allocation is discriminatory and if there are standards to disburse the funds.

"Otherwise it's done,

The board approved funds for some hospitals, including Daniel Freeman Hospital near Hollywood Park in Inglewood, But it withheld approval for such charities as We Tip, an organization that provides drug-abuse information, and the Airport-Marina Counseling Service.

The racing associations' hospital charities were approved, Davis said, because virtually "every one of them in the state is in need.

But he added that hospitals "with better connections with racing interests" were on the charity list, but conspicuabsent 'was any hospital in relatively poor south-central Los Angeles.

He said he had no evidence that any of the charities is unworthy of funds. 'I approached this without bias or preconception," he said. "It occurred to me that the board ought to assure itself that the funds are distributed in a nondiscriminatory fashion.

L.B. youth freed in extortion case

Charges were dropped Friday against one of two Long Beach youths held in an alleged attempt to extort $50,000 from a Lakewood family.

Alaska pipeline could cause West Coast oil surplus

By STEPHEN FOX

Californians who remember the long lines, short tempers and nippy nights caused by the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo may be surprised to learn that a new problem is possible—too much oil.

It's not that there have been any major new finds. The difficulty, according to oilmen, government planners and private analysts, is that West Coast refineries will be unable to handle up to half of the 1.2 million barrels of crude oil per day expected from the Alaska pipeline when it opens late next

Ironically, it was the reactions of the public, business and the government to the five-month embargo that led in part to the anticipated oil glut.

Oilmen say consumption declined after the embargo because of higher prices and conservation measures. They say this in turn discouraged them from investing in new refineries.

You only build refineries because you have demand for the products they produce," says Robert Schaadt, vice president of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio (Sohio), which owns 54 per cent of the reserves in Alaska's rich Prudhoe Bay field.

"We felt some basic shifts had occurred after the embargo," he said. "instead of having large rates of increase in demand, the rates were whittled down to perhaps two or three per cent, instead of the six per cent or so we had been expecting."

Governmental reaction to the embargo came in the form of Project Independence, designed to reduce this country's dependence on imported oil.

One part of the project was the opening of the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve near Taft to

The Dominguez plant of a major chemical company is going into the electricity business, and the local electric power company is delighted.

If the idea catches on elsewhere, the public may benefit too; it could mean big savings for residential power users and a cleaner atmosphere, the company

The Stauffer Chemical Co. plant, near Wilmington Avenue and Del Amo Boulevard, cranked up its four megawatt "waste-heat" steam turbine generator

An innovation for industrial plants in the area, Stauffer's $3.5 million energy conservation system harnesses waste heat from a sulfuric acid production process to produce steam for the turbine generator.

Plant manager Dick Hanle reports the waste heat generator appears to be capable of producing about 90 per cent of the big plant's regular power

Even more important, the system may benefit

"Each day Stauffer operates its new system, it saves us enough power to supply 3,000 or more residential customers and thus reduces our depend-ence on costly foreign low-sulfur oil," explains Ed-ward Myers Jr., vice president of Southern California

BURNING LESS fuel also means a net decrease in sulfur oxide air pollutants for the power producer, with no increase from the chemical firm, as well as an immediate transfer of cost for some of the water Edison needed for steam production from the public realm to the private industry.

The effects of this single project upon the Long Beach area are small, Edison and Stauffer readily admit, but this project points to a major impact in

"Co-generation, as we call it, has a great potential for energy conservation," Myers says. "Edison is contacting a number of other large and medium-sized industrial customers to locate potential for similar commercial production for the first time, a move which added 200,000 barrels a day to the West Coast's

The Midwest and East Coast could use the Alasrne mowest and East Coast count use the Alas-kan crude, but the oil companies haven't figured out exactly how to get it there. Although there are several proposed connector pipelines, none exists now. Tankirs are another possibility, but oilmen say there aren't enough to handle the surplus. Another option is an exchange with Japan whereby the Japanese would get some of the laskan crude in return for diverting some of their Middle crude in return for diverting some of their Middle Eastern oil shipments to the United States.

Congress, however, prohibited such a swap when approved construction of the Alaska pipeline in 1973, and oilmen say privately that such an exchange would face severe political opposition. Atlantic Richfield (ARCO), which owns 20 per cent of the Prudhoe Bay reserves (EXXON also owns 20 per cent, with the remaining six per cent split among a number of companies), says it doesn't anticipate problems in refining its share of the Alaskan crude.

"We feel we can handle all our oil," says ARCO Vice Chairman Louis Davis. "We have a refinery in Washington, which we designed for Alaskan crude, that will handle 100,000 barrels a day, and another in Southern California. So we feel we're pretty well equipped to take care of our approximately 20 per

However, Sohio, with the lion's share of the oil, is seeking approval to ship its crude by tanker to Long Beach, where it would be shipped east to Midland, Texas, via a proposed 1,600-mile pipeline.

From Midland, the oil would go through existing pipelines to the Midwest.

The project would require converting about 800 miles of existing natural gas pipeline for use as a crude oil carrier and constructing 200 miles of new

Sohio says the project could handle almost all of the surplus oil and could be ready in less than 18 months. However, it has come under attack from the state Air Resources Board, which says the tankers and tanks needed for the oil shipments would add some 40 tons of hydrocarbons a day to the air.

Sobio disputes the ARB figures and points to a recent study done by the Port of Long Beach in conjunction with the state Public Utilities Commis-sion, which says the increased hydrocarbon emissions would come to about 1.5 tons per day.

Don Bright, director of environmental affairs for the port, says the ARB figures assume that tankers will "purge," or clean, their oil tanks while still in

Bright says a common practice is to purge tanks at sea. Sohio also says it is willing to pay for pollution controls on other emission sources in the Long Beach area in order to offset the tanker emissions and ensure that there is no overall deterioration in air reach 1.8 million barrels a day in 1981.

One study by James D. Hickey, oil and oil services analyst with the stock brokerage firm of Stern, Frank, Meyer & Fox, projects a 714,000 barrel a day surplus on the West Coast in 1981.

In addition, a number of oil companies are drilling off the coasts of California and Alaska, areas generally considered to be among the richest potential oil fields in the world.

If there is a major strike, that production would come on top of the currently projected surplus.

All these factors make it impossible to determine "the amount or duration of the surplus," says Robert Wycoff, ARCO vice president for corporate planning.

"You have to guess if we'll be successful in the Gulf of Alaska or offshore California," says Wycoff "You have to guess, on the consumption side, if nuclear power is going to be acceptable, or if we'll have to build oil-fired plants to replace nuclear

Despite the surplus on the West Coast, oil executives point out that the United States is, and will remain, an oil-importing nation.

And they claim they're having a little difficulty in persuading the public of the potential problems of

'Last Hurrah' for O'Connor

By JAY SHARBUTT Associated Press

Archie Bunker a writer? No way. But Carroll O'-Connor, who plays America's most famous blue-col-lar combatant, has been at the typewriter of late, tussling with the muse.

He's writing — and will star in — TV's version of "The Last Hurrah," Edwin O'Connor's hit 1956 novel about Boston politics and a fine old rogue of a mayor who tosses his derby in the ring one last

The book became a 1958 movie starring Spencer Tracy. But actor O'Connor and Columbia Pictures Television say the version being made for NBC is a fresh one, not simply a remake of the movie. It came about this way.

It may sound weird, the star of CBS' "All in the Family" writing a movie. But O'Connor, who holds a history degree from University College of Dublin and a master's degree in English from Montana University, says he's always worked at scriven-

ing. He says a stage play he wrote appeared here in 1964 - long before "Family" gave him bigbucks fame - and he wrote part of a recent CBS special in which he appeared, "Three For the Girls.

And, he says, just be-fore "Family" hit, he'd spent 10 months in Italy, writing a love-and-sadness screenplay. But the firm that hired him to write it dropped out of moviemaking he adds.
O'Connor said he

he recently signed a new contract — the first shot at "The Last Hurrah."

The pact requires him to do that with anything his production company develops, he explained. If CBS turns it down, he's free to try elsewhere. Which is why NBC will air his "Hurrah," possibly next season.

"The CBS man in charge of motion pictures for television said they'd be glad to do a movie for television with me, but they didn't want to do a revival," the 52-year-old actor said. "So we said: 'Well, we're interested in doing this particular revival.

Just give us a legal excuse, and away we go.' He did, and we went."

Fullerton's days of fear—and 70-0—are over

By JIM McCORMACK Staff Writer

Cal State Fullerton's football progress belongs in the category of You've come a long way, baby.
One season ago Titan coach Jim Colletto actually sensed fear

in the locker room before games with San Diego State and Southern Mississippi.

The fear was understandable.

The Titans lost to San Diego, 58-14, even though the second half was played with a running clock. The Titans were flattened by Southern Mississippi, 70-0.

That's a far cry from the Fullerton team that will be in Veterans Stadium tonight to challenge Long Beach State in a 7:30 Pacific Coast Athletic Association

The contest will be broadcast on KFOX-AM (1280) and KKOP-FM

"We're looking forward to this game," Colletto says of the re-match with Long Beach, a team that drubbed the 1975 Titans, 32-6.

Colletto's first team was 2-9, the current Titans are 3-4-1, "and with three games left, if we do well, we could finish 6-4-1 or 5-5-1, which would be a great improve-ment," says Colletto.

Colletto was an assistant coach at Pacific before accepting the Fullerton assignment. He knew he was in trouble "on the first day of spring practice."

"I knew we had to go through knew we had to go through those things, I prepared myself before the season, but there was a purpose in the season, too," says Colletto. "We wanted to establish guidelines for success."

The Titans rebounded from the 70-0 crushing by Southern Mississippi by shutting out Cal State Northridge, 14-0—their last opponent of 1975.

"That helped us turn the corner," says Colletto, "It took a lot of effort for those kids to bounce back from a 70-0 beating and shut somebody out.'

THE sophomores on the 1975 team learned a great deal and Colletto and his staff surrounded them with a key assortment of junior college transfers. Suddenly, Fullerton was a competitive

"This group has a great deal of confidence in itself. We felt we could beat San Diego, and we were close until the final minute. We thought we could beat San Jose."

The Titans trailed San Diego, 20-14, in the final quarter before bowing, 27-14, and battled San Jose on even terms through much of the first half in a game they eventually lost, 20-0.

Collect thinks the Titans can have been beautiful to the control of the first half in a game they eventually lost, 20-0.

Colletto thinks the Titans can beat Long Beach, too.

"I'm a firm believer in John Wooden's theory that you worry about yourself and not your opponent," says Colletto. "We haven't played well for two weeks, but if we can come back and play like we did against San Jose, we'll have just as good a chance of winning as Long Beach does."

Lakewood stuns Wilson, Bruins settle for co-title

Tereschuk fires four TD passes

By PAUL McLEOD Staff Writer

Certain aspects of football don't show up in statistics, like emotion.

"Emotion is 90 per cent of this game," dejected Wilson High coach on Meyer sighed Friday night after witnessing fired-up Lakewood ruin the Bruins' chances to capture the Moore League title outright with a stunning 28-14 upset victory at Stephens Field.

"We were up for it. We had to be to keep our playoff hopes alive," said Lancer coach John Ford, who suffered through a 49-0 defeat last week to Millikan. "Naturally we had the advantage emotionally be-cause we were the underdogs. We knew that it would be a heck of a couldn't suit up."

Instead of capturing its first outright Moore title since 1967, Wilson will have to settle for a cochampionship with Compton, a 35-0 victor over Jordan. Wilson tied El Rancho for the league crown in

Quarterback Tom Tereschuk set what is believed to be the Moore League's all-time single season completion mark when he hit Ron Chronister with a 10-yard toss with 6:35 remaining in the third quarter. The six-foot, 165-pound junior, who entered the contest needing only seven completions to surpass Mike Rae (1968), completed 11-of-16 attempts for 152 yards. He threw for all four of Lakewood's touchdowns. Tereschuk finished the nine-game regular season with 120 completions. Rae set his mark of 115 completions in 11 games.

The Moore League, in a special meeting late Friday night, determined by draw Compton would be the league's No. 1 representative for the CIF playoffs.

The Tarbabes and Wilson fin-ished in a first-place tie at 3-1-1. Although each league is guaranteed at least two representatives, the draw was necessitated to determine which school the league considers its No. 1 team for seeding purposes and a probable home

Poly High may not be going to the CIF playoffs for the first time in three years, but the Jackrabbits made sure Friday night that Millikan wouldn't have any part of postseason play either.

The teams ended an up-anddown Moore League season with Poly prevailing in an upset, 20-13, before 4,500 fans at Millikan.

The victory enabled Gene Noji to finish a winner in his first season at 5-4 but only 2-3 in league, the same as Millikan. The Rams, who had blitzed Jordan (35-0) and Lakewood (49-0) the last two weeks and had high hopes of qualifying for the playoffs next week, finished 4-5

It was a case of too much Don Lonon. The Jackrabbit quarterback accounted for 218 of Poly's 252 yards, throwing for one touchdown

Rookie Tatum helps spark Lakers past Pacers, 117-106

By DOUG IVES Stall Writer

Rookie forward Earl Tatum apparently is ready to live up to his potential. Coach Jerry West says the youngster figures prominently in the Lakers' future.

The slender 6-4 newcomer from Marquette played a key role Friday night, joining Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Lucius Allen to provide the Lakers with all the firepower they needed to hand the Indiana Pacers a 117-106 defeat at the Forum.

West kept Tatum on the bench for three games earlier in the season so that the rookie could watch and learn. West used him 23 minutes against Boston two nights ago and had him on the court near the end Friday night when the game was on the line.

Tatum scored 10 of his 14 points in the fourth period, including two jump shot baskets in the final 2½ minutes after Indiana had cut an 18-point deficit to five.

Tatum agrees.

"This league is every bit as tough as I thought it would be," said Tatum. "Everyone can play."

Abdul-Jabbar was the dominant force, as usual, scoring 34 points and grabbing 17 rebounds. He hit 16 of 28 from the field. He leads the NBA in field goal accuracy at 61 per cent and is averaging 29.5 points.

Allen, off to a slow start, pumped in 28 points, including 22 in the first half. He had 10 points during a first-quarter spree when the Lakers outscored the Pacers 17-2 to take a lead they never relinquished.

"I haven't been shooting with confidence," the veteran guard admitted. "Maybe this will help." He connected on 11 of 17 from the field and penetrated well.

leads Compton to Moore grid title tie

By DAVE WIELENGA Staff Writer

The major force in Compton High's 35-0 yictory over Jordan in the schools' Moore League finale Friday night was a "Minor" one.

Darryl Minor, the Tarbabes speedy rough-andtumble running back, pierced the Jordan defense for 159 yards on 30 carries to become the Moore League's only 1,000yard runner this season and help Compton earn a title tie with Wilson and a berth in the CIF playoffs.

Minor entered the contest needing 125 yards to reach the 1,000-yard pinnacle and got those on his first 21 carries. His 22nd attempt was stopped for no gain but his 23rd was a 16-yard jaunt that put him well over the mark.

Although Compton's playoff hopes rested on the game, most of the excitement centered around Minor's quest after the Tarbabes assumed a comfortable 21-0 lead early in the third quarter. In fact, in the second half Compton ran only eight plays

Minor, who gathered only 32 yards on nine carries in the first two periods.

The first-half star was running back Tim Wedlow, who gained 53 yards. Wedlow accounted for 43 of the 59 yards in Compton's first TD drive on its first possession of the game

His 34-yard run through the heart of the Jordan defense gave the Tarbabes a first down on the Panther two and two plays later quarterback Jim Smith bulled in from the one with 6:24 on the clock.

Jordan's defense held Compton in check for more than 16 minutes, including three plays from within the Panther three midway through the second quarter.

However, the Tarbabes took a 14-0 halftime lead with 1:59 to play on a three-yard pass from Smith to Julian Estelle that capped a 55-yard, 8play drive.

Minor took over immediately in the second half, running for 50 yards of a 54-yard scoring drive that opened the period, including the last 20 yards for the TD that made the score 21-0.

Jordan then mounted its biggest threat of the night. riding the crisp passing of quarterback Larry Steuck to a first down on the Compton 10. However, the next four plays lost 12 yards and the Panthers were not heard from again.

Smith, who completed his last six passes after missing his first two, connected on three in a row opening the fourth quarter, the last one an 18-yard strike to Estelle for a 28-0 advantage.

After trading interceptions by Compton's Lamont Davis and Jordan's Roland Smartt, the Tarbabes finished their scoring with a 46-yard, eight-play drive that

Minor concluded with 1:24 to play on a three-yard

Downey tripped by Bears, 14-9

By DENNIS BROSTERHOUS Staff Writer

Mark Jurovich's 10-yard touchdown pass to Dave Doski midway through the third quarter gave Warren High a 140 decision over Downey in the San Gabriel Valley League title decider at Cerritos College Friday

The victory assures the Bears of further action next week in the CIF playoffs but Downey, in a deadlock for second place, is in a wait-and-see position.

A near-capacity turnout saw Downey score first early in the second period on a 58-yard drive culminated

by a Brad Risser-to-Kevin Hughes 10-yard pass over the middle. Scott Vernoy rushed in to block the conversion attempt, keeping the score at 6-0.

Warren retaliated on its next possession, grinding out 80 yards in 12 plays. The only pass play on the march was the 25-yard scoring strike from Jurovich to split end Wayne Iba. Scott Darrow's kick gave the Bears a 7:6 advantage 6:19 before intermission.

Hughes, who also played defensive back and returned punts, intercepted a Jurovich pass at the Viking 44. David Shuck carried the ball four times and Risser ran it three times to bring the ball to the Warren 11 with 15 seconds remaining in the half. From there, Jeff Council booted a 28-yard field goal to make it 9-7 at halftime

a lunging grab in the end zone to cap the scoring.

Downey had ample opportunity to overcome the deficit in the final 16 minutes of the contest. Hughes, who caught five passes for 36 yards, returned a punt late in the third quarter to the Warren 42. A personal foul was called on the runback, putting the Vikings withing striking distance 27 yards from the goal line.

However, three runs gained four yards and a Council field goal try sailed wide.

Downey also made a last-ditch effort in the final four minutes. The Vikings drove from their own 14 yard line to the Warren 38 with 37 seconds remaining in the game. But Curt Steele picked off a desperation pass at his own goal line and it was an easy matter for the Bears to run out the clock.

Warren, with the victory, also captured the mythical title of the city of Downey. The Bears improved their league mark to 41 (5-3-1 overall), while Downey's record is 3-2 (4-5).

Nagle leading Aussie golf

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) - Australian Kel Nagle broke out of a threeway tie with a four-under-par 68 Friday to take a one-stroke lead after two rounds of an international golf tournament.

The 68 gave Nagle a 36-hole 135, nine under par on the Victoria Golf Club course. He had shared the first-round lead with Lou Graham of Nashville, Tenn., and Trevor McDonald of Australia. Graham had a second-round 69 for 136. McDonald was at 70-and Pierce Colleges face stiff tests tonight. Bakersfield has the tougher assignment, traveling to El Camino, while Pierce meets lastplace Pasadena.

El Camino (3-1, 5-2 overall) is a potential stum-bling block for visiting Bakersfield (40, 7-1 overall) and the Warriors figure in the title picture, too. An El Camino upset win tonight, coupled with a Bakersfield victory next week over Pierce — assuming Pierce gets by Pasadena — would force
the Metro into a three-way deadlock. A conference vote then would be revote then would be required to determine the Metropolitan representative to the Potato Bowl against College of the Sequoias of the Valley Conference.

Pasadena, although 2-6 over-all and winless in Metro play, has caused its share of problems for opponents. The Lancers' biggest margin of loss in the conference was seven points to Long Beach City College (28-21). Pasadena lost to Mt. San Antonio by eight points in pre-season play. The Lancers have lost 10 consecutive conference games since winning the Metro title in 1974.

JC NOTES: Long Beach City College is idle touight, wrapping up its season next Friday bosting East Los Angeles. Over-all, the Vikings will finish with their third consecutive losing season. A new alignment might help LBCC, although present plans call for football powers El Camino and Bakersfield to remain with LBCC. . Saddleback is at Citrus tonight in a game that will decide the Mission Conference title. Citrus is one-half game back of the Gauchos with two to play. Saddleback has not been scored on in its last 18 quarters . Santa Monica is preparing its case in defense of its reported use of an ineligible player this season — a move that could force the SoCal leader to forfeit seven of its eight wins. Santa Monica pleads its case Wednesday at Los Angeles City College. Should the forfeit order stand, either Golden West or Rio Hondo will advance to the Avocado Bowl Nov. 27 at Cerritos. Golden West and Rio Hondo meet to night at Orange Coast College at 7:30. Rio Hoodo has won the last six meetings. Pierce receiver Dan Garcia, the national leader last year with 66 receptions for 1,650 yards and 15 scores, has an outside shot at the career receiving marks of 134 receptions by Dave Offiver of Grossmont 1973-73 and 1,972 yards (by Larry Battle of Reedley 1989-70). Battle also had 31 TDs. Garcia's current totals are 100 catches, 1,650 yards and 20 TDs. Post-season games do not count in any individual college or state records. Pierce has two games remaining in regular season play. Ventura's Mike Collen scored three TDs to take the national scoring lead with 108 points as the Pirates topped West Los Angeles, 46-7, last week. Santa Barbara defensive back, Pete O'Garro returned an interception 38 yards for a TD in a 43-2 win over Hancock. Selection of the visiting team for the str. Rose Bowl will be an-mounced next Sunday. Mit. Hood, Ore, with 20 consecutive wins, is the strong favorite. But Mt. St. Paul scored in each quarter to retain its perfect league record (5-0) and remain atop the 4A ratings with an 8-1 over-all mark. The Swordsmen gained 384 yards total offense, 230 on the ground, and held Bishop Amat scoreless in the first half. Quarterback Tim Cowan led the win, completing 5-of-10 passes for 154 yards, including a 23-yard touchdown to Mike Gallego, who opened the scoring with a fumble recovery in the Amat end zone. Cowan also kicked a 14-yard field goal, Rick Valenzuela carried 19 times for 96 yards and Rick Ambrosi rushed 15 times for 81 yards and two touchdown to lead the St. Paul ground attack, which completely overshadowed Amat's total offense of 111 yards.

"A lot of college athletes are being trained for professional competition and the professional sports are not doing much in return for the colleges," Horn said in regard to the latter proposal.

Horn, stressing that the AASCU represents "a quarter of the total number of students" in the nation, emphasized that the organization's suggestions are not merely a case of "the have-nots vs. the haves," as was charged last year with his "share-the-wealth" television revenue proposal.

'Two Minute 'Warning' it'll cost Rams

By RICH ROBERTS

The Rams-St. Louis Cardinals game at the Coliseum Sunday will be shown on local television (Channel 2, 1 p.m.) be-cause Universal Pictures bought the last 15,000 seats The corporation covered itself with magnaminity in an announcement that it wished to show its "ap-preciation" for the cooperation of the Rams and Coliseum Commission in the production of Two Minute Warning.

But a Rams spokesman said Friday, "We weren't in the movie at all, to my knowledge. Carroll Rosenbloom might have given some technical advice."

Somebody at Universal was confused. It was several unemployed for-mer members of the Southern California Sun, by then defunct, that worked on the picture.

Anthony Davis played a SWAT officer. Coach Tom Fears was a technical director.

The film also includes footage of a USC-Stanford game.

of the place," a Coliseum spokesman said. "They even redecorated the dressing rooms to look like a police station."

The last time the Rams were obliged to lift the TV blackout was in the regular season windup against the Pittsburgh Steelers last season. Although all 91,038 seats were sold, 21,-000 buyers - 45 per cent in the $8-10 bracket opted to stay home and watch.

"That cost us about $30,000 in concessions revenue." the Coliseum spokesman said.

That's approximately how much Universal's gesture cost the company Thursday. All of the seats left were in the $2 general admission area near the peristyle.

By the most startling coincidence. Two Minute Warning opened at thea-ters in the Southland this week. Thirty thousand dollars buys a lot of goodwill and publicity.

McDonald on Bucks' roster

MILWAUKEE (AP) -The Milwaukee Bucks Friday activated 6-foot-6 forward Glenn McDonald, the Boston Celtics' No. 1 draft choice in 1974 who was cut by the National Basketball Association champions last month.

McDonald, who had been working out with the Bucks for two weeks, replaces three-year veteran forward Kevin Restani, expected to be sidelined at least 10 days because of a broken rib. Restani was placed on the injured list and must sit out at least five games. Restani, who has been starting, was injured when kicked in the chest in a game at Cleveland Nov. 4. He is averaging 8.8 points and 7.3 rebounds per game.

McDonald, former collegiate star at Long Beach State, averaged 13 minutes per game in 75 games with Boston last season. He averaged 5.6 points and 1.8 rebourds per game. "Kevin has been our most consistent player," general manager Wayne Embry said. "He has been playing the best basketball of his career, but we're fortunate to find a man of McDonald's caliber available. We've always regarded him highly when he was with the Celtics, and we feel he can help

McDonald had been considered the successor to aging Boston star John Havlicek. McDonald's re-lease by the Celtics and the fact no one had picked him up for several weeks was something of a surprise.

LB State harriers vie in title meet

PALO ALTO - Long Beach State's two-year reign as cross country champion of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association is expected to end today when conference teams compete as part of the District 8 meet at Stanford University.

Teams from two leagues — the PCAA and the Pacific-8 — and the West Coast's major independents will have entries in the 10 a.m., 10,000-meter race over the Stanford golf course.

The first four teams from this meet as well as top individuals will qualify for the NCAA champion-ships on Monday, Nov. 22, at North Texas State in Denton, Tex.

Washington State and Oregon are expected to battle for the Pacific-8 title while San Diego State and Fresno State are favored to dethrone Long Beach State in the PCAA competition.

The 49ers have won the PCAA championship in six of the seven years it has been contested. Long Beach has one runner, Rich McCandless, who is a contender for individual honors. He will run as part of a team that includes Dennis Wilson Colin McConnell, Robert Lugan. Pete Palmer, Mike Dyer and Richard Wie-

Heston says he identifies strongly with the characters he has por-

"If I were asked what my main motive is in being an actor, I'd answer that I'm happier being within the character of someone else, legendary or otherwise, than being in my own and acting out my own life.

"I think all actors feel that way. It stems from a feeling of inadequacy, 1 guess. We want to be needed and accepted."

Heston has the strong screen image, the looks of strength, and the reputa-tion of being rather well adjusted, fairly in control. 'Inadequacy'' seems incongruous.

"People always think I'm solid and together, kind of a pillar among all the rest of the folks in this business," he admits. ousiness," he admits. 'Well, my childhood wasn't that great.

'We lived in a remote part of Michigan where my father was a mill operator; I never even saw a telephone until I was 11. That's where I come from.

"The effect was to make me feel inferior. That was the beginning of my wanting to win at everything I ever took on.

'Football was first. I really wanted to make that team at New Trier. And I was good at the game; I know I was good." Heston speaks intensely, clenching a fist. "I knew the game, but I was light; I weighed 175, and all these huskies were pears to be on stage, too. It could easily have been titled "Mama Mia Perken-sini," "One Man's Italian Family" or even "The Hardy Family With an Italian Accent.

However, it is probably a classic Italian soap opera, and, in the delt hands of SCR's expert cast under the fine direction of artistic director Martin Benson, it comes alive and kicking into the hearts of the audience.
Written by Italy's world-famous playwright Eduardo de Filippo, author of the film classic Marriage Italian Style, the three act production moves swiftly from minor pathos in the first act through a highly comedic false accusation by the husband against the wife in the second to a tender, middle-aged love confessional that climaxes the third.

True to the traditon of great comedy, "Saturday Sunday Monday" com-bines near-tragic events with sympathetic characters to produce a bellyful of laughs and, at the same time, a heartful of tears.

The main characters of the play are very ably por-trayed by SCR veteran Hal Landon Jr. as Peppino, the father, and SCR newcomer Barbara Van Holt as his long-suf-fering wife, Rosa.

Their confessions in the end, his to a long-time, uncontrollable jealousy of their old friend and hers to being pregnant by him betheir marriage but afraid to tell him, bring the third act to a fitting climax.

Actually all 17 of the actors in the play are out-standing in their various roles.

All in all, "Saturday Sunday Monday" adds up to a full evening of excellent dramatic comedy presented in a highly professional manner, and anyone who goes away unentertained should blame no one but himself.

The play will be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday with Sunday matinees at 3 p.m. through Dec. 18 at the South Coast Repertory Theater, 1827 Newport Blvd. in Costa Mesa.

PRAGUE (AP) - It was almost like old times at the Paramount Theater in Times Square when Benny Goodman showed up for a concert in Czechoslovakia.

Police had to cordon off the entrance to Lucerna Hall to try to hold back gate crashers for the performance recently by the 67-year-old King of Swing and his orchestra.

'It reminded me of the early days when people would almost hang down the chandeliers," Good-man said later. He told reporters that the audi-

New apartment era becoming reality

The an article written two years ago for a leading anartment industry magazine. I predicted result increases of 16-1 per year; a shortage of units, thus higher accupancy; an increasing need for professional management; and the start of a new era in apartment living."

Coy K. Herring, C.P.M. Real Estate Operations Manager of Hixby Ranch Company, Long Brach, moved that his predictions are now reality.

The past two years rem increases of garden type units have pushed rems to a level only seen in hours; hit is units a few years ago. Increased specialing expenses have demanded fines increases which have been accepted by residents because of their awareness in taking costs and because the price of renting is still a very good value.

Surveys show that more renters with the "American Dream" of home ownership purchased their first home or continuous this past year than normal flowever, many home owners became apartment dwelvers became of derivating family invasions and to escape the high cast of manufacture business fineled by sky reclusting real estate taxes.

The high rate of accupancy enjoyed presently is a direct result of gractically non-existent development the past two years. Other cities of the country such as known and Dallas have a considerable numer of units under construction. Substantial development here could not possibly ease our demand in the next four to five years.

In under to stimulate development of apartments and avert a critical shortage of shelter, several things must begin him. Since construction costs will not go shown, framering must. Our feederal government must stimulate new methods of financing. Attitudes of environmentalism, no growth advocates, etc. must be compromised to meet the realities of economics. Governing business such as planning commissions, building departments and city councils, must stream line their time examining, bureaucratic processes, thereby decreasing finant partition of costs related to the initial development thouse.

The tax similar henefits for investors must not be allowed to disappear at the whims of politicians. Rent control must never be allowed to undermine and determined the standard of ownership thus apartment living.

Importation of new building methods, use of solar energy and products which conserve all utilities will be an absolute must in order to decrease the increasing cost of development and ongoing operating cost.

Professional property managers should be teamed with architects and other members of the development team to provide input of operational expertise in the study of economics of alternates.

The past two years, the need for professionalism in management has been evidenced by ever-increasing numbers of persons enrolled in seminars everywhere.

More and more owners of all size complexes are realizing that qualified, professional management pays by reducing turnover rates, controlling budgets and having a knowledge of the market. Qualified on-site managers as well as property managers are in demand more than ever. This demand will also grow substantially in the next few years.

The necessity of rental increases of 8-10% will continue as a result of inflationary maintenance and utility cost — plus, of course, advances in taxes. However, the spiraling cost of home ownership will continue to be the major factor in the growing era of

Along with the economic problems of unemployment and inflation which Americans must contend with the general shortage of housing is also becoming a very serious matter.

And the ones who suffer most are those who must make ends meet on a fixed income — such as senior citizens.

How much to invest?

By BETTYE LEE MASTIN Ridder News Service

How much money is it wise to spend on an apartment?

The answer is lots only if you own the building.

Otherwise, the best rule is to put money only in those things you can take with you when you move.

Follow the rule, and you still can have an apartment that is attractive and different, that looks as if you, not a department store dummy, live there.

Any apartment can be a beginning point, a place to assemble things you'll want to live with always.

Here are some do's and don'ts:

1. Don't spend money on claborate built-ins. The landlord might object. Even if he or she doesn't, you can't take them with you.

2. Do buy free-standing wall units that can be disassembled for use in another location. Modern etagieres are a good idea. Or shop for shelving in abandoned store buildings. You can build a free-standing frame.

3. Don't hang expensive wallpaper. The landlord might not like it.

 Do investigate new strippable and self-sticking papers that peel off when you wish. That way, the landlord doesn't enter into it.

5. Don't install wall-towall carpeting.

6. Do look for area

7. Don't invest in expensive draperies. Suppose you're transferred?

8. Do think about rollup blinds, window shades or printed sheets. You can spray-paint blinds or shades. Sheets cost little and are available in smashing designs.

9. Don't buy appliances unless it is absolutely necessary. They are hard to may a

It was out of this apparent need for housing accommodations for the elderly, that Chateau Active Retirement Living, a north Long Beach retirement botel located at 3100 E. Artesia Blvd., was created.

For one low monthly amount, the Chateau provides complete and exceptional living accomodations — everything a person could want and need.

"The Chateau offers a very logical, reasonable alternative lifestyle," said Ronald Weise! administrator of the Chateau. "But we provide more than a roof with food, we offer our residents an exciting, adventurous life."

For the modest amount of from $290 a month for a semi-private room, and from $495 a month for a private room, residents also receive three delicious meals a day and snacks, a well-planned recreational program, 24hour care and supervision, plus the comforts of three recreation rooms, a luxury living area, two outdoor terraces, and perhaps most important. friends

ing Regency Inns of America Corporation, which comprise a network of retirement residences.

When the decision was made to go ahead with construction of the Chateau, much time and effort was put into finding a location which would be practical and convenient.

A Harvard graduate was brought in for site-location, choosing the present place of the Chateau. As a result, the Chateau is close to bus lines, recreational facilities, major freeways, and even has a park right across the street.

To attain a particular home-like "feeling", a professional interior decorating firm was hired to make the Chateau both pleasing to the eye, and practical to everyday living

You've probably read a lot about Parkview Terrace. Maybe you've seen the beautiful 31: story mid-rise right across the street from Recreation Park Golf Course. But it's what's inside that counts, and what's inside Parkview Terrace is sensational.

These magnificent two bedroom homes offer a variety of features. Dramatic high ceilings and raised entries. A fireplace and wet bar. A large balcony for sitting or sunning. On the 3rd floor, skylights enhance the beauty of each home. And there's an added loft that makes a delightful den or cozy sitting room.

Kitchen accessories include a double oven and range, a trash compactor and a dishwasher. Bathrooms all have large Roman tubs surrounded by handsome ceramic tile.

Visit Parkview Terrace today and get the inside story yourself. Before the news gets out and the homes are sold out.

Consumerism and the renter

By BEN SLATER

What are the two main things most of us as consumers look for in anything we purchase or rent?

I believe they are quality and service. This idea holds true regardless of what we are buying or what price range we are paying.

The quality of anything may be determined by the price range we are paying, but we should at least be able to expect that amount of quality for what we are willing to spend. However, on the other hand, service should be maintained regardless of price.

These two items are the most important factors in maintaining the highest occupancy in your apartments with the lowest maintenance costs per unit per year.

In discussing the reasons for tenant moves, tenants, managers and owners seem to agree poor maintenance and service cause for more moves than any

When a tenant moves into the apartment, the unit should be completely clean and in good order. Carpets and drapes should be cleaned or replaced, the unit painted and all appliances working properly.

Langslet & Son, Inc. luxury condominium community in Long Beach.

Among the first to move in were Les and Mary Stucker, formerly of nearby Park Estates.

"We selected Parkview Terrace because it met our needs in a number of extremely important areas," Mrs. Stucker said.

"We've both lived in Long Beach all our lives, and when we felt it was time to move into a small, more easily maintained home, we knew we wanted to stay in the area," she continued. "Actually, we had planned this move a few years from now, but when we saw Parkview Terrace only blocks from our old neighborhood, we knew we'd found the ideal new home."

Other aspects of Parkview Terrace that ap-pealed to the Stuckers included the security and privacy of the community, the over-all beauty of the oasis-like recreation area, the abundant landscaping, and the serenity and quietness of a community that is centrally located.

An extremely active retired couple, the Stuckers are avid golfers, and they obviously appreciate the facilities at Recreation Park's famous 18-hole golf course which is located directly across the street from Parkview Теггасе,

In addition to their golf interests, the Stuckers are bicycle enthusiasts and they regularly attend the open-air concerts in Recreation Park, Mr. Stucker particularly enjoys the large jacuzzi that is a part of the opulent recreational complex.

"One of the most appealing aspects was the 'close up and leave' possibilities of Parkview Terrace," Mr. Stucker said. "We travel quite a lot these days, and we really feel secure about leaving our home since there is a total security system, and all exterior maintenance is taken care of whether we're here or not."

Priced from $57,900, homes currently available at Parkview Terrace offer two bedrooms, two baths, and such additional features as wet bars, central heating, gas-lighted fireplaces, plush wall-to-wall carpeting, and dramatic private entries.

There are only twenty luxury homes unsold at Parkview Terrace, according to Michael Engle. vice president for C. Robert Langslet & Son, Inc. New residents may move in just in time for the holidays.

To reach Parkview Terrace, take the San Diego Freeway to the Lakewood Boulevard exit. Go south to Los Alamitos Circle and continue south on Pacific Coast Highway to Anaheim Street. Turn right on Anaheim. The development is located at 4835 E. Anaheim St.

The greening of apartments

No matter what your apartment scene, there's something green that will grow there. It's a matter of picking the right plant and giving it proper care.

Your new charge will like either a clay or plastic pot, but be sure to cover the drainage holes with a piece of broken pot before setting the plant. Use premoistened potting soil and firm it lightly about the roots. Most indoor plants prefer bright light but not direct sun.

If foliage turns light green to yellowish, give the plant less light; if flowering plants bloom poorly and have a deep green foliage, move them gradually into stronger light. To keep growth even, give pots a quarter turn each time you water

Feed your plants with liquid or soluble plant food once each month during the bright days of spring, summer, and fall. Give them little, if any, food during the dark days of winter. To avoid possible root damage, feed plants when the soil is still moist from the last watering. The individual requirements of the plant and the size pot it's growing in dictate watering patterns, but the general rule is to let the soil dry out a little between waterings. When you do water, soak the soil ball to its center. If you use a watering can, let the water run slowly until a little shows up in the pot saucer. If you submerge pots rim-deep in a tub of water leave them there

Pests can be controlled by spraying foliage lightly each week with a houseplant insecticide. Isolate any plant showing a build-up of insects and spray twice a week until free of pests. Plants like fresh, moist air with no sudden temperature changes.

Some plants grow par-ticularly well in apartments. Dieffenbachia grows best in moderate light and requires plenty of water and regular feeding. If lower leaves begin to die one by one, the plant is probably root-bound and should be shifted to a larger pot. Browning of leaf margins and tips result from allowing the soil to become too dry. Trim off the brown spots and watch watering very closely.

Ferns like full light from a north window or indirect light from other windows. Keep room temperature at 65 degrees or above, and syringe foliage with water occasion-

Insects and pests on the plant are difficult to control because of its sensitivity to all chemicals, but a few can be used half-strength if the soil is moist before you spray the plant. Drying of tips can be caused by allowing the soil to become too dry or by lack of humidity in the air. Tio browning is often the result of fungus action. Cut away and burn the infeeted foliage and spray with a fungicide. Avoid getting moisture on the foliage.

Ivy does best in bright light and humid, cool air. Brown spots on the leaves can be caused by bacteria or fungi. Remove and burn the leaves at the first sign of trouble, keep foliage dry, and increase air movement around the Palms enjoy good light but tolerate reduced light some distance from windows. Feed each month from April through August, and wash fronds with soapy water occa-sionally. Dead spots or margins on leaves are often the result of moving a plant too quickly from low-light intensity into full light.

Philodendrons withstand adverse growing conditions better than many other plants. They should be kept slightly on the moist side and fed once a month. They'll tolerate heavy shade.

Other good apartment plants include rubber plants, which can tolerate poor light but need moist soil; shefflera, which can survive adverse growing conditions and is bothered by few insects or diseases; and cacti, which require little watering.

Apartment customer is always right

The apartment business is perhaps the industry that has suffered more than others from bad image overhang.

Old time movies portrayed Simon Legree as cape with a cowering tenant at his mercy. The notorious conduct of many landlords throughout the years has been conducive to that feudalism image.

For decades most geared to dealing with the 2% of the tenants who were the deadbeats, troublemakers, and chronic defacers of rental. property.

Not so today, in the past 10 years property management companies, apartment associations and developers have made vast strides in causing income property owners to do an about face in their attitudes and actions toward the consumer - the renter.

In the late 60's and early 70's, large apart-ment communities began to dot the cities and suburban areas through-out the United States. Equipped with multi-million dollar recreation facilities, lavish interior appointments and acres of green belts and foliage, a new and sophisticated marketing program began to emerge.

Tenants became residents, landlords became managers — and "com-plaints" came to be recognized as service requests. Investors and developers began to take a look at the successes of other consumer-oriented industries and recognized that those with the highest degree of success were those who were product. service, and customer oriented.

They noted that retail merchandisers geared their sales training programs

They noted that retail merchandisers geared their sales training programs toward the majority of the consumers. The majority being the good credit risks, the honest good citizen Joes and Sues who came to buy wares from the retailer who made him feel special, welcome and gave him a good product at a fair price.

The apartment industry noted that from a market study of successful gas stations in the area, many auto owners would drive miles out of their way to purchase from a station where they were greeted by their name. given prompt courteous service in a clean and friendly environment. They further noted that price was less of a consideration if all the other amentities were present.

The pace setters in every industry were made up of individuals or chain operated businesses with one common denominator — "The customer is always right."

From these observations, the successful apartment operation today is a composite of the lavorable attributes of other industries.

Like Sears and Goodyear Ties, the professional manager acknowledged that some losses will occur from the poor risk consumer - but he has learned to build these losses into the operation and to conduct his busi-ness to fulfill the needs of 98% of the market instead of the unfavorable 2%.

It is unfortunate that changes in the industry were deferred far too long and tenant unions and consumer groups banned together and sponsored legislation to control the unruly landlord to the extent that most of the laws passed resulted in an "over kill"

far more restrictive than the consumer in-

Most owners recognize that they waited too long to make voluntary changes in eviction procedures, deposit refunds, building maintenance and general housekeeping standards. As a result, today they must go beyoud the call of duty to improve their image -and to force the unscrupulous, lackadaisical apartment operator to change his ways — or change his business to avoid further bureaucratic maneuvers by politicans to take his right of private enter-today - and they are in the majority - just as the reputable residents number in the majority are concerned, conscientious, consumer oriented individuals who admit to the public that they are not now - nor have they ever been operating the apartment business as a non-profit organization.

Profits are marginal in todays atmosphere of inflation, rising taxes and operating expenses, and they are becoming more proficient in investing their dollars in products and services that will give the most comfort and appeal to the resi-dent. They are further reserving their right to strict credit checking procedures so that they reduce their risk and ultimately their expense of operating apartments.

The apartment seeker today is not offered an apology for lengthy credit applications. Every other industry from autos to furniture companies require information of their credit customer that will assist them in minimizing their bad debt losses, thus keeping product prices under control

"The customer is always right" is a sound, workable, and profitable attitude — but it is attained only through proper education and a proper sense of responsi-bility of our valued consumer — the rent payer, the resident," according to Happy Kelly, Vice President of Bayco Financial Corporation in

Area rugs, crafts add to apartments

There's plenty of room to spread out in America. The population density in this country is just 60 per square mile. Density is lowest in the West, 21; and highest in the metropolitan Northeast.

But figures like these can be misleading. In Washington, D.C., 11,848 persons occupy the average square mile of real estate. Other urban centers report simihar figures. High rise apartments, co-ops, and condominiums fill the need for affordable mass housing on precious land.

The technique of stacking identical living units one on top of the other meets an economic requirement, but - in the opinion of some - fails esthetically by producing box-like apartments lacking in character.

Lin Loughran is one who shares this opinion and is in a position to do something about it. She is presently deeply involved in styling and manufacturing products that add individuality to massproduced housing.

Ms. Loughran is an artist, colorist. and designer who takes her inspiration from the world outdoors. Her new collection of accent rugs for Artisan Originals is called "Tranquility," literally reflections of peace and assurance that come from nature. Design sources include patterns carved by wind and water in sand. water lilies, shells, soft leaf and flower forms

"Humanity, a sense of self, access to nature and natural materials are essential to the living environment," she states. Believing this, she has crafted Artisan's rugs not only in natural designs, but in natural yarns, thick, ropy wools imported from Argentina (the prized Buenos Aires-6 variety), New Zealand, and India. The rugs are hand-tufted by craftsmen in Port-au-Prince in the Republic of Haiti.

This crafts approach has advantages that Ms. Loughran is quick to point out. One is the ability to make rugs to any size at the same per-square-foot cost as regularly stocked sizes. Another is the homeowners' option of selecting designs in any combination of Artisan's collection of 16 colors - again at no premium. So. an 8'-by-10' rug in heather and ivory in the store can become a 9'4"-by-13'6" in sun yellow, apricot, and pecan for a special room; this without the payment of a surcharge for custom work.

Expertise in purchasing products

One of the major factors that separates the good property manager and the poor property manager is his or hers ability to purchase the proper values needed to ne efficient

To outline the proper purchasing psychology, is to strike that delicate balance between need and want, as well as price and availability.

First, determine if you have a need. This is done by weighing the consequences if the item is not purchased - it will cost more to allow the faucet

Morever, hand-crafted materials have an increasingly important role to play in "humanizing - in Ms. Loughran's word - those boxy apartments that dominate city living. As an example, Ms. Loughran offers a bedroom, totally devoid of architectural detail, in which fiber art wall hangings, ferns, and birch branches mounted on clips and lighted from beneath provide natural interest. Ms. Loughran's accent rug, "Tidal Marks," in pale naturals, straw, driftwood, and cloud white appears to float on the black vinyl floor. The bed lies gracefully on a recessed base. Painted walls are sweet chocolate.

Compare this against a want for new pottery around the pool because it will make the area prettier, even though it may take more time to maintain the area. None of the above are wrong, provided, you have it within the financial capability of the property to afford your possible needs as well as wants.

Second, searching for the best value. This done by comparing the prices for the desired items between various suppliers. It is of major importance that you know the proper questions to ask the sup-plier so he can best advise you as to alternate ways of accomplishing your goals.

Simply tell him what your objective is, and ask what he recommends. Take the suppliers recommendations and list them.

A, you can decide on his best value, and B, you can compare them with suggestions from other sources. Value is merely a comparison of what an item costs, how long it will last and will you get the required effect. There are times when you must shift your requirements to fit what is available in order to get the best

Thirdly, choosing the proper vendors. The housing business is the largest industry in the country. Billions of dollars are spent annually by property managers just to purchase replacement and repair items.

Knowing this people have begun and maintain business specifically designed to fulfill the needs of property managers. These suppliers are not normally the local retail stores, because, property managers are repeat buyers, they are entitled to a lower price and they will buy a bigger volume, as well as more often.

These specific suppliers concentrate not only on price, but on service as well. The proper supplier

PARIS — U.S. and Vietnamese diplomats met here Friday in the first formal talks since the fall of Saigon last year.

Although the goal of the new series of talks is said to be normalization of relations, Friday's contacts were considered preliminary, to test whether conditions are favorable for full-scale Washington-Hanoi negotiations on the aftermath of the war and postwar issues.

On the U.S. side, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger issued firm instructions that all comment on the meeting, beyond a bare announcement that it took place, must come from Washington. Even the U.S. Embassy statement-that issues of interest to both countries were raised, with the missing-in-action issue our primary concern," and referring further questions to the State Department, was drafted in Washington.

Reason for renewal of the intense secrecy which surrounded the negotiations. Kissinger held leading up to the 1973 Paris peace accords was not explained. The talks were deliberately held at the level of second-highest ranking embassy officials in Paris, it was understood, in order to make clear their tentative, probing status.

U.S. officials made no effort to contact a higher-level delegation of Vietnam's deputy foreign minister and former ambassador in Paris who visited here last week, it was learned. Nor, diplomatic sources said, did the Vietnamese use that visit to pass any messages to the Americans through the French, as they have done on other occasions.

Friday's session, which lasted two hours, was expected to consist only of an exchange of prepared statements by each side, although there was no confirmation even of this afterward.

However, the U.S. Embassy statement said, "We can confirm that today our deputy chief of mission met with the counselor of the embassy of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam.'

That is the new name for the whole country adopted in Hanoi after the formal unification of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North) and the Republic of Vietnam (South) earlier this year. U.S. use of this official name for Vietnam as a whole implied recognition of the change and of Hanoi's right to speak for the nation.

The talks were held at the house in suburban Neuilly that had served as the embassy of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, Hanoi's Viet Cong negotiating partner during the four-year Paris conference with the U.S and the now defunct Saigon government.

The bouse is now an annex of the Hanoi embassy here.

The initial positions of each side as they resumed formal contact were well known. The U.S. has maintained that it must have a full account of the fate of some 800 U.S. servicemen listed as missing in action before any other issues can be discussed.

The Vietnamese say they are willing to do their best to fulfill this obligation under the 1973 accords, but only on condition that the U.S. fulfills its pledge of postwar reconstruction aid at the same time.

Officers in most' by GIs

By RONALD KOTULAK Knight News Service

Commanding officers in the Vietnam war apparently faced a far greater risk of being killed by their own men than by the enemy, according to a former Army psychiatrist.

There was an unprecedented upsurge in assaults on officers during the Vietnam conflict, greatly exceeding the rate in other wars, said Dr. Thomas C. Bond, former chief of the psychiatry division of the U.S. disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

During World War I, there were only about 370 cases of violence against superiors brought to court-martial. This low rate also prevailed in World War II and the Korean war.

BUT IN THE Vietnam war, there were almost 800 recorded incidents where officers were attacked with explosives alone, Bond reported in the current issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry, published by the American Psychiatric Association. These figures do not include assaults against superiors with weapons such as

The use of explosives became popularly known as "fragging" because of the frequent use of the fragmentation grenade, explained Bond, now at Harvard.

The phenomenon reached a peak in 1971, when officers were being attacked with explosives at the rate of nearly one assault for every 500 soldiers, he said.

Bond's study of 28 soldiers convicted for explosive assaults against officers revealed that the wide availability of a variety of drugs appeared to be the key factor that made Vietnam different from other wars.

ALL OF THE MEN in the study said they used a wide variety of drugs, and 87.5 per cent reported being acutely intoxicated on drugs or alcohol at the time of the mines, hallucinogens, barbiturates, and opiates.

A suspect in the case was arrested in the same house where the teen-ager was found at 6:30 p.m. Police said Eldon G. Osborne, 18, of Ponca City was booked on a charge of kidnaping.

Attorneys seeking bail for Patricia Hearst promised on Friday to submit a detailed security plan that would allow the convicted heiress to live in relative safety with her family.

"The court obviously is very much concerned about her safety," U.S. District Judge William H. Orrick said during a 90-minute hearing in San Francisco on defense motions for bail pending appeal and for a new trial.

"Before I rule (on the bail motion), I want to review any plan for security," Orrick said. The judge, who last Sep-tember, sentenced Miss Hearst to seven years in prison for bank robbery, did not indicate when he would rule on the new trial motion. The defense claimed the retrial was in order because the prosecu-tion had suppressed some evidence beneficial to the defendant.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey said later that a security plan using federal marshals, or marshals and private guards, would be given to Orrick early next week, with a ruling expected soon after.

The attorney said the plan was needed because of numerous threats against Miss Hearst for her reported willingness to testify against former companions in the Symbionese Liberation Army.

If Miss Hearst, 22, were granted bail, she still would not go free immediately. She faces state charges of robbery, kidnaping and assault related to a Los Angeles sporting goods store shooting inci-dent.

At the beginning of each semester, every registered student is issued a parking permit for on-campus parking. CULVER CITY (AP)— The State Board of Educa-tion Friday accepted a report on implementing integration in California schools and asked the Department of Education to review it before making final recommendations in January.

The report from the Equal Educational Oppor-tunities Commission (EEOC) proposed that each school district be required to survey the racial makeup of its schools and to the Department of Education for evaluation and approval.

Under the commission's plan, a segregated school would be defined as one "in which the minority student enrollment is so disproportionate as realistically to isolate minority students from other students and thus deprive minority and majority students of an integrated educational experience."

A district found to have segregated schools could adopt its own standard of racial balance or utilize state guidelines in correcting the imbalances.

Board President Marion W. Drinker said there was disagreement among board members on how much leadership the state should provide on desegregating local schools. The board currently has no guidelines on integration in state schools.

In other action, the board rejected a request from a San Francisco con sumer group that it order school districts not to participate in promotions of commercial products. It postponed discussion on adopting nonmandatory guidelines on such promotions, thus leaving the decision with the local school districts.

Wants 18% more money, backs access rule

Farm labor board seeks budget hike

By SUSAN SWARD

SACRAMENTO (AP) California's farm labor camorma's farm labor board Friday proposed an $8.8 million budget for fis-cal 1977-78, an increase of almost 18 per cent above the present budget.

In another development, the Agricultural Labor Relations Board's chairman, Gerald Brown, repeated his support for some form of the board's access rule allowing union organizers on growers' property.

'I think access is important, and there needs to continue to be access for the workers to get their rights under this legislation," Brown said.

Brown, a former Austin, Tex., lawyer appointed as board chairman by Gov. Brown, added, however, that he was open to considering revisions in the access rule if the need for change is proven.

The rule - which is vehemently opposed by grower interests and supported by Cesar Chavez'

United Farm Workers allows union organizers on grower's property for three hours a day.
Brown also said that

Prop. 14, the farm labor initiative, "stirred people up" and might mean it would take longer for some people to accept the state's 1974 farm labor

But he said he thought the measure's defeat at the polls Nov. 2 would have no impact on the board.

Prop. 14, sponsored by the UFW, would have written the board's access rule into law and made some pro-labor changes in the farm labor law.
On the budget issue, board officials cited higher travel, wage and legal costs as some of the reasons for the increased budget, and Brown termed the $8,817,000 budget proposal a reasonable one.

Since the board was set up in August 1975, its budget has been the target of critics, including growers and legislators from rural districts, who argue the board favors Chavez' UFW.

FOR several months this year, the board, which conducts secret ballot elections for farm workers to choose union representation, was shut down while the Legislature battled over board funding.

The board now must submit its budget proposal to Gov. Brown's Finance Department. If the Finance Department accepts that amount, it goes into the governor's proposed budget which he sends to the Legislature.

The Legislature then holds hearings on the budget, including the farm labor board appropriation sure to be controversial because of growers' and rural legislators' criticism

Common Cause seeks initiative for public financing of state elections

Public financing of elections in California, defeated repeatedly in the Legislature, is being tried through a ballot initiative.

The measure, backed by Common Cause, would provide up to $47 million in state funds every four years for statewide and legislative candidates who agreed to abide by its spending limits.

It also would limit individual campaign contribu-tions to $500 for a statewide candidate and $250 for a legislative candidate after the deadline for filing nominating papers. Before that, the limit Plea blocks PUC on phone rate

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) The United States has let itself become more vulnerable to nuclear attack than the Soviet Union, according to a Library of Congress study published Friday.

U.S. strategy still counts on the retaliatory capabilities to create stability, disregarding city defenses for most practi-cal purposes," it said.

The Soviet Union, however, by no means subscribes to similar concepts," said the study, written by John M. Collins, senior specialist in national defense for the Library of Congress.

The study said that, in contrast to this country, "vigorous efforts to protect both population and production base are every-where evident" in Russia.

'Its air defenses are the world's most comprehen-sive and sophisticated," study said. The Kremlin continues to pursue aggressive research and development programs that could culminate in an antiballisticmissile breakthrough when we least expect it."

It also said "Soviet stress on civil defense is very strong," while this country's civil defense was termed a charade. The study outlined various protective measures United States could take instead of relying on its retaliatory arsenal to deter nuclear war.

It said "perfect defenses would not be needed," adding the effort would be directed toward shoring up deterrence "by restoring a better balance between U.S. and Soviet vulnerabilities, which are no longer mutual."

"Even so, switching strategies would not be the study said. simple," "Any decisions to strengthen U.S. city defenses would depend on motivating the American public to support expensive programs that compete with domestic prior-

WASHINGTON-Controversy concerning vaccines vaccine use surfaced in several areas Friday at a national immunization conference sponsored by the federal government.

This has turned out to be a much more complicated matter than I, for one, would have assumed when I first heard about the conference," said Dr. Lewis Thomas, president of Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in his remarks as chairman of the opening session.

Differences of opinion were expressed on the swine flu program, the choice between killed virus and live virus polio vaccines and even the subject of obtaining informed consent for vaccination from the person about to receive vaccine.

He said such cases could be avoided by use of the killed virus vaccine.

Dr. Samuel L. Katz, chairman of the department of pediatrics of Duke University Medical Center, said the polio vaccine question has been re-viewed by a committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics and that the academy has reaffirmed the recommendation that the live virus vaccine be used for most children. He said the academy recognized the usefulness of killed virus vaccine for children who have immunological deficiencies. Such immunologically deficient children would be ill-equipped to deal with a live virus. tion, he said.

The continuing controversy over the swine flu program surfaced in several speakers remarks.

-INDEPENDENT, PRESS-TELEGRAM Long Boach, Calif., Saf., Nev. 12, 1976 atalogs number in billions as mail orders boom

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press

Catalogs are jamming mailboxes and piling up on coffee tables as the holiday season approaches. But the mail-order business has become much more than a Christmas bonus for many compa-

Americans are expected to spend a record $60 billion this year on items purchased through the mail, either from catalogs or as a result of promo tions for individual products. About 7 per cent of all retail sales are mailorder purchases.

The Direct Mail Advertising Association said the three biggest catalog issuers — Sears Roebuck & Co., Montgomery Ward and J. C. Penney — have annual mail-order sales of $33 billion.

Ann Cole, speaking for the direct mailers group. said the boom is the result of several factors: the growing number of working women who have less time to shop; the rising cost of transportation and fuel for a trip to the store; a greater acceptance of business in general; and a greater variety of items to choose from.

"Everybody's doing it." said Miss Cole, when asked about catalog selling. A few years ago, she said, the Fifth Avenue department stores sent out one catalog a year. Now, they may send out a dozen booklets over a 12-month period, some featuring special mail-order collec-

Miss Cole said 2.26 billion catalogs were pro-duced in 1975, up 70 million from the previous year. Sears alone sends out 300 million catalogs a year, she said.

The catalogs offer everything from steak to shoes, from designer dresses to dishwashers. Companies like Sears prothe staples; firms such as Neiman-Marcus of Dallas market the exotic.

George Worley of Montgomery Ward said the company does about $1 billion a year in catalog sales, compared to $3 billion in sales at retail outlets. He said the growth in the catalog division has almost kept pace with the increase in the retail area, where new stores have boosted business.

Montgomery Ward sends out six million copies of each catalog or book, as it is known in the industry. There are four major catalogs: the spring and fall issues of about 1,500 pages each and smaller Christmas and mid-summer sale books.

The company also sends out monthly sale catalogs to reflect rapidly changing prices, colors and styles in order to compete with retail outlets. Rising costs for paper, printing, artwork and postage have caused problems for some mail-order firms. Each of the 1,500page Montgomery Ward catalogs, for example, costs $3 to produce, Worley said.

Some companies charge for their catalogs. The customer applies the pur-chase price of the catalog usually between $1 and $3 — to the cost of the items selected.

Worley said Montgomery Ward considered charging for its catalogs, but rejected the idea. Instead, the company is making mailing lists more selective, using a computer to insure that the

catalogs reach "those people who are most likely to buy from us.'

Some firms specialize in luxury merchandise collections generally unavailable at retail stores. One of the bestknown is the Horchow Collection, a Dallas-based operation headed by Roger Horchow, formerly with Neiman-Marcus.

The catalog began in 1971 as the Kenton Collection, featuring items available in stores controlled by the Kenton Corp.

Horchow took over completely in January 1974 and restructured the catalog so it was not linked to any retail outlet.

Horchow said 1976 sales are estimated at $16 million, up from $14 million last year and from only $2 million in 1971. "The catalog business is, in our decade, what the discount store was 10 years ago." he said.

Horchow sends out one catalog a month — except for December — and will mail 13 million catalogs this year. About one-third of the sales are the Sept. 15 to Dec. 15 Christmas period.

The items for sale range from a $5 device for a wine bottle to prevent drips drips while pouring, a $10,000 set of antique fans from China.

Another type of catalog product is food. Omaha Steaks International, a Nebraska firm — founded in 1917 as a supplier of meat to hotels, hospitals and other institutions began experimenting with mail-order food on a local basis in 1952.

Today, it ships a complete line of meats and poultry, along with some gourmet items such as Beef Wellington, on a national and international basis. Products are packed in special containers with enough dry ice to keep them frozen for seven to 10 days.

Frederick Simon, executive vice president of the company, said the business has "grown very dramatically" in the past five years. "We have products that people in some areas can't get in a retail store," he said. In addition, "there's an ease to buying mail."

The company sends out

The OPEC nations will meet in Qatar in mid-December to discuss prices, and unofficial forecasts indicate an increase of between 10 and 20 per cent may be imposed.

On the basis of new economic, political and military ties with the Arab countries, the U.S. has been hoping to persuade them to hold the line on prices.

But officials admit privately that the victory of Jimmy Carter in the presidential election ten days ago has probably reduced U.S. leverage among Arab countries.

Carter is viewed with apprehension in the Arab world because of his strident campaign attacks on the Arab boycott of Israel and his call for an "eco-nomic declaration of war" in the event of another oil embargo. A State Department spokesman said Thursday that even a 5 per cent increase in the price of oil would add $6 billion to the global import bill. He said the fourfold increase in oil prices since 1973 more than compensates for the higher cost of goods imported by the oil producers. International inflation is regarded by the OPEC countries as the chief justification for a price inстеазе.

The U.S. campaign for Arab restraint may intensify at next month's meeting of the Paris-based Conference on International Economic Cooperation. At that meeting, economic relationships between rich and poor countries will be discussed, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is scheduled to attend.

The present schedule calls for a meeting to conclude on the eve of the OPEC conference in Another top Demo questions tax cut

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP)-Another top House Demo-crat Friday questioned whether a tax cut would be the best medicine for the nation's economy next уеаг.

President-elect Jimmy Carter said last week he will consider a tax cut to get the economy moving if the current economic slowdown continues much longer.

But Rep. Henry S. Reuss, chairman of the House Banking Committee, said he would prefer spending on jobs programs as the better solu-tion to the slowdown, although he said "the two are not mutually exclusive."

Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said earlier in the week he thought a tax cut should be approached "with great caution" and that other alternatives should be considered. Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., has said much the same thing.

Reuss, a Wisconsin Democrat, said in a statement that "job-creating programs are preferable because, unlike a tax cut, the spending could not be diverted into savings. Moreover, the spending would flow directly into labor-intensive activities."

He also said he believes both Carter and Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board will follow "moderately expansive" economic policies next year and that Carter could count on Burns' cooperation.

"I see no reason to think that Dr. Burns will not cooperate with President-elect Carter's economic policies, which I anticipate will be reasonable, sensible and moderate.

Reuss, who had criti-Burns Thursday, issued his new statement after an hour-long meeting with the Fed chairman.

He said he is "confident that a moderately expansive fiscal policy in the Carter administration, which is needed, will be accompanied by a moderately expansive monetary policy. But he said he still didn't like the new lowering of money growth targets by the Fed. While it leaves room for growth in the money supply, it neverthe-less "could be a misleading signal in view of the current economic slowdown.'

Fed policies on money growth are important because they affect interest rates and the borrowing activity of consumers and business. A restricted money supply usually means higher interest rates, while money growth tends to push interest

Court rejects U.S. accident liability

WASHINGTON (AP)-A federal judge in Cleveland has rejected a trucking company's novel attack on court-ordered hiring quotas designed to open up jobs for blacks and other minorities.

U.S. District Judge John Manos dismissed the company's motion to hold governmen sponsible for accident damages allegedly caused by a black driver who was hired to comply with the minority employment

Manos issued the ruling Oct. 20 in the case involving Shippers Dispatch Inc. driver Willie Hall, and the family of Lawrence Malone of Washington, D.C.

A copy of the judge's order became available at the Justice Department on Friday.

If the company's position had been upheld, the decision could have been applied to many other cases and the government could have been forced to pay millions of dollars in

That would have had a significant impact on government efforts to enforce equal employment laws in the trucking industry and other private enterprises.

Justice Department officials have said they believe this was the first time a court had been asked to decide the question of government liability for damages allegedly growing out of minority employment programs.

Judge Manos ruled.

esident-elect faces first major test at own church

BY JAMES McCARTNEY Knight News Service

PLAINS, Ga. — In one of those classic ironies that so often arise in polities, Jimmy Carter will face one of his first major tests since he was elected president right here in his own home town --- popula-

It won't involve the Russians or the Chinese. It will involve the future of the tree-shaded, picturesque Plains Baptist Church, where Carter teaches Bible class just a few blocks from his home.

The issue, simply put, is race: Can a black join the traditionally all-white church?

pledged to attend.

The debate over the future of the church has stirred the town to its depths, splitting families, touching off public arguments and bringing bitterness and acrimony.

On one side, opposing admission of blacks, are those like Albert Williams, a stocky, gray-haired cot ton and peanut farmer and longtime rival of the Carters in the life of the town. Williams, a church deacon, says, "We've only got two things left — the church and our homes.

"They've taken away our school (with integration) and now they're trying to take away our church. Next it will be our homes, and I don't like it.

"I don't know much about communism, but I think the Communists must be behind this.

"I've talked to a lot of niggers here in Plains and they don't want it. They've got their own church, and they don't want to be in ours.

But Williams, whose views predominated in Plains a dozen years ago, does not necessarily represent a majority any longer.

A young woman member of the church, who is equally involved in the controversy, says, "It's going to be very close. A lot has happened here. New people have come to town, younger people, better-educated people. The town has changed.

"Now we're faced with a challenge to our faith. and it's a question of and show that we accept other human beings as equal in the sight of God."

For a tiny, south Geor-gia town like Plains, where racial segregation has been a way of life, the struggle has been trau-

Jimmy Carter's Uncle Hugh, another deacon, who runs an antique store and souvenir shop on the main street, says, "Right now, it's a matter of trying to save our church."

Jimmy Carter's mother. known universally as Miss Lillian, is on the other side from where Uncle Hugh apparently stands. She has fought for desegregation along with her son and many other members of the Carter family and has been quoted as saying, in that church. . . They're back to fighting the Civil War...

The current crisis for the church presents serious problems for Jimmy Carter.

First, there will be questions about his powers of leadership and persua-sion with old friends and acquaintances in his own

hometown. Carter's press secre-tary, Jody Powell, has said that the president-elect hopes the church meeting "will produce a meeting "will produce a decision which will be amicable and will protect the right of all to worship, regardless of race."

But Carter may face an agonizing decision if the congregation should refuse to permit blacks to wor-

Kissinger plans Mexican trip

While maintaining a low profile in his last weeks as secretary of state, Henry A. Kissinger plans a trip to Mexico to attend the installation of the new president, Jose Lopez Por-tillo, it was learned

The trip to Mexico follows an agreement on allowing American prisoners to complete their sentences in the U.S. and underscores close relations between the two countries.

A 72-hour visit by Kissinger to Mexico in June seems to have cleared the air of tensions, particularly in regard to the plight of American prisoners who had been claiming maltreatment in Mexican

Under a treaty now being prepared, the prisoners, and Mexican inmates in U.S. prisons, would have the right to complete their sentences in their home countries.

the United Nations and in other international forums attacking policies of the industrialized West.

Some analysts view this as growing out of Echeverria's ambitions to become the U.N. secretary general, and there is some doubt whether his successor will be as strident.

Bush type sweet peas grow easily and provide lots of garden color. Bijou variety grows to about 15-inches, produces four to five ruffled flowers on seven inches nch stems, and are cuttable.

Apartment house dwellers, mobile home occupants, as well as home gardeners, can all grow them in containers, hanging baskets, planters, or window boxes. Seeds placed between two folds of a towel and kept moist sprout within four or five days. Discard the

THE FOLLOWING suggestion may seem a bit strange, but I recommend fertilizing such deciduous flowering shrubs and trees as flowering quince, forsy-lhia, snowball bush, wlegela, syringa lilac bush, deutzia, philadelphus, hydrangea and some others.

The feeding helps them grow better, because they flower before the leaves appear. One of the popular deciduous blooming shrub is hydrangea. It leafs out first and doesn't bloom until May or June. Deciduous fruit trees should be manured and bone meal or a flower truit fertilizer applied at this time.

Persimmor is one of the fewer undependable fruit bearing trees. Some experts claim water should be witheld as the fruit is developing, whereas, others recommend watering them as they require periodic watering.

Our personal experience on two gardening jobs the personal experience on two gattering jobs some years ago was the gratifying results after treating those trees in the following manner. (Keep in mind, however, we're referring to the Hachiya variety persimmen which is considered an undependable crop bearer. It bears good size fruit that is somewhat blunt at the top

The more dependable and successful fruit bearer is the Fuyu variety, whose fruit is shaped like a tomato and eaten like an apple.

Late January the trees were fed a similar amount but of a balanced fertilizer containing 6 percent nitrogen, 10 per cent phosphorus, 4 percent potash, plus trace minerals. Three months later only half the amount of fertilizer was applied again. The mature trees were periodically watered at a depth of four feet.

Now don't misunderstand, or assume that a miracle took place and the trees produced a massive crop of fruit. More ripening truit held on and matured.

The same procedure was followed the next year. The trees ripened 40 percent of the fruit, which was much better than they had ever done in the past

He found that it couldn't be done. A man at the door turned him away. If by some oversight he had got in, he would have been mystified by the ritual.

We all know what that kind of lodge is. A lodge is a fraternal organization with defined goals and ideals expressed in secret ritual. Not everyone can join. Initiates are chosen by criteria of morals, manners, sex, race, creed or ethnic background. A lodge is exclusive and discriminatory.

Is a church a lodge? The answer is a kind of "Yes" and a stern "No."

In another city some outsiders and dissident members described a beautiful and historic church as "The Ecclesiastical Country Club."

This remark offended loyal members. "This is a Christian church. Our doors are always open to all sorts and conditions of men.

And yet, looking around the pews on a Sunday morning it was easy to understand the origin of the insult. One saw several tycoons, a former governor, business and social leaders, ranking military officers, respected doctors and lawyers, honored professors and others in or aspiring to some kind of aristocracy. The educational and financial achievements of these people must have been in the community's highest percentile. The ministers, of course, knew how to preach to such people.

If "all sorts and condi-tions of men" had come to church some Sunday, they wouldn't have been back the next Sunday.

churches today have the architectural remnants of Altar screens.

In our pluralistic society churches as lodges are found on many levels. Few are country clubs. Some are more like labor unions in a pious mood. Many are defending the virtues of the American middleclass. Some are devoted to special visions, beautiful or insane or maybe both. A few are placid clubs for placid elderly people who have known each other for 50 years. Ecclesiastical lodges are historically inevitable. Perhaps they are also emotionally necessary. Perhaps all of us need some exclusive brotherhood and secret ritual. But that is not what Christianity is about. The lodge is a social tool. If it becomes an end in itself, it betrays the Gospel. And that is suicide.

"Go ye into all the world —" A church that doesn't have a mission to: all mankind is a failure. The ladies and gentlemen of the "Ecclesiastical Country Club" should re-turn to their little kingdoms of wealth and intellect with a better sense of love and responsibility for their fellow men.

SOPHISTICATED HICKS

Pagan originally meant the exact opposite. A pagan was a country fellow, a hick, a yokel. Christianity, we tend to forget, began as a citified religion. It was founded in the great cities of Rome. It was from the beginning "sophisticated." Surely the adjective in its best sense applies to Paul.

Christianity progressed from being a persecuted sect to the status of being the religious, philosophical and secular power of the Roman Empire. Anybody who wanted to be some-body was a Christian. It was the religion of megalopolis.

In the villages and farms there were many who had not got the Word. They continued to worship Jupiter, Juno, Venus and Mars. The Christians looked down on them, caliing them pagans — hicks.
The "beautiful people" of today seem to be far removed from the poor peasant folk of the Roman Empire. But are they really? One sees in the eyes and senses in the

Son's testimony

By NEIL MORGAN
Son Diego Tribune

EDITOR'S NOTE: This tribute, written by a fellow newspaperman, calls attention to National Bible Week, Nov. 21-28.

When a single bolt of lightning killed the four daughters of the Sunday School superintendent in the small Carolina town where I was growing up, it was more than a tragedy. It was a challenge to my father, as the town preacher, to hold steady the faith of people who saw that deadly flash as a sign from heaven.

I had grown accustomed to hearing my father read the Bible aloud each morning in the Greek and Hebrew as well as English because he loved language almost as much as he loved the Bible itself, and he searched diligently for every nuance in God's Word.

So now he went to his knees for hours to pray his way out, and from his study through the night came his tormented voice, reading the Bible aloud for solace, for guidance, for faith.
It was hard to fall back this time on God's will as an explanation for the ter-rors of fate.

But when he rose to preach the funeral over the bodies of those four girls he read from the Bible of a tender God of mercy. Now he was serene, and the faith he had drawn the Bible brought hope to a town staggered by a bolt of lightning.

He abhorred those who preached of hellfire and damnation, and he wrote a book that interpreted God as the forgiving god of the New Testament and rejected the angry Jehovah of Old Testament lore.

In those years in the rural South it was not always wise to set aside any passage of the Bible less than the final word. But my father lived actively to within a month of 101 years, and his Bible was always beside him as an ally and as the source of his strength.

What else sustained him for decades in these small towns? What gave him the drive, in the near oblivion of backwater Carolina, to hold fast? Here was a scholar who walked or rode his bicycle through the rain to visit the sick and dying, who struggled against poverty through-out his life and yet main-

How To Be Enthusiastic

Once every year I read a fascinating book by Frank Bettger, who is said to be one of the greatest insurance salesmen in the country. Bettger talks about the principles of selling, but one chapter in this book contains the best lesson in enthusiasm I have ever seen.

This man didn't start out selling insurance. In-stead, he was a baseball player and his first job was with a small town league team. He lost that job, not because he couldn't play ball well, but because the manager said he was too lazy and unenthusiastic to make good.

Rettger drifted around for a while and then got another chance in professional baseball with a team in New Haven. Before beginning that job he became friendly with one of the older players and confided in him that he hadn't been able to get ahead in baseball because he had a reputation for being lazy. "Well," the other man said, "no one knows you up there in New Haven. So practice the "as if" principle; act as if you were full of enthusiasm. When you get out on that field the first day, act as though you were the alivest man in the world. Quit telling rourself vou're slow and lazy: Act as though you were motivated with powerful enthusiasm."

Bettger ran out on the field that same afternoon, he took his friend's good advice. Although it was, a hundred degrees in the shade, he sped round those bases like greased lightning. He acted like a man possessed. He threw the ball so fast it burned the hands of his team mates. And, one time at bat; he got to first safely, went on to slide into second with such force that the baseman dropped the ball, managed to do the same at third, and so got a the loose. The next day the New Haven papers said that there had never been such a dynamo of enthusi asm on the local diamond. The fans began to call him 'Pep" Bettger.

Naturally, Bettger sent these clippings back to the manager who had fired him for being lazy. Projected upward by continuing enthusiasm, two years later he was playing major league ball, second baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals. As he points out, "Nothing did it but the assumption of bound-less enthusiasm." Acting as if he was enthusiastic, became in fact enthusiastic.

When the time came for him to leave baseball, he decided to go into life insurance. He knew that to succeed he had to be enthusiastic about a business which, up to then, had left him cold. So he practiced self-motivation and the "as if" principle. He told himself that selling life insurance was the greatest calling known to man and that people needed it as much as they did their daily bread. And enthusiastically he told his prospects that they couldn't afford to let another minute go by without buying a new life insurance policy. In no time at all, he was breaking sales records through enthusiasm.

How do you feel about your job? Is it just routine, or is it to your mind the greatest opportunity in the world? You may be saying to yourself as you read this column that I don't know your job — it's pretty ordinary. Ordinary? Who made it ordinary? With real enthusiasm, you can clothe it with tremendous quality. Love it, think excited about it. Soon your whole personality will overflow with vitality and energy and your job that you thought dull and ordin on a single! nary will become fascinat-He was like a demon on ing. Then you will find The proponents of "abortion on demand" make much of arguments involving the health of the mother, the tragedy of unwanted children, the stigma of illegitimate birth, together with such easier to appreciate and comprehend reasons as re-

and/or the clear expectation of birth deformities. In getting to the heart of the controversy however, can we not ask ourselves Under just what circumstances or conditions abortion morally RIGHT or morally WRONG? If man simply does not believe in immortality, God and/or the hereafter, that man is merely a higher, more intelligent type of animal, or that death spells the absolute end of the human body and spirit for all - then, of course, there would seem to be no real argument! On such a basis, abortion would logically be no more wrong or immoral than "thinning out the herd", slaughter-new opportunities in it. You will move up and then up again.

So, if you want enthusiasm and vitality, live as if you have them. And you do have them. You have tremendous values within yourself. The Bible tells us that "The kingdom of God is within you." Health, happiness, power, vitality, strength, and every other wonderful thing is built within you waiting to be used. If you aren't living as if you have them, you're not living up to yourself. You've got what it takes 8 remember that and act accordingly. Be enthusiastic.

ing animals for food, sport, experimentation, or for whatever reason. If lieve in God and the immortal spirit, the sanctity and dignity of every human life, and/or sub-scribes to the validity of the Commandment "thou shalt not kill" — we would seem to be in another "ball park".

Many advocates of abortion maintain that it should be permissable at any time the mother so demands, while others maintain that it should only be permissable during the first three months of pregnancy (1st Trimes-ter), or during the first four months, or within whatever time-frame an individual or collective judgement may decide or rationalize. At this point, assuming that we consider the matter a moral question, would it not be fair to ask ourselves - At just what instant between conception and the birth process is the actual or official (if you will) "cut off" point before which it is morally RIGHT to execute an abortion and after which it is morally WRONG to abort? Is the cut-off point 2-months 29-days 23-hours and 59 minutes after conception; is it 3-months 29days 23-hours and 59-minutes; is it when labor begins; or is it when the baby's head is clear of the birth canal or whatever? In any event, just who has the absolute authority, the unquestioned authority moral and otherwise, to presume to state the exact instant that an abortion (i.e. death of the unborn) could shift from being morally wrong to morally right. Certainly no mortal man has the unquestioned authority and/or competence to proclaim the exact instant. Really! Who but God himself could really presume to convincingly rule on such a question?

It is understood that no

competent medical authority will deny that conception is virtually an instantaneous occurrence From that instant, without interruption by abortion or miscarriage, the embryo/ fetus will progressively develop into the recognizable human form in a matter of a very few weeks the living process continu-ing on until terminated by death. From the above, and since the event of birth is not an instantaneous occurrence, it would seem logical to conclude that conception, the only clearly definable instant during the life cycle (other than death), IS the beginning of human life rather than the various arbitrary times and periods designated by the various advocates of abortion, none of whom can or will specify with authority the exact moment that human life begins! If the advocates of abortion and/or their subjects reject the argument that conception is the beginning of human life, but cannot themselves specify with recognized authority the exact instant that human life begins, it would seem reasonable to conclude that they could well be supporting and/or committing murder (however commendable their motives) under the moral and/or civil law. Even if with the moral or religious aspects of the question, it should not be lorgotten that the U.S. Constitution states that NO ONE shall be denied LIFE, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happi-

William H. McCaughey Captain, USN (Ret.) Los Alamitos

Footnote: As an aside on the abortion advocates' arguments that unwanted children should not be allowed to be born, I can say that the world is full of deeply loved and wanted children who were definitely NOT WANTED at the time their mothers became pregnant. The average parent, once their child is born, wanted or unwanted, loves the child deeply and would not part with it for a billion dollars. Further, are we going to deny the great reservoir of love provided by the many thousands of couples who yearn to adopt the children they are not able to sire themselves?

Threefold time

Christmas serves a threefold purpose for mankind. It provides for us, especially at a time we most need it, a bridge to our fellow man, an excuse to rest, and a means to reestablish those ties with God which have weakened over the year's duration.

We are a frightened and suspicious lot and, as the crime rate rises, will be-come increasingly more so. Ridden with these fears for an entire year, we welcome even a oneday bridge to our fellows. Christmas opens many doors which are normally closed and provides us access (through a multitude of organizations that spring up just for this season) to many ways in which we can once again extend our hands.

me Beach, Calif., Sat., Nov. 13, 1976

We also need this time for the rest and release denied us most of the year. It is a sad commentary on our times (but true) that we need an excuse to let down our hair as well as our mental barriers to merriment and good fellowship. Dad can dress in a Santa suit instead of a business suit. Through cards we renew our family ties and open ways to expressions of love by giving gifts.

Lastly, Christmas fulfills spiritual needs left unmet in the hurried scramble of everyday living. It is a time to sing carols and to attend special services and plays. Especially, we are reminded once again that God also gives.

Let us be thankful, for Christmas is its own gift Ms. Terry Humble Long Beach

Fast execution again denied; killer asks 6-pack 'last meal'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) Gary Mark Gilmore was turned down again Friday on his request that he be executed on schedule, but he went ahead with plans for his death before a firing squad. asking for a six-pack of beer as his last meal.

Lt. E.S. Fagan, supervisor of the state prison's maximum-se-curity unit, said Gilmore asked for the beer casually. He said no decision has been made but that the request probably would be granted if the execution is held.

GOV. Calvin Rampton said he would not rescind his stay of execu-tion to allow the convicted killer to die Monday as originally sched-

Gilmore, 35, who has said he would rather die than spend the rest of his life in prison, appealed to the governor Thursday night through a statement to let him die as originally sentenced.

ing the execution puts him through "the stress of cruel, unusual and inhuman punishment."

A spokesman for the governor said Rampton had made it clear that he plans no further action, meaning the Utah Board of Pardons will consider the case at its regular meeting which starts Wednesday. The governor delayed the execution so the board could review the case.

In another development, Clyde Patterson, president of the Utah State Bar, said after a meeting of its executive committee Friday afternoon that the group could not judge whether California attorney Dennis Boaz breached legal ethics.

BOAZ WAS hired by Gilmore after he fired his two court-appointed attorneys. One of the two, Craig Snyder, complained to the Bar adout Boaz, Patterson said.

The other attorney, Michael Esplin, said he had also asked that the matter be considered, after a request by Gilmore's brother, Michael Gilmore.

Committee member James Lee said there was no formal complaint against Boaz, who is not a member Supreme Court has admitted him to practice in Utah for this case only.

Lee, however, said questions have been raised over Bar rules of professional responsibility involving a conflict of interest between lawyer and client, but added that the committee had no evidence other than hearsay and news re-

Boaz, in an interview Friday, said he believes that in an ideal society all executions should be nationally televised, with the chief executive pulling the switch, as a deterrent to crime. But he said he did not propose this for Gilmore's execution.

Boaz also is a free-lance writer who has said he might market his writings about the case. Esplin said the brother wanted to make certain that Gilmore's attorney acts in the condemned man's interests.

Gilmore appeared angry and uncooperative Friday morning but had calmed down by midday, Lt. Fagan said.

George T. Latimer, chairman of the Board of Pardons, said the board will meet at the prison at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday "and we will make the decision that day, unless something I don't know about delays it.

HE SAID he expects Gilmore to be represented at the hearing and that other interested groups, such as the American Civil Liberties Union, likely will send spokesmen. The ACLU opposes the execution.

Rampton's office reported receiving dozens of telegrams and letters, mostly from out of state, urging that the execution not be carried out. A few urged that it be carried out, said Paul Sheffield, Rampton's press aide.

He said Rampton's granting of a reprieve Thursday had resulted in calls from within Utah disagreeing with his action.

GOP job-holders facing ax look to Civil Service

By FRANK VAN RIPER Knight News Service

WASHINGTON - Wellpaid Republican political appointees, fearing the ax under the incoming Carter administration, are scrambling to have themselves reslotted as career civil servants—at roughly the same pay level and possibly at the expense of government workers with-out political pull.

Sources on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee said that most of the scrambling involved appointees in the federal pecking order, at the level of deputy assist-ant secretary. Such jobs generally pay approximately $35,000 annually.

THE SOURCES said that the committee has begun investigations of possibly improper resletting attempts in several federal agencies, including the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Agriculture Department. and Department of Labor. Also under scrutiny is a planned reorganization of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms in the Treasury Department.

The advantage of career appointment is simple. No such employe can be fired unless there are sufficient grounds, usually grave incompetence or insubordination. Even here, such a person has recourse to appeal procedures under

Civil Service regulations.

As described to a reporter, a political appointee, listed under "Schedule C" of the Civil Service regulations where Service regulations where there is no protection from arbitrary dismissal by a new president or cabinet members, puts himself up for a career position in his agency or department, assuming one is vacant.

He or she would then be placed in a pool of other workers seeking the same post. In theory, the job would be awarded under merit procedures, strictly spelled out in Civil Servsaid, "By putting himself up for the career job, this gives his superiors in the agency a chance of going through the motions of picking the person com-petitively, when actually there is some room for maneuvering. The source noted that often the political appointee seeking career as-signment is "a competent guy who understandably is having some thoughts now about his job security. And the security offered by the federal Civil Service sud-denly looks pretty good." The problems arise,

Man at bank's door had gun, and cyanide

By DICK HOWLAND

He had been standing for about 15 minutes Friday in the Bank of America parking lot at 2240 Bellflower Blvd. He looked to be about 25, six-foot, about 185 pounds.

Maybe it meant nothing, a passerby thought, but why would someone hang around the back door of a bank at three in the afternoon, wearing a knit watch-cap pulled low over his head and clutching a knapsack?

And what about those rubber surgical gloves pulled up over his hands and arms?

Officer Mike Linck, too, thought it looked suspicious, as he drove up in a patrol car to check out the passerby's report. A sec-ond patrol car cruised

"He was really eyeball-ing that black-and-white," Linck recalled, "I told him to keep his hands away from his body and stand still."

Linek cautiously approached the suspect and tensed when the man dropped the knapsack and shoved one hand into a trouser pocket. Linck expected a weapon. Instead, the man pulled out a small bottle, put it to his mouth, and gulped what was inside. The bottle crashed to the ground as the man slumped onto the pavement.

Linck put his hand inside the knapsack and found a .22-caliber pistol.

The man was now gasping and writhing in convulsions. Paramedics said that whatever was in the bottle smelled like almonds. They began treating him for cyanide poi-

L.B. pupils show mixed results in state tests

Test-score averages of Long Beach area children in the second, third and sixth grades are lower than state averages, analysis of state education department statistics shows.

But the averages—gleaned from California Assessment Pro-gram tests given last spring—also show local youngsters improving over last year in all but second, third and 12th-grade reading.

That mixed bag of results is from tests given all 1.15 million second, third, sixth and 12th graders in California schools.

Second and third graders took reading tests only.

· Sixth and 12th graders were tested in reading, writing, spelling and math.

Test scores of individual students weren't released. State education officials say the tests are aimed at showing schools and school districts how they compare to each other and at pinpointing areas needing teaching emphasis.

The major change in score averages over the previous year in the Long Beach Unified School District was that sixth-grade averages fell slightly below state averages.

BUT LOCAL youngsters im-proved over last year in sixth and 12th-grade writing, spelling and

Sixth-grade reading scores also improved but 12th-grade reading scores dropped.

According to Long Beach school officials, test averages in the lower grades have been declining in rela-tion to state averages for several

They say that one out of five local school children now come from welfare families. It was one out of 20 ten years

Statisticians for the Long Beach schools said that a change in the "background factors" used in computing test scores also helped damage the sixth-grade averages.
Sixth-grade reading scores averaged 1.4 per cent below state averages in terms of numbers of test questions answered correctly, the statistics showed.

Long Beach averages lagged 3 per cent in writing, 7 per cent in spelling and 1.7 per cent in math.

AVERAGES for Long Beach run contrary to state trends in that high school scores are higher than elementary school scores.

That has been the case for several years, school officials said. In another test-score comparison-in which Long Beach Unified is compared to other California school districts—the local averages in the lower grades took a nosedive while 12th-grade averages held up better

Third-grade reading averages declined from the 40th to the 32nd percentile among state school dis-

But the same district-to-district comparison showed 12th grade reading scores climbing from the 55th to the 60th percentile.

Twelfth-grade math rose from the 66th to the 67th percentile, writing dropped from the 79th to the 67th percentile and spelling declined from the 75th to the 72nd percentile.

David Gordon, assistant evaluation chief of the state education department, said officials of urban districts like Long Beach with large numbers of disadvantaged children feel the district-to-district comparison is unfair.

THAT'S because it pits them against the many smaller, weal-thier districts in the state, he said.

He said districts like Long Beach like to point instead to their ranking in a "comparison score-band" that shows how they stack up in relation to districts of the same scole-geonomic makeup. same socio-economic makeup.

Long Beach scores do look better when placed in that light.

The district's averages were deemed satisfactory in every instance by state education statisticians who analyzed the scores.

Dr. Vern Hinze, superintendent of Long Beach Unified, said local students "surpassed their counterparts in other comparable California school districts" on seven out of the 10 tests given.

When Long Beach scores are compared to estimates of national norms, local averages are at or above national averages, he added.

(Gordon said that national averages are derived from private test-ing companies and are often out of date. Comparisons to national estimates aren't as accurate as to state figures, he said.) "High school test results, which typically have been below the national level in California, accounted for the strongest showing for local students," Hinze said.

HE SAID that local high school seniors achieved above average on nine out of 10 state and national tests of reading, English and math.
As local students move from elementary grades into junior and senior high, their test score aver-ages increase, he said.

'At grade twelve, students are well above state averages on all tests," Hinze said.
"We think this is a major accomplishment, especially when it you consider that when local pupils enter school they score below four i out of five students in the state on entry level tests designed to measure aptitude for success in

Ex-officers cleared of 3 charges

By ROBERT GORE Steff Writer

Three charges against two of three policemen fired as the result of a violent bar-hopping spree last March 11 were dropped by the Long Beach Civil Service Commission during proceedings Friday.

The charge of insubordination was dropped against both Michael Callahan and Robert Hamby, and the charge of lying to superior officers was dropped against Callahan.

PAUL STEED, the third officer appealing his dismissal, did not have either charge filed against him by the Police Department.

The remaining charges against

defense Friday and lawyers for both sides said they expect to com-plete their cases today. Then the commission is expected to take the case under submission for an indefinite period.

STEED said he had never pinched barmaid Jill Cohn - as she contended in her testimony and restrained her in the most humane way possible when she came at him in a "combative" manner after drenching him in beer.

(Steed used a standard police restraining hold, rendering her temporarily unconscious, and then placed her on the floor.)

ına fishermen in fear for livelihood

By JOE SEGURA Staff Writer

A mood of frustration, like the strong scent from the moored tuna boats, hovers over the Long Beach-San Pedro harbors.

Many of the boats, undergoing repairs during this off-season—a period that will last until early January-are idle now.

But it isn't idleness, it's uncertainty about the future that is causing the frustration.

A federal court has halled tune fishing in an effort to save the porpoise, and many San Pedro fish-ermen, despite the fact that most do not use methods that harm the porpoise, believe a chain reaction from that decision may rock the tuna industry in this area, costing

Rehnquist rejected an attempt by captains and crews of four tuna boats to temporarily set aside the industry ban.)

"There's great fear and uncertainty among the people who have worked here all their lives," says Bill McCarthy, a state-licensed deputy weighmaster.

McCarthy works on the docks of the cannery district, and he says thousands of jobs from the large tuna processing plants in the area will be lost, along with the invest-ments made by the small tuna boat owners.

"Even the little boats that look like outhouses," McCarthy notes, "are worth thousands of dollars because of the equipment they

According to Terry Drummond, a sales manager for the California Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., some tuna boats purchase special nets, costing between $160,000 and $180,000, to avoid burting the porpoises used in catching tuna.

"The American Fishing Association," Drummond says, "is the only one in the world trying to

By BRAD ALTMAN Staff Writer

Just a stone's throw from Long Beach's unemployment and welfare offices is the Catholic Social Service at 123 E. 14th St., and its director couldn't be happier with the location.

"This is where the poor people are," said the Rev. Thomas J. Ledwith, director of the Long Beach

Catholic Social Service office well as 15 others in the Southland. 'That's why we're here.'

The service survives on donations, including money from the United Way, which is hoping to raise $33 million in its 1976 fundraising campaign. If it is successful, some $7 million of that will go to Catholic charities nationwide.

"It sounds like a lot of money,"

said father Ledwith in an inter view Friday. "But we're accountable to the people. As director, I earn $13,000 a year, and most of it goes back to the church." About 230 persons a month walk through the center's doors to seek treatment for emotional and men-tal problems.

By RALPH HINMAN Jr. Staff Writer

Delving into musty, dusty records in search of a family tree often is an avocation both time-consuming and expensive — as many amateur genealogists ruefully will attest.

For researchers in this area, however, seemingly modest facili-ties installed only last spring in a Long Beach church may save inestimable time and money.

This is — to use the full, formal title — "The Long Beach California East Stake Branch Genealogical Little and the state of brary." As the name suggests, it is a function of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints - Mormons for short.

"Branch' is what we usually call this place," laughed retired Long Beach elementary school principal Ernest Webecke, associate librarian in charge. We are one of about 220 comparable branches operated by the LatterDay Saints in cities across this continent and around the world."
"There are no fees," he said in answer to a question. "Anyone interested in genealogy, whether Mormon or not, may use our facilities" with payment of a small service and postage charge.

WEBECKE and his wife, Muriel, a onetime Long Beach City College mathematics teacher who now is associate librarian and the self-described "silent partner," preside over what at first glance is an unimpressive room in the church at 1140 Ximeno Ave. (Library access is via a patio facing

A bank of microfilm readers faces from one wall a grouping of card catalog files at the other end. Separating them are genealogical reference books and a work table. One is impressed, however, when he becomes aware of what this branch provides.

For it is a key, a direct link for Long Beach area residents and their families to family records filling six caverns maintained by the Mormons some 22 miles from Salt Lake City. There, buried under 500 feet of

Rocky Mountain granite at controlled-cool temperatures, are several million microfilm rolls on which are preserved the limbs, branches and roots of many an American family.

Humanity's basic documents across a thousand years survive there, filmed copies of such vital statistics as tax rolls, military musters, marriage licenses, certificates of birth and death — and much

Data collected in North America and from British sources numerically predominate, Webecke

Even so, Europe, Africa and the Orient are represented in a treasure trove the U.S. church began collecting on a formal, organized basis in 1897.

Actual keys to all this are the filing cabinets in the Long Beach branch, filled as they are with a 140-roll microfilm "directory" to buried treasures.

New schedule for flu shots offered

Inoculations to protect against influenza will be offered again this weekend, Dr. Elton F. Blum, city health officer, announced.

Injections will be offered today and Sunday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. in five junior high schools in the city: Jefferson, 750 Euclid Avc.; Lindbergh, 1022 E. Market St.; Stanford, 5871 Los Arcos; Stephens, 1830 W. Columbia St.; and Washington 1450 Coder Ave. ington, 1450 Cedar Ave.

Beginning with only a family surname or other basic clue, Webecke said, a researcher often can quickly locate needed documents certifying, for instance, that John A. Foundingfather claimed his 100 acres of Connecticut's green and pleasant land in 1665.

Or that John's great-grandson was pensioned following the Revolution, his grandson five times re-moved after the Civil War. It's not always that bloody, however. Weddings and births— and deaths— are there, too. Copies of the desired actual evidence may be obtained for study at the local branch, church members and non-members alike, for a twoweek service fee of 50 cents, plus ten cents postage.

It beats, by any standard, the time, effort and money needed at home and abroad to tramp from library to archives to city hall in search of some vital, if elusive. scrap of paper.

GEORGE FUKUZAKI, R, AND UNIDENTIFIED FISHERMAN "Big Boats Will Work Closer To Small Ones," Says Fukuzaki -Staff Photo by ROGER COAR

Tuna fishermen left numb by court ban

Rép. Glenn Anderson, a sponsor of the Marine Mammai Protection Act, which placed a limit on the deaths of porpolses incidental to netting tuna in 1972, agrees.
His they are forced by their own government to leave the seas," Anderson sid, "foreign fishermen will take their place with no regard at all for matine mammal protection.

"Market prices for tuna will also increase, affecting the processing indus-try and the consumer."

"IN ONE simple act, an important domestic industry has been threatenedand the porpoise, the center of the entire controversy, is in more trouble

The federal court ban. according to John Mulligan, executive director of the Tuna Research Founlation on Terminal Island, only affects the larger tuna boats in the 2,500-ton range, anchored mainly in the San Diego area.

"The boats used in the San Pedro area don't use the seining purse net, Mulligan notes. "That's all the boat has to declare under the law when it applies for a permit to fish (Seining purse nets measure a half-mile long and are lowered to depths of 360 feet and are pulled in hydraulically.

(YELLOWFIN tuna swim below herds of por-poises, and they are -environmentalists say by the thousandseach fishing season.

(In fact, fishermen say, they know where the tuna are by spotting porpoises playing on the surface of the water.)

Many of the boats in the Long Beach-San Pedro harbors are on a smaller scale, about 500 tons.

"The ban will bring the bigger boats inside, closer in the area our boats work," says George Fukuzaki, 64, a former boat owner who still works aboard the Mauritania.

One of the owners of the Mauritania, who wanted to be identified only as "Nick," agrees with Fukuzaki but adds that the larger tuna boats may even seek distant fishing areas, including waters off Africa, New Zealand or New Guinea.

August Felando, director of the American Tuna Boat Association in San Diego, meanwhile, said despite Rehnquist's rejection, his association would challege the tuna fishing ban before the entire United States Supreme Court in the months to come.

The uncertainty, meanwhile, is continuing to breed the frustration.

Steed characterized the Pandemonium as "the kind of bar the average person doesn't go in to.' He said the last bar the group visited, the Red Mill Inn, 115 Locust Ave., was frequented by homosexuals.

The defense contended that Steed was extremely well trained and used the restraining hold as a result of that training.

Commissioner Aaron Herrington then asked Steed if he received any training on the public behavior expected of an officer, to which Steed said he had.

"SINCE you were so well trained," Herrington began, asking Steed if he shouldn't have stopped the group sometime during the evening's activities, which began at a Seal Beach bachelor party for

"Our staff uses a non-Judgmental, supportive approach," he explained.

"PRIMARILY, we are set up for individual and tamily counseling and psychotherapy. The counselors all have masters' degrees in social work."

The center also acts as a referral service: "We show people how to find the help they need when we do not offer that specific aid."

There's money available to give to families in emergencies. And social workers spend uch of their time at schools, teaching and counseling students.

HOWEVER, women with problem pregnancies are steered away from choosing abortion, considered sinful by Catholics, he said, adding: "Our emphasis is on prenatal and postnatal planning. The woman would be encouraged to make a decision on whether to keep the child or give it up for adoption.

"Very often," he continued, "the girl sees abortion as the only alternative. We try to clarify the alternatives." In an emergency, "we'll see anyone," said Father Ledwith. "Of course we're here primarily to serve the Catholic community."

Hospital pays man it blinded

NEW YORK (AP) - A 22-year-old California man who became blind shortly after birth here settled a . malpractice suit Friday in Manhattan Supreme Court . for $400,000.

Christopher Hanson, born prematurely at St. Vincent's Hospital or Aug. 22, 1954, suffered what his attorney, Aaron Broder, characterized as "oxygen blindness.

Broder charged that Hanson was given oxygen beyond the limits set by the Board of Health. As a consequence, he said, the baby developed retrolental fibroplasia (oxygen blindness).

The settlement by the hospital came as trial was about to begin before Justice Edward J. Greenfield. Hanson, who lives in Modesto, is married to a woman who is partly blind. They have a 3-week-

State transportation plan attacked by rural areas

FRESNO (AP)—An initial draft of California's transportation plan came under fire Friday from San Joaquin Valley officials who said it rural areas and shifts responsibility to local governments without a transfer of funding.

The hearing before about 100 people here was the third of six statewide on the proposal before the State Transportation Board.

The board opened the meeting by saying that the plan will incorporate revisions that grow out of criticism at the hearings.

Officials from Fresno, Tulare, Merced, San Luis Obispo and Mono

counties all pointed out what they consider glaring deficiencies.

Several spokesmen said the plan is "poorly worded" or "vague." Others indicated they have not had enough time to review it properly and asked the board to delay adoption until they can submit more thorough critiques.

There is little evidence in the

He said by proposing that direct travel subsidies be paid to lowincome families and the handicapped, the transportation plan is overstepping its boundaries and drafting a social welfare plan. Fresno Mayor Ted Wills said the plan is rife with ambiguity indicating his own city council had come up with as many as seven interpretations of a single policy statement.

He called "unconscionable" the state's plan to more or less with draw its participation in the decision-making process while retaining needed funding.

Citing Fresno's uncompleted freeway system, Wills said: "For 20 years you promised to finish construction of any highways Now. construction of our highways. Now, you're telling us to build them our selves, but you're hanging onto all

Problems beset Cal. unit for disabled

California's rehabilitation director, a polio victim once rejected by the department he now heads, is having trouble with his policy of focusing on the severely disabled.

Ed Roberts, named by Gov. Brown a year ago to head the Department of Rehabilitation, concedes that severely handicapped persons haven't been flocking to its doors in the numbers he was counting on.

The department's caseload is down 33 per cent, more than Roberts says he expected, and it's committed only 49 per cent of its budget so far, compared to a normal 60 per cent by this month.

Roberts said he learned that one reason for the caseload drop was that the handicapped lose such benefits as federal aid to the disabled, Medi-Cal and homemaker chore service once they get a job.

And the more severely handicapped stand to lose their larger benefits and therefore are reluctant to apply, he said.

Deputy Director Richard Soderberg called this "a real disincentive in the system. You would have to earn a lot of money to overcome the loss of all benefits. Some you'd have to pay almost $20,000 a year, and those jobs aren't that easy to come by. Roberts admits there ist, but that's why I was appointed," says the 37-year-old director. "For the first time, policy is being set by a disabled person."

One unidentified Northern California district administrator for the department, quoted in Friday's Sacramento Bee, saw the issue differently. "We're losing the re-that's our power base," the official said. "There is arbitrariness in our Jeadership, and a hell of a lot of money is being spent-not developing plans for the disabled, but in protecting our own jobs."

Roberts says morale and conditions are improving now at the department, which provides job training for about 100,000 disabled persons a year and has 2,500 employes and a budget of $88 mil-

One reason for improve ment may be that Roberts is modifying his policy of refusing rehabilitative service to the mildly disabled, who once made up most of the department's caseload.

Soderberg says mildly disabled persons with "se vere vocational hand-icaps" will now be ac-cepted for job training. When he first took office, Roberts said that previous directors focused on easy cases to make their record look good and had rejected the so-called vegetables, whose job training was more expen-sive and difficult.

He said his policy would be to handle only the moderately to severely disabled.

At the same time, he eliminated three levels of middle management and 100 other positions, mainly counselors, while increas ing his own office staff nearly 25 per cent. No one was laid off, but many employes wound up with lower-level jobs or quit.

Roberts thinks now he was too abrupt.

"Every statement I made at the beginning reflected the fact I was once rejected by this department as too severely disa-bled to help," he said. "I should have used less strong language."

Soderberg said some of the initial reorganization is being reversed. He said the ratio of supervisors to counselors, which Roberts raised from 5 to 1 to near 10 to 1, will be reduced.

But a middle-manage ment worker quoted by the Bee was skeptical about Roberts' changes.

"Whether or not he's sincere, we don't know," the employe said. "Programs have been severely hurt, and some employes are traumatized. I doubt if he can pull it off.

Meanwhile, a Forest Service spokesman said,

The Justice Department action comes as the Forest Service, under congressional mandate, is moving to tighten its safeguards against collusive

Possible bias seen in horse-racing charities

Approval of horse-racing charity funds, routine in the past, was withheld in some cases Friday by the State Horse Racing Board, which raised the question of possible discriminatory practice.

Gray Davis, Gov. Brown's executive secretary who was appointed by Brown to sit on the board on a temporary basis, moved to delay approval of disbursing much of the $2.5 million to $3 million involved:

Davis said the money is "in a very real sense pub-lic funds" since it affects the state's revenue from parimutual wagering and should be distributed to charities without geo-graphic or ethnic discrimi-

"I GOT the impression the board never looked closely in this area," Davis said in an interview after the board ordered racing associations to pro-vide more detail on charities they serve.

"I will propose at the next meeting that the rac-ing associations develop a plan to disburse charitable funds over a 12-month period so we can determine if the proposed allo-cation is discriminatory and if there are standards to disburse the funds.

"Otherwise it's done piecemeal."

The board approved funds for some hospitals, including Daniel Freeman Hospital near Hollywood in Inglewood. But it withheld approval for such charities as We Tip, an organization that provides drug-abuse information, and the Airport-Marina Counseling Service.

The racing associations' hospital charities were approved, Davis said, because virtually "every one of them in the state is in

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press
Californians who remember the long lines, short tempers and nippy nights caused by the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo may be surprised to learn that a new problem is possible—too much oil.

It is not that there have been any major new

It's not that there have been any major new finds. The difficulty, according to oilmen, govern-ment planners and private analysts, is that West Coast refineries will be unable to handle up to half of the 1.2 million barrels of crude oil per day expected; from the Alaska pipeline when it opens late next

Ironically, it was the reactions of the public, business and the government to the five-month embargo that led in part to the anticipated oil glut.

Ollmen say consumption declined after the embargo because of higher prices and conservation measures. They say this in turn discouraged them from investing in new refineries.
"You only build refineries because you have demand for the products they produce," says Robert Schaadt, vice president of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio (Sohio), which owns 54 per cent of the reserves in Alaska's rich Prudhoe Bay field.

"We felt some basic shifts had occurred after the embargo," he said. "Instead of having large rates of increase in demand, the rates were whittled down to perhaps two or three per cent, instead of the six per cent or so we had been expecting."

One part of the project was the opening of the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve near Taft to

The Dominguez plant of a major chemical company is going into the electricity business, and the local electric power company is delighted. If the idea catches on elsewhere, the public may benefit too; it could mean big savings for residential power users and a cleaner atmosphere, the company The Stauffer Chemical Co. plant, near Wilmington Avenue and Del Amo Boulevard, cranked up its four megawatt "waste-heat" steam turbine generator

An innovation for industrial plants in the area, Stauffer's $3.5 million energy conservation system harnesses waste heat from a sulfuric acid production process to produce steam for the turbine generator. Plant manager Dick Hanle reports the waste heat generator appears to be capable of producing about 90 per cent of the big plant's regular power

"Each day Stauffer operates its new system, it saves us enough power to supply 3,000 or more residential customers and thus reduces our dependence on costly foreign low-sulfur oil," explains Education of Sulface and Control of Su

in sulfur oxide air pollutants for the power producer, with no increase from the chemical firm, as well as an immediate transfer of cost for some of the water Edison needed for steam production from the public

The effects of this single project upon the Long Beach area are small, Edison and Stauffer readily admit, but this project points to a major impact in

"Co-generation, as we call it, has a great potential for energy conservation," Myers says. "Edison is contacting a number of other large and medium-sized industrial customers to locate potential for similar

supply.

The Midwest and East Coast could use the Alaskan crude, but the oil companies haven't figured out kan crude, but the oil companies haven't figured out exactly how to get it there. Although there are several proposed connector pipelines, none exists now. Tankers are another possibility, but oilmen say there aren't enough to handle the surplus.

Another option is an exchange with Japan whereby the Japanese would get some of the Alaskan crude in return for diverting some of their Middle Eastern oil shipments to the United States. Congress, however, prohibited such a swap when it approved construction of the Alaska pipeline in 1973, and oilmen say privately that such an exchange would face severe political opposition.

Atlantic Richfield (ARCO), which owns 20 per cent of the Prudhoe Bay reserves (EXXON also owns 20 per cent, with the remaining six per cent split among a number of companies), says it doesn't anticipate problems in refining its share of the Alas-

"We feel we can handle all our oil," says ARCO Vice Chairman Louis Davis. "We have a refinery in Washington, which we designed for Alaskan crude, that will handle 100,000 barrels a day, and another in Southern California. So we feel we're pretty well equipped to take care of our approximately 20 per

However, Sohio, with the lion's share of the oil, is seeking approval to ship its crude by tanker to Long Beach, where it would be shipped east to Midland, Texas, via a proposed 1,000-mile pipeline.

From Midland, the oil would go through existing

The project would require converting about 800 miles of existing natural gas pipeline for use as a crude oil carrier and constructing 200 miles of new

Sohio says the project could handle almost all of the surplus oil and could be ready in less than 18 months. However, it has come under attack from the state Air Resources Board, which says the tankers and tanks needed for the oil shipments would add some 40 tons of hydrocarbons a day to the air.

Sohio disputes the ARB figures and points to a recent study done by the Port of Long Beach in conjunction with the state Public Utilities Commission, which says the increased hydrocarbon emissions would come to about 1.5 tons per day.

Don Bright, director of environmental affairs for the port, says the ARB figures assume that tankers will "purge," or clean, their oil tanks while still in the harbor.

Bright says a common practice is to purge tanks at sea. Sohio also says it is willing to pay for pollution controls on other emission sources in the Long Beach area in order to offset the tanker emissions and ensure that there is no overall deterioration in air

Whatever means of getting rid of the oil are found, analysts say the problem of a West Coast surplus isn't going to go away soon. They point out that the flow from the Prudhoe Bay is expected to reach 1.8 million barrels a day in 1981.

One study by James D. Hickey, oil and oil services analyst with the stock brokerage firm of Stern, Frank, Meyer & Fox, projects a 714,000 barrel a day surplus on the West Coast in 1981.

In addition, a number of oil companies are drilling off the coasts of California and Alaska, areas generally considered to be among the richest potential oil fields in the world.

If there is a major strike, that production would come on top of the currently projected surplus.

All these factors make it impossible to determine "the amount or duration of the surplus," says Robert

Wycoff, ARCO vice president for corporate planning.
"You have to guess if we'll be successful in the Gulf of Alaska or offshore California," says Wycoff. You have to guess, on the consumption side, if nuclear power is going to be acceptable, or if we'll have to build oil-fired plants to replace nuclear

Despite the surplus on the West Coast, oil executives point out that the United States is, and will remain, an oil-importing nation.

And they claim they're having a little difficulty in persuading the public of the potential problems of

Lake in new shopping center

Seeking a unique environment for The Market Place, its new shopping center in Long Beach, the Bixby Ranch Co. is building the center around a Mexican fountain that feeds a two-thirds-acre lake in the entrance plaza.

Fronting on Pacific Coast Highway south of Westminster Avenue, the 22.5-acre center is within walking distance of Long Beach Marina. Now partially open, the 156,000-square-foot complex will continue opening establishments until next spring.

"We envisioned a unique environment which would invite shoppers to stroll, browse, and enjoy a sense of discovery as they wander through the cen-ter," explained Bill Hall, general manager of The Market Place. "We wanted a specialty shop complex stressing individuality for a diverse range of merchants while maintaining a strong overall theme. We also wanted a center that would encourage night-time browsing, so we sought both theaters and restaurants.

"United Artists Theaters will have a sixplex cinema of unusual design. Now under construction, it's expected to open in December.

"Two top-caliber dinner houses, Bobby McGee's and McKena's Creek, have signed leases and a third restaurant of the same caliber is in the negotiation stage. We already have a Bob's Big Boy and also will have a coffee shop, and a delicatessen.

Richardson Nagy Martin, Newport Beach architect and planner; David C. Miller & Associates, Costa Mesa construction management consultants: and POD, Inc., Orange landscape architect, designed the complex.

Oriented inward, toward the lake system, the buildings feature extended roof overhangs to create shade and an arcade-like feeling that adds to the relaxed environment, encouraging browsing.

Fullerton's days of fear—and 70-0—are over

By JIM McCORMACK Staff Writer

Cal State Fullerton's football progress belongs in the category of You've come a long way, baby.

One season ago Titan coach Jim Colletto actually sensed fear

in the locker room before games with San Diego State and Southern Mississippi.

The fear was understandable.

The Titans lost to San Diego, 58-14, even though the second half was played with a running clock. The Titans were flattened by Southern Mississippi, 70-0.

That's a far cry from the Fullerton team that will be in Veterans Stadium tonight to challenge Long Beach State in a 7:30 Pacific Coast Athletic Association

The contest will be broadcast on KFOX-AM (1280) and KKOP-FM

"We're looking forward to this game," Colletto says of the rematch with Long Beach, a team that drubbed the 1975 Titans, 32-6.

Colletto's first team was 2-9, the current Titans are 3-4-1, "and with three games left, if we do well, we could finish 6-4-1 or 5-5-1, which would be a great improvement," says Colletto.

Colletto was an assistant coach at Pacific before accepting the Fullerton assignment. He knew he was in trouble "on the first day of spring practice." "I knew we had to go through those things, I prepared myself be-fore the season, but there was a purpose in the season, too," says

Colletto. "We wanted to establish guidelines for success."

JIM COLLETTO Fullerton coach

That helped us turn the corner," says Colletto. "It took a lot of effort for those kids to bounce back from a 70-0 beating and shut somebody out.'

THE sophomores on the 1975 team learned a great deal and Colletto and his staff surrounded them with a key assortment of junior college transfers. Suddenly, Fullerton was a competitive football team. This group has a great deal of confidence in itself. We felt we could beat San Diego, and we were close until the final minute. We thought we could beat San Jose."

The Titans trailed San Diego, 20-14, in the final quarter before bowing, 27-14, and battled San Jose on even terms through much of the first half in a game they eventually lost, 20-0. Colletto thinks the Titans can beat Long Beach, too

"I'm a firm believer in John Wooden's theory that you worry about yourself and not your opponent," says Colletto. "We haven't played well for two weeks, but if we can come back and play like we did against San Jose, we'll have just as good a chance of winning as Long Beach does."

Lakewood stuns Wilson, Bruins settle for co-title

By PAUL McLEOD Staff Writer

Certain aspects of football don't show up in statistics, like emotion.

"Emotion is 90 per cent of this game," dejected Wilson High coach Jon Meyer sighed Friday night after witnessing fired-up Lakewood ruin the Bruins' chances to capture the Moore League title outright with a stunning 28-14 upset victory at Stephens Field.

We were up for it. We had to be to keep our playoff hopes alive," said Lancer coach John Ford, who suffered through a 49-0 defeat last week to Millikan. "Naturally we had the advantage emotionally be-cause we were the underdogs. We knew that it would be a heck of a

"We wanted to win this thing outright," quipped Meyer, "but the kids voted before the game that I couldn't suit up."

Instead of capturing its first outright Moore title since 1967, Wilson will have to settle for a cochampionship with Compton, a 35-0 victor over Jordan. Wilson tied El Rancho for the league crown in

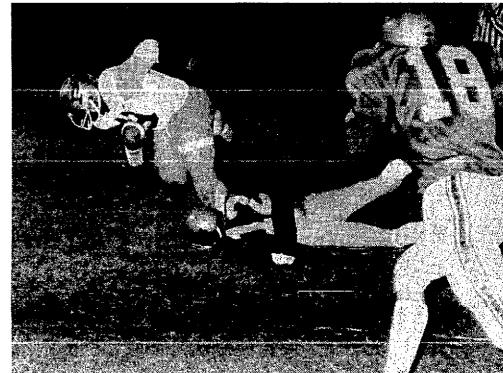

Quarterback Tom Tereschuk set what is believed to be the Moore League's all-time single season completion mark when he hit Ron Chronister with a 10-yard toss with 6:35 remaining in the third quarter. The six-foot, 165-pound junior, who entered the contest needing only seven completions to surpass Mike Rae (1968), completed 11-of-16 attempts for 152 yards. He threw for all four of Lakewood's touchdowns. Tereschuk finished the nine-game regular season with 120 completions. Rae set his mark of 115 completions in 11 games.

The Moore League, in a special meeting late Friday night, determined by draw Compton would be the league's No. 1 representative for the CIF playoffs.

The Tarbabes and Wilson finished in a first-place tie at 3-1-1. Although each league is guaranteed at least two representatives, the draw was necessitated to deter-mine which school the league considers its No. 1 team for seeding purposes and a probable home

Rookie Tatum helps spark Lakers past Pacers, 117-106

By DOUG IVES Staff Writer

Rookie forward Earl Tatum apparently is ready to live up to his potential. Coach Jerry West says the youngster figures prominently in the Lakers' future. The slender 64 newcomer from Marquette played a key role Friday night, joining Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Lucius Allen to provide the Lakers with all the firepower they needed to hand the Indiana Pacers a 117-106 defeat at the Forum.

West kept Tatum on the bench for three games earlier in the season so that the rookie could watch and learn. West used him 23 minutes against Boston two nights ago and had him on the court near the end Friday night when the game was on the line.

Tatum scored 10 of his 14 points in the fourth period, including two jump shot baskets in the final 21/2 minutes after Indiana had cut an 18-point deficit to five.

Tatum agrees. "This league is every bit as tough as I thought it would be," said Tatum. "Éveryone can play." Abdul-Jabbar was the dominant force, as usual, scoring 34 points and grabbing 17 rebounds. He hit 16 of 28 from the field. He leads the NBA in field goal accuracy at 61 per cent and is averaging 29.5 points Allen, off to a slow start, pumped in 28 points, including 22 in the first half. He had 10 points during a Pacers 17-2 to take a lead they never relinquished.

"I haven't been shooting with confidence," the veteran guard admitted. "Maybe this will help." He connected on 11 of 17 from the field and penetrated well.

inor leads Compton to Moore grid title tie

By DAVE WIELENGA Staff Writer

The major force in Compton High's 35-9 victory over Jordan in the schools' Moore League finale Friday night was a "Minor" one.

Darryl Minor, the Tarbabes speedy rough-andtumble running back, pierced the Jordan detense for 159 yards on 30 carries to become the Moore League's only 1,000yard runner this season and help Compton earn a title tie with Wilson and a berth in the CIF playoffs.

Minor entered the contest needing 125 yards to reach the 1,000-yard pinnacle and got those on his first 21 carries. His 22nd attempt was stopped for no gain but his 23rd was a 16-yard jaunt that put him well over the mark.

Although Compton's playoff hopes rested on the game, most of the excitement centered around Minor's quest after the Tarbabes assumed a comfortable 21-0 lead early in the third quarter. In fact, in the second half Compton ran only eight plays other than handoffs to Minor, who gathered only 32 vards on nine carries in the first two periods.

The first-half star was running back Tim Wedlow, who gained 53 yards. Wedlow accounted for 43 of the 59 yards in Compton's first TD drive on its first possession of the game.

His 34-yard run through the heart of the Jordan defense gave the Tarbabes a first down on the Panther two and two plays quarterback Jim Smith bulled in from the one with 6:24 on the clock.

Jordan's defense held Compton in check for more than 16 minutes, including three plays from within the Panther three midway through the second quarter.

However, the Tarbabes took a 14-0 halftime lead with 1:59 to play on a three-yard pass from Smith to Julian Estelle that capped a 55-yard, 8play drive.

Minor took over immediately in the second half, running for 50 yards of a 54-yard scoring drive that opened the period, including the last 20 yards for the TD that made the score 21-0.

Jordan then mounted its biggest threat of the night, riding the crisp passing of quarterback Larry Steuck to a first down on the Compton 10. However, the next four plays lost 12 yards and the Panthers were not heard from again. Smith, who completed his last six passes after missing his first two, connected on three in a row opening the fourth quarter, the last one an 18-yard strike to Estelle for a 28-0 advantage. After trading interceptions by Compton's Lamont Davis and Jordan's Roland Smartt, the Tarbabes finished their scoring with a 46-yard. eight-play drive that

Minor concluded with 1:24 to play on a three yard run.

"We hadn't even discussed it this week," Ford said about the record. "Tom is a fine passer. He's going to be even better by the time he leaves this school."

Tereschuk should thank all-purpose back Ken Hironimus for the record. The 5-11, 153-pound junior was on the receiving end of five Tereschuk passes for 114 yards. Hironimus legged two short tosses into touchdowns, dodging two tacklers on his first score of 23-yards only 2:20 into the game, and faking also got credit for two of the fumble recoveries and one interception; Kendall Williams got the other interception and bobble for Poly.

Only one turnover came deep in Ram territory, that when quarterback Kelvin Jenkins fumbled when jarred at his own 24 on the first play of the third quarter. Hawkins recovered at the 27.

That set up Poly's third TD and a 20-7 lead after the Hares had driven 78 and 97 yards for secondquarter scores and a 12-7 halftime advantage.

The Hares, after missing one kick and having another blocked, saw Tyler make a diving catch from Lonon for two points. Millikan had started out in impressive fashion, going 54 yards on its first possession of the game, Bob Rickenbach taking a pitchout from the nine to score at 6:53. But the Rams' next TD didn't come until 5:43 of the fourth quarter when Jenkins passed 20 yards to Darryl Hall.

Reserve forward Kermit Washington sparkled again, scoring 10 points and grabbing 11 rebounds in 23 minutes.

"He's getting better every game," said West.
If Washington and

Tatum continue to impress, where does that leave Don Ford and Cazzie Russell, the starting forwards?

"I'm going to use a lot of people," West said. Russell shot poorly (4 for 13) for the third game in a row, but Ford per-formed well, hitting 6 of 11

them," said West. "We are better off when we run, but we aren't a concarries and scored twice; sistently good fast-break-Ponce had the other two ing team because we don't pass the ball wellenough."

SHORT SHOTS: All four Laker home wins have been by 11 points or more while all oil their losses have been, by five points or less. Tatum admits that he is weak defeisively but says he likes to be physical. "You can use your hands in this league and I like that," he said. He had six steals Friday night. The Lakers shot 50 per cent from the field, the fifth time they have hit that figure this season. Mack Calvin missed 5 of 6 shots and is shooting only-31 per cent. Says West: "He's a much better shooter than that. But he's hesitant on his shots, and so is Ford." Indiana's Don Buse had 11 assists and 4 steals. He leads the NBA in thefts. COACH DON JAMES Praying for rain his team to know the truth — and nothing but the truth — as it prepares for its game today (Channel 7, 9:30 a.m.) against Alabama in the first half of a nationally televised doubleheader.

Notre Dame coach Dan Devine wants

A Southwest Conference tussle between Texas A&M and Arkansas follows

"They are quicker, stronger and more skilled than we are," says Devine of the Crimson Tide, who are favored by one. "We might as well face up to that.

"The outstanding football teams line up and tell the other guy what they are going to do, then do it. We aren't strong enough physically to do that. We have to trick people. That's not the way to do it.

Maybe we've run out of tricks." It is only the fourth time in the last 48 years that the Crimson Tide has ventured out of the deep South for a regular season football game — and the first time the tèam has ever played in "the football capital of the world," as Alabama's Bear

Bryant refers to South Bend, Ind., the home of the Irish.

He still has them - but they've been tempered by what he has seen.

"You can't beat the four California teams without balance," says James, whose Huskies have lost to UCLA, California and Stanford, and face USC today at 1:30 p.m. in the Coliseum. "You can't do it with a straight running attack and you can't do it with a straight passing

What we're looking for is what John McKay had with his great Trojan teams. People thought of them as running teams, and they were awesome in that respect. But they also could throw the ball efficiently.

As a 20½-point underdog going into today's game, James is looking to "re-duce the physical differences between our team and the Trojans."

"We have so many injuries on the left side of our offensive line that I don't think we can control the ball by run-ning," he says. "I think USC compares from a physical standpoint with some of the great teams I've gone up against as a head coach and an assistant in the Mid-America, Big Ten, Southeast and Big Eight Conferences.

"To balance the equities, we'll have to concentrate on throwing the football. I realize that goes against my theory of balance, but we have no choice this

James isn't sure whether he'd rather face Ricky Bell or Charles White at tail-

"They're both so gol-darned good," he says. "If it's muddy, I'd rather face White. If not, well, Bell can do it all, regardless of the turf."

At one time last winter, James thought he would have White in his backfield this season.

"He visited our school and had us excited for awhile," says the Husky coach. "I thought we were going to get him."

In preparation for today's game, James has been in contact with friends in the coaching ranks whose teams have played the Trojans this season.

"I talked with one of the Missouri coaches," he reports. "Missouri beat USC, 46-25, but the coach told me that even when they had a big lead, they didn't feel they were winning.

"I think what happened to the Trojans was a lack of continuity between staff and players in that opening game. I wouldn't bet on Missouri if those teams played again.

James isn't giving up on the Washington situation.

"We're going to get better in the future," he says. "We're going to strive for that good balance and I think we'll get the players who can do that for us.

Meanwhile, he must face the nation's No. 3 team with a crippled squad. "The 20½ points aren't enough," he says. "I hope it rains like hell."

Bellflower, Warren win championships

Downey tripped Bucs stop by Bears, 14-9

By DENNIS BROSTERHOUS

Mark Jurovich's 10-yard touchdown pass to Dave Doski midway through the third quarter gave Warren High a 14-9 decision over Downey in the San Gabriel Valley League title decider at Cerritos College Friday

The victory assures the Bears of further action next week in the CIF playoffs but Downey, in a deadlock for second place, is in a wait-and-see position.

A near-capacity turnout saw Downey score first early in the second period on a 58-yard drive culminated

by a Brad Risser-to-Kevin Hughes 10-yard pass over the middle. Scott Vernoy rushed in to block the conversion attempt, keeping the score at 6-0.

Warren retaliated on its next possession, grinding out 80 yards in 12 plays. The only pass play on the march was the 25-yard scoring strike from Jurovich to split end Wayne Iba. Scott Darrow's kick gave the Bears a 7-6 advantage 6:19 before intermission.

Hughes, who also played defensive back and re-turned punts, intercepted a Jurovich pass at the Viking 44. David Shuck carried the ball four times and Risser ran it three times to bring the ball to the Warren 11 with 15 seconds remaining in the half. From there, Jeff Council booted a 28-yard field goal to make it 9-7 at halftime.

Warren took the second-half kickoff, moved the ball exclusively on the ground to the Downey 10 and again utilized the pass to score the game-winner. Doski made a lunging grab in the end zone to cap the scoring.

Downey had ample opportunity to overcome the deficit in the final 16 minutes of the contest. Hughes, who caught five passes for 36 yards, returned a punt late in the third quarter to the Warren 42. A personal foul was called on the runback, putting the Vikings withing striking distance 27 yards from the goal line.

However, three runs gained four yards and a Council field goal try sailed wide.

Downey also made a last-ditch effort in the final four minutes. The Vikings drove from their own 14-yard line to the Warren 38 with 37 seconds remaining in the game. But Curt Steele picked off a desperation pass at his own goal line and it was an easy matter for the Bears to run out the clock.

Warren, with the victory, also captured the mythical title of the city of Downey. The Bears improved their league mark to 4-1 (5-3-1 overall), while Downey's record is 3-2 (4-5).

JC NOTES: Long Beach City College is idle tonight, wrapping up its season next. Friday hosting East Los Angeles. Over-all, the Vikings will finish with their third consecutive losing season. A new alignment might help LBCC, although present plans call for football powers El Camino and Bakerskield to remain with LBCC. Saddleback has not been scored on in its last 18 quarters. With one week remaining before their Metropolitan Conference showdown, pacesetters Bakersfield and Pierce Colleges face stiff tests tonight.

El Camino (3-1, 5-2 overall) is a potential stumbling block for visiting Bakersfield (4-0, 7-1 overall) and the Warriors figure in the title picture, too. An El Camino upset win tonight, coupled with a Bakersfield victory next week over Pierce,—assuming Pierce gets by Pasadena — would force the Metro into a three-way deadlock. A conference vote then would be required to determine the Metropolitan representative to the Potato Bowl against College of the Sequoias of the Valley Conference.

Pasadena, although 2-6 over-all and winless in Metro play, has caused its share of problems for opponents. The Lancers' biggest margin of loss in the conference was seven with the conference was s

McDonald on Bucks' roster

MILWAUKEE (AP) -The Milwaukee Bucks Friday activated 6-foot-8 forward Glenn McDonald, the Boston Celtics' No. 1 draft choice in 1974 who was cut by the National Basketball Association champions last month.

McDonald, who had been working out with the Bucks for two weeks, replaces three-year veteran forward Kevin Restani, expected to be sidelined at least 10 days because of a broken rib. Restani was placed on the injured list and must sit out at least five games.

Restani, who has been starting, was injured when kicked in the chest in a game at Cleveland Nov. 4. He is averaging 8.8 points and 7.3 rebounds per game. McDonald, former collegiate star at Long Beach State, averaged 13 minutes per game in 75 games with Boston last season. He averaged 5.6 points and 1.8 rebounds per game.

"Kevin has been our most consistent player," general manager Wayne Embry said. "He has been playing the best basketball of his career, but we're fortunate to find a man of McDonald's caliber available. We've always regarded him highly when he was with the Celtics,

and we feel he can help

McDonald had been considered the successor to aging Boston star John Havlicek. McDonald's re-lease by the Celtics and the fact no one had picked him up for several weeks was something of a surprise.

49er poloists host UCSB

Long Beach State, unbeaten in seeding games for the Pacific Coast Ath-letic Association water polo tournament, hosts the conference's No. 2 team, UC Santa Barbara, in a 7 o'clock contest at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool tonight.

The 49ers have won six seeding matches and the Gauchos have lost once in six contests. Santa Barbara's Russ Hafferkamp is the No. 2 scorer in the PCAA with 70 goals. Long Beach State's Paul Wawr-zynski has scored 50.

The PCAA tournament will be hosted by Pepper-dine University next Friday and Saturday. The winner of that tournament qualifies for the NCAA championships at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 27-28.

PALO ALTO - Long Beach State's two-year reign as cross country champion of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association is expected to end today when conference teams compete as part of the District 8 meet at Stanford University.

Baja race delayed

ENSENADA, Mex. (AP) Torrential rains washed out the start of the Baja 1,000 kilometer race Friday, and drivers are to meet this morning to decide when the race will begin. Some three inches of rain fell within an eighthour period early Friday, and the start of the race was rescheduled from 6:30 a.m. (PST) until 10 a.m. But officials, who had moved the race's starting line from two miles east of here to Ojos Negros, 21 miles east of town, finally declared the course unsafe and postponed the race.

Torrents of water which made the streets of Ensenada impassable caused the move to Ojos Negros. The 235 racing vehicles had earlier been moved out of the the city, since water had risen to three feet in the impound area.

Officials said at least 10 blocks in the city were inundated, with water from two to six feet deep in the streets.

One would expect Heston to be awe-inspiring in person; and he is, like his bigger-than-life roles, Moses, Ben-Hur, Mi-chelangelo and that bunch.

New apartment era becoming reality

"In an article written two years ago for a leading apartment industry magazine, I predicted rent in-creases of 10-1 per year; a shortage of units, thus higher occupancy; an increasing need for professional management; and the start of a new era in apartment living."

Coy K. Herring, C.P.M. Real Estate Operations Manager of Bixby Ranch Company, Long Beach, noted that his predictions are now reality.

The past two years rent increases of garden type units have pushed rents to a level only seen in huxury hi-rise units a few years ago. Increased operating expenses have demanded these increases which have been accepted by residents because of their awareness of rising costs and because the price of renting is still a very good value.

Surveys show that more renters with the "Ameri-can Dream" of home ownership purchased their first home or condominium this past year than normal. However, many bome owners became apartment dwellers because of decreasing family formations and to escape the high cost of maintaining homes fueled by sky rocketing real estate taxes.

The high rate of occupancy enjoyed presently is a direct result of practically non-existent development the past two years. Other cities of the country such as Houston and Dallas have a considerable numer of units under construction. Substantial development here could not possibly ease our demand in the next four to five years.

In order to stimulate development of apartments and avert a critical shortage of shelter, several things must happen. Since construction costs will not go down, financing must. Our federal government must stimulate new methods of financing. Attitudes of enviroumentalists, no-growth advocates, etc. must be compromised to meet the realities of economics. Governing bodies such as planning commissions, building departments and city councils, must stream line their time consuming, bureaucratic processes, thereby decreasing that portion of costs related to the initial development phase.

The tax shelter benefits for investors must not be allowed to disappear at the whims of politicians. Rent' control must never be allowed to undermine and deteriorate the standard of ownership thus apartment energy and products which conserve all utilities will be an absolute must in order to decrease the increasing cost of development and ongoing operating cost.

Professional property managers should be teamed with architects and other members of the development team to provide input of operational expertise in the study of economics of alternates.

The past two years, the need for professionalism in management has been evidenced by ever-increasing numbers of persons enrolled in seminars everywhere.

More and more owners of all size complexes are realizing that qualified, professional management pays by reducing turnover rates, controlling budgets and having a knowledge of the market. Qualified on-site managers as well as property managers are in de-mand more than ever. This demand will also grow

The necessity of rental increases of 8-10% will continue as a result of inflationary maintenance and utility cost — plus, of course, advances in taxes. However, the spiraling cost of home ownership will continue to be the major factor in the growing era of apartment living.

Today, education is a "first" in management, and marketing of the apartment complexes, for the manager is a constant observer of the State and National Civil Rights laws. Therefore, owners or agents for the investor are constantly engaged in upgrading their mana-

Educated managers

H you were not a graduate, the opportunity awaits you, according to Eugene L. Zechmeister, CAM Academic chairman and executive vice president of the Apartment Association, California Southern Cities.

Three and a half years ago a certified apartment managers education and training program was written by the vice president of the Apart-ment Association, California Southern Cities, and was approved by both state and national Apartment Associations.

The course of instruction consists of two semesters in a formal junior college or an adult education high school sponsored by the Apartment Association and the completion of nine seminars under the guidance of the Association and a comprehensive examination for candidates to receive certification.

At the present time the Apartment Association, California Southern cities sponsors courses in Cypress Junior College, Tor-rance, Miraleste (Manhattan Beach), ABC High Schools in the Artesia-

Along with the eco-nomic problems of unemployment and inflation which Americans must contend with, the general shortage of housing is also becoming a very serious matter.

And the ones who suffer most are those who must make ends meet on a fixed income - such as senior citizens.

How much to invest?

By BETTYE LEE MASTIN Ridder News Service

How much money is it wise to spend on an apartment?

The answer is lots only if you own the building. Otherwise, the best rule is to put money only in those things you can take with you when you move.

Follow the rule, and you still can have an apartment that is attractive and different, that looks as if you, not a department store dummy, live there

Any apartment can be a beginning point, a place to assemble things you'll want to live with always.

Here are some do's and don'ts

1. Don't spend money on elaborate built-ins. The landlord might object. Even if he or she doesn't, you can't take them with you

2. Do buy free-standing wall units that can be disassembled for use in another location. Modern etagieres are a good idea. Or shop for shelving in abandoned store buildings. You can build a free-standing frame.

3. Don't hang expensive wallpaper. The landlord might not like it.

4. Do investigate new strippable and self-sticking papers that peel off when you wish. That way, the landlord doesn't enter into it

5. Don't install wall-to-wall carpeting.

6. Do look for area rugs.

7. Don't invest in expensive draperies. Suppose you're transferred:

8. Do think about rollup blinds, window shades or printed sheets. You can spray-paint blinds or shades. Sheets cost little and are available in smashing designs.

9. Don't buy appliances unless it is absolutely necessary. They are hard to move.

. It was out of this apparent need for housing accomodations for the elderly, that Chateau Active Retirement Living, a north Long Beach retirement hotel located at 3100 E. Artesia Blvd., was created.

For one low monthly amount, the Chateau provides complete and exceptional living accomodations - everything a person could want and need.

"The Chateau offers a very logical, reasonable atternative lifestyle," said Ronald Weisel, administrator of the Chateau. "But we provide more than a roof with food, we offer our residents an exciting, adventurous life."

For the modest amount of from $290 a month for a semi-private room, and from $495 a month for a private room, residents also réceive three delicious meals a day and snacks, a well-planned recreational program, 24hour care and supervision, plus the comforts of three recreation rooms, a luxury living area, two outdoor terraces, and perhaps most important, friends.

The Chateau is associated with the fast-growing Regency Inns of America Corporation, which comprise a network of retirement residences.

When the decision was made to go ahead with construction of the Chateau, much time and effort was put into finding a location which would be practical and convenient.

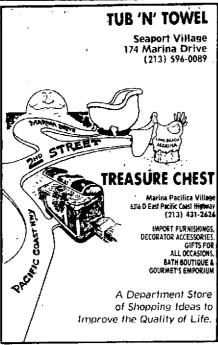

A Harvard graduate was brought in for sitelocation, choosing the present place of the Chateau. As a result, the Chateau is close to bus lines, recreational facilities, major freeways, and even has a park right across the street.

To attain a particular home-like "feeling", a professional interior decorating firm was hired to make the Chateau both pleasing to the eye, and practical to everyday living.

Each room is colorcoordinated, and in acsthetic harmony with the lobby, recreation rooms and other public areas.

The Chateau has open house every Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., and invites the public to at-

First on the list is to look for a doorman or resident manager, and a buzzer system or lobby-to-partment-TV system. Ask if the locks were

New living center replaces living room

The living room is gone and the 'living center' has taken its place. That's the apartment where you entertain, lounge, dine, relax — use for so many functions. The best way to decorate is with a modular pit grouping — they've eliminated the boxy, sharp angular look. They can help you seat more people for parties because they take advantage of often unused corner space and eliminate space-wasting arms. By Stratford.

Consumerism and the renter

By BEN SLATER

What are the two main things most of us as consumers look for in anything we purchase or rent?

I believe they are quality and service. This idea holds true regardless of what we are buying or what

The quality of anything may be determined by the price range we are paying, but we should at least be able to expect that amount of quality for what we are willing to spend. However, on the other hand, service should be maintained regardless of price.

These two items are the most important factors in maintaining the highest occupancy in your apartments with the lowest maintenance costs per unit per year.

In discussing the reasons for tenant moves, tenants, managers and owners seem to agree poor maintenance and service cause for more moves than any

Langslet & Son, Inc. luxury condominium community in Long Beach.

Among the first to move in were Les and Mary Stucker, formerly of nearby Park Estates.

"We selected Parkview Terrace because it met our needs in a number of extremely important areas," Mrs. Stucker said.

"We've both lived in Long Beach all our lives, and when we felt it was time to move into a small, more easily maintained home, we knew we wanted to stay in the area," she continued.
"Actually, we had planned this move a few years from now, but when we saw Parkview Terrace only blocks from our old neighborhood, we knew we'd found the ideal new home."

Other aspects of Parkview Terrace that appealed to the Stuckers included the security and privacy of the community, the over-all beauty of the oasis-like recreation area, the abundant landscaping, and the serenity and quietness of a community that is centrally located.

An extremely active retired couple, the Stuckers are avid golfers, and they obviously appreciate the facilities at Recreation Park's famous 18-hole goli course which is located directly across the street from Parkview Terrace.

In addition to their golf interests, the Stuckers are bicycle enthusiasts and they regularly attend the open-air-concerts in Recreation Park. Mr. Stucker particularly enjoys the large jacuzzi that is a part of the opulent recreational complex.

"One of the most appealing aspects was the close up and leave' possibilities of Parkview Terrace," Mr. Stucker said, "We travel quite a lot these days, and we really feel secure about leaving our home since there is a total security-system, and all exterior maintenance is taken care of whether we're here or not.'

Priced from $57,900 homes currently available at Parkview Terrace offer two bedrooms, two baths, and such additional features as wet bars, central heating, gas-lighted fireplaces, plush wall-to-wall carpeting, and dramatic private

There are only twenty luxury homes unsold at Parkview Terrace, according to Michael Engle, vice president for C. Robert Langslet & Son, Inc. New residents may move in just in time for the holidays.

To reach Parkview Terrace, take the San Diego Freeway to the Lakewood Boulevard exit. Go south to Los Alamitos Circle and continue south on Pacific Coast Highway to Anaheim Street. Turn right on Anaheim. The development is located at 4835 E. Anaheim St.

The greening of apartments

No matter what your apartment scene, there's something green that will grow there. It's a matter of picking the right plant and giving it proper care.

Your new charge will like either a clay or plas-tic pot, but be sure to cover the drainage holes with a piece of broken pot before setting the plant. Use premoistened potting soil and firm it lightly about the roots. Most indoor plants prefer bright light but not direct sun.

If foliage turns light green to yellowish, give the plant less light; if flowering plants bloom poorly and have a deep green foliage, move them gradually into stronger light. To keep growth even, give pots a quarter turn each time you water them.

Feed your plants with liquid or soluble plant food once each month during the bright days of spring, summer, and fall. Give them little, if any, food during the dark days of winter. To avoid possible root damage, feed plants when the soil is still moist from the last watering. The individual requirements of the plant and the size pot it's growing in dictate watering patterns, but the general rule is to let the soil dry out a little between waterings. When you do water, soak the soil ball to its center. If you use a watering can, let the water run slowly until a little shows up in the pot saucer. If you submerge pots rim-deep in a tub of water, leave them there

Pests can be controlled by spraying foliage lightly each week with a houseplant insecticide. Isolate any plant showing a build-up of insects and spray twice a week until free of pests. Plants like fresh, moist air with no sudden temperature changes

Some plants grow particularly well in apart-ments. Dieffenbachia grows best in moderate light and requires plenty of water and regular leeding. If lower leaves begin to die one by one, the plant is probably root-bound and should be shifted to a larger pol. Browning of leaf margins and tips result from allowing the soil to become too dry. Trim off the brown spots and watch watering very closely.

Ferns like full light from a north window or indirect light from other windows. Keep room temperature at 65 degrees or above, and syringe foliage with water occasion-

Insects and pests on the plant are difficult to control because of its sensitivity to all chemicals, but a few can be used half-strength if the soil is moist before you spray the plant. Drying of tips can be caused by allowing the soil to become too dry or by lack of humidity in the air. Tip browning is often the result of fungus action. Cut away and burn the infected foliage and spray with a fungicide. Avoid getting moisture on the foliage.

Ivy does best in bright light and humid, cool air. Brown spots on the leaves can be caused by bacteria or fungi. Remove and burn the leaves at the first sign of trouble, keep ioliage dry, and increase air movement around the plant.

Palms enjoy good light but tolerate reduced light some distance from windows. Feed each month from April through August, and wash fronds with soapy water occasionally. Dead spots or margins on leaves are often the result of moving a plant too quickly from low-light intensity into full light.

Philodendrons withstand adverse growing conditions better than many other plants. They should be kept slightly on the moist side and fed once a month. They'll tolerate heavy shade.

Other good apartment plants include rubber plants, which can tolerate poor light but need moist soil; shelflera, which can survive adverse growing conditions and is bothered by few insects or diseases; and eacti, which require little watering.

The apartment busi- cape with a cowering tenness is perhaps the industry that has suffered more than others from bad image overhang.

Old time movies portraved Simon Legree as the landlord in the black ant at his mercy. The notorious conduct of many landlords throughout the years has been conducive to that feudalism image.

For decades most building operations were geared to dealing with the 2% of the tenants who were the deadbeats, trou-blemakers, and chronic defacers of rental property.

Not so today. In the past 10 years property apartment associations and developers have made vast strides in causing income property owners to do an about face in their attitudes and actions toward the consumer -- the renter.

In the late 60's and early 70's, large apartment communities began to dot the cities and suburban areas through-out the United States. Equipped with multi-million dollar recreation facilities, lavish interior appointments and acres of green belts and foliage, a new and sophisticated marketing program began to emerge.

Tenants became resimanagement companies, dents, landlords became managers — and "com-plaints" came to be recognized as service requests.

Investors and developers began to take a look at the successes of other consumer-oriented industries and recognized that those with the highest degree of success were those who were product, service, and customer ori-They noted that retail

merchandisers geared their sales training programs

They noted that retail merchandisers geared their sales training programs toward the majority of the consumers. The majority being the good credit risks, the honest good citizen Joes and Sues who came to buy wares from the retailer who made him feel special, welcome and gave him a good product at a fair price.

The apartment industry noted that from a market. study of successful gas stations in the area, many auto owners would drive miles out of their way to purchase from a station where they were greeted by their name, given prompt courteous service in a clean and friendly environment. They further noted that price was less of a consideration if all the other amentities were present.

From these observations; the successful apartment operation today is a composite of the favorable attributes of other-industries.

Like Sears and Goodyear Ties, the professional manager acknowledged that some losses will occur from the poor risk consumer - but be has learned to build these losses into the operation and to conduct his busi-ness to fulfill the needs of 98% of the market instead of the unfavorable 2%.

It is unfortunate that changes in the industry were deferred far too long and tenant unions and consumer groups banned together and sponsored legislation to control the unruly land-lord to the extent that most of the laws passed resulted in an "over kill" — far more restrictive than the consumer intended.

Most owners recognize that they waited too long to make voluntary changes in eviction procedures, deposit refunds, building maintenance and housekeeping general standards. As a result, today they must go beyond the call of duty to improve their image and to force the unscrupulous, lackadaisical apartment operator to change his ways - or change his business to avoid further bureaucratic maneuvers by politicans to take his right of private enterprise.

The reputable owners

today - and they are in the majority - just as the reputable residents number in the majority are concerned, conscientious, consumer oriented individuals who admit to the public that they are not now - nor have they ever been operating the apartment business as a non-profit organization.

Profits are marginal in todays atmosphere of inflation, rising taxes and operating expenses, and they are becoming more proficient in investing their dollars in products and services that will give the most comfort and appeal to the resident. They are further reserving their right to strict credit checking procedures so that they reduce their risk and ultimately their expense of operating apartments.

The apartment seeker today is not offered an apology for lengthy credit applications. Every other industry from autos to furniture companies require information of their credit customer that will assist them in minimizing their bad debt losses, thus keeping product prices under control.

"The customer is always right" is a sound, workable, and profitable attitude - but it is attained only through proper education and a proper sense of responsi-bility of our valued consumer - the rent payer, the resident," according to Happy Kelly, Vice President of Bayco Financial Corporation in Torrance.

Ms. Loughran is an artist, colorist,

There's plenty of room to spread out in America. The population density in this country is just 60 per square mile. Density is lowest in the West, 21; and highest in the metropolitan Northeast,

But figures like these can be misleading. In Washington, D.C., 11,848 persons occupy the average square mile of real

lar figures. High rise apartments, co-ops, and condominiums fill the need for af-

living units one on top of the other meets

opinion of some - fails esthetically by producing box-like apartments lacking in

tions of peace and assurance that come from nature. Design sources include patterns carved by wind and water in sand, water illies, shells, soft leaf and flower forms

"Humanity, a sense of self, access to nature and natural materials are essential to the living environment," she states. Believing this, she has crafted Artisan's rugs not only in natural designs, but in natural yarns, thick, ropy wools imported from Argentina (the prized Buenos Aires-6 variety), New Zealand, and India. The rugs are hand-tufted by craftsmen in Port-au-Prince in the Republic of Haiti.

This crafts approach has advantages that Ms. Loughran is quick to point out. One is the ability to make rugs to any size at the same per-square-foot cost as regularly stocked sizes. Another is the homeowners' option of selecting designs in any combination of Artisan's collection of 16 colors — again at no premium. So, an 8'-by-10' rug in heather and ivory in the store can become a 9'4"-by-13'6" in sun yellow, apricot, and pecan for a special room; this without the payment of a surcharge for custom work.

One of the major fac-tors that separates the property manager and the poor property manager is his or hers ability to purchase the proper values needed to be efficient.

To outline the proper purchasing psychology, is to strike that delicate balance between need and want, as well as price and availability.

First, determine if you have a need. This is done by weighing the consequences if the item is not purchased - it will cost more to allow the faucet

Morever, hand-crafted materials have an increasingly important role to play in "humanizing" - in Ms. Lough-ran's word - those boxy apartments that dominate city living. As an example, Ms. Loughran offers a bedroom, lotally devoid of architectural detail, in which fiber art wall hangings, ferns, and birch branches mounted on clips and lighted from beneath provide natural interest. Ms. Loughran's accent rug, "Tidal Marks," in pale naturals, straw, dritwood, and cloud white appears to float on the black vinyl floor. The bed lies gracefully on a recessed base. Painted walls are sweet chocolate.

Compare this against a want for new pottery around the pool because it will make the area prettier, even though it may take more time to maintain the area. None of the above are wrong, provided, you have it within the financial capability of the property to afford your possible needs as well as wants.

Second, searching for the best value. This done by comparing the prices for the desired items between various suppliers. It is of major importance that you know the proper questions to ask the supplier so he can best advise you as to alternate ways of accomplishing your goals.

Simply tell him what your objective is, and ask what he recommends. Take the suppliers recommendations and list them.

A, you can decide on his best value, and B, you can compare them with suggestions from other sources. Value is merely a comparison of what an item costs, how long it will last and will you get the required effect. There are times when you must shift your requirements to fit what is available in order to get the best

Thirdly, choosing the proper vendors. The housing business is the largest industry in the country. Billions of dollars are spent annually by property managers just to purchase replacement and repair items.

Knowing this, people have begun and maintain business specifically designed to fulfill the needs of property managers. These suppliers are not normally the local retail stores, because, property managers are repeat buyers, they are entitled to a lower price and they will buy a bigger volume. as well as more often.

These specific suppliers concentrate not only on price, but on service as well. The proper supplier
